Report Hoffa Strangled Soon After Vanishing

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal investigators have information that former Teamsters Union boss James R. Hoffa was strangled in the basement of a private residence only four minutes away from the restaurant where he was last seen, according to Newsweek.

The magazine said Sunday investigators soon will have enough evidence for indictments. The FBI, Newsweek said, believes Hoffa was murdered on July 30, 1975, the day he disappeared from outside the Machus Red Fox Restaurant in Bloomfield Township.

Hoffa was the victim of a meticulously planned execution carried out by hit men from outside Michigan, Newsweek said. The magazine said Hoffa was garroted in the basement of a private residence only four minutes away from the Machus Red Fox.

It said federal investigators are satisfied that reputed Detroit Mafia figure Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone and New Jersey Teamster Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano were not at the scene of the killing.

Newsweek said Charles L. "Chuckie" O'Brien, 42, who refers to himself as Hoffa's foster son, unwittingly set Hoffa up for the slaying and was outraged with himself for having done so.

Giacalone, Provenzano and O'Brien all were subpoenaed by a federal grand jury in Detroit investigating Hoffa's disappearance and all refused to answer the grand jury's questions.

O'Brien, however, told the FBI that on the day Hoffa disappeared he drove in the vicinity of the Machus Red Fox restaurant to deliver a fish to the home of Teamster official Robert Holmes. O'Brien used a car belonging to Giacalone's son, Joseph, to make the delivery.

The car has been seized by the FBI and trained police dogs detected Hoffa's scent in the back seat and trunk of the car. O'Brien says he knows nothing of the Hoffa disappearance.

Hoffa told his family and acquaintances the day he disappeared that he was on his way to meet Giacalone and Provenzano, who both deny they had an appointment with Hoffa that day.

Giacalone's alibi is that he spent the afternoon the day Hoffa vanished at the Southfield Athletic Club and a lawyer's office several miles from the Machus Red Fox.

Provenzano's alibi is that last July 30, he was in the gameroom of a Teamsters hall in Union City, N.J., where he spent the afternoon chatting and playing cards. Provenzano has since been made secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters local in Union City.

Erosion Fight Leaves Ford Kin Penniless

LUDINGTON, Mich. (AP) — A sister-in-law of First Lady Betty Ford says her long legal battle with the two biggest electric utilities in Michigan over lakefront erosion has cost her $60,000, all the money she had in the world. Mrs. Christie Bloomer, 50, a white-haired widow, recalled details of her three-year legal battle to recover damages from Consumers Power Co. and Detroit Edison Co. for erosion damage to her property. She says the damage was caused by water from a leaky man-made lake and adjacent dike the companies built for a giant power generating facility.

The utilities won a suit filed by Mrs. Bloomer and Consumers Power proceeded to file a cross-suit against her and collected court costs.

CHRISTIE BLOOMER
She sued and lost

The former Ludington travel agency operator said she has had numerous personal letters from members of the Ford family and that she called her plight to the President's attention.

"Last summer, I wrote to Jerry Ford," she said. "Being a shirt-tail relative, I did not know what else to do. He turned it over to his counsel who got the Federal Power Commission to make an investigation."

She said FPC investigators said there were erosion problems caused by the company's huge hydroelectric plant on Lake Michigan but that the company was working to correct them.

"I don't know Jerry," said Mrs. Bloomer. She married Betty Ford's brother, Robert, in 1968. She said he died three years later and that Mrs. Ford attended the funeral, although then Congressman Gerald Ford did not make it.

Mrs. Bloomer said her troubles began shortly after Consumers Power and Detroit Edison Co. opened the hydro plant, the world's largest, in the Ludington area. She said she had over $100,000 invested in her home and a gift shop which used to be 50 feet from the waterline before seepage from the plant developed.

She said that the shoreline eroded and she had to vacate her home in 1972 after a Consumers executive told her the house might be unsafe because of cracks and bluff erosion.

She said the Consumers official, whom she did not name, admitted he had made such statements but

MORE THAN 90 HELD CAPTIVE

Egypt Parleys With Skyjackers

CAIRO (AP) — Seven gunmen held more than 90 passengers and crew members hostage aboard an Egyptian airliner in southern Egypt today and threatened to blow up the plane unless they were given fuel to fly outside Egypt, an airline spokesman said.

The hijackers — five Libyans and two Algerians, according to Interior Ministry sources at Luxor Airport — negotiated in sweltering 100-degree-plus heat with officials led by Prime Minister Mamdouh Salem.

The gunmen were also demanding the release of five persons jailed in Egypt in connection with two assassination attempts, the sources said.

The hijackers claim to be members of a new organization called the Abdel Nasser Movement, named after the late Egyptian president.

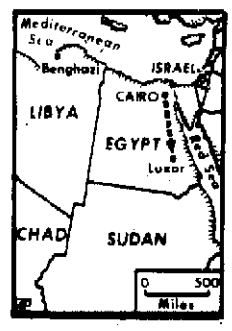

The gunmen commandeered the Egyptair plane after it took off from from Cairo for Luxor, 448 miles to the south. The semi-official Middle East News Agency reported the hijackers ordered the pilot to fly to Benghazi, in neighboring Libya. The report said the pilot told the gunmen he didn't have enough fuel and the plane landed at Luxor.

Security forces immediately surrounded the craft and Salem flew to Luxor to take charge of the negotiations.

An Interior Ministry communique said 96 passengers were listed on the plane's manifest, including the hijackers, and the Boeing 737 had a crew of five. Fourteen of the passengers were Arabs, the airline said, and most of the others were French and Japanese tourists.

An official at the New Winter Palace Hotel in Luxor told The School Burns 2nd Time In Two Years

SINGER, La. (AP) — "It just makes you want to sit down and squall," said Deputy Fire Marshal E. J. Welborn after the local high school burned for the second time in three years.

Both fires occurred within a week before the opening of the school year and Welborn said both were deliberately set. The latest fire began before dawn Saturday.

Welborn said someone apparently burglarized the school's administrative office Saturday, stole a small amount of money and started a fire to cover the tracks.

Singer High School, in Beauregard Parish northwest of Lake Charles, had been rebuilt at a cost of $900,000 after the old school was destroyed in 1974.

A pupil at the school was charged with arson after the 1974 fire but was cleared of the charge, Welborn said. No arrests have been made in the latest case.

"It's a shame," he said. "Here the parish floats a bond issue to build a school in this little community and they get to use it only one year."

Fall classes had been scheduled to start today, but school officials said they would have to meet Tuesday to try to find a place for the school's 400 pupils.

Damage from the latest fire was estimated at about $600,000, but Welborn said that was "just a ballpark estimate, and could be $200,000 to $300,000 high or low."

The school is a steel-frame structure built in three wings. The front wing, containing the offices, was gutted and the classroom wings were damaged by smoke and water

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Calling Up The Big Debate

Since the Lincoln-Douglas debates of 1858 the American public has been fascinated with the thought of candidates for major offices arguing their positions face to face as opposed to belaboring one another at a distance on their respective campaign trails.

The assumption is that the confrontation will lay before the audience a clear, unmistakable picture of who believes what and how he or she would go about solving the problems of the country or the state, depending upon what level the candidates are rested.

Heightening the intrigue is that the Lincoln-Douglas discussions did alert the citizenry to the awesome issue of that age.

Douglas won the election for Senator from Illinois because most of those in the audiences approved his theory that slavery or emancipation should be left to local option.

Lincoln lost at the ballot box because the listeners did not yet understand the peril to the nation if every state or region could travel its own path on any given question. Even the abolitionists in Illinois withheld supporting him because he played down the emotions aroused by forced labor as secondary to the deeper question of national unity.

Senator Baker Asked The Really Key Question

Reminiscent of his oft-repeated question from the Watergate committee, "What did the President know, and when did he know it?" is the challenge Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. threw not only to the opposition, in his keynote address to the Republican national convention, but to his own party as well.

"The issue this year, quite simply, is this: How much government is too much government? How many laws are too many laws? How much taxation is too much taxation? How much coercion is too much coercion?"

Those are ageless questions, dating back to man's first feeble efforts at self-government. They are questions which have become central to the American experiment. A generation which has witnessed unprecedented growth both in scope and burden of its government wants some answers. They are questions which should be heard repeatedly in this campaign.

The debates, however, did two years later in the Presidential campaign bring to the forefront the issue of sectionalism vs. unity.

Except for comparatively minor skirmishes, the candidate debate slumped in the ensuing 100 years.

It revived in the Kennedy-Nixon debates of 1960 because television simplifies the problem of bringing candidates and the audience together.

It lapsed once the politicos saw how devastatingly the boob tube can project a speaker if his makeup and the camera angles are just one degree out of line, and adding to Nixon's poor impression, the debater's queasy health at the moment.

So it took the Republican National Convention by storm last week when Jerry Ford issued the challenge to debate Jimmy Carter in this campaign.

Ford's proposal is all the more remarkable because he is not a glib speaker nor given to snap answers, whereas Carter can rhapsodize immediately over a bowl of strawberries.

A further bit of daring do in Ford's proposal is that the GOP platform, one pretty much hammered into shape by the Reagan forces, is full of knotholes. This is particularly acute in foreign policy. If its hawkish rhetoric were put into practice, the U.S. could easily find itself being nudged towards a World War III.

Should Carter, as he undoubtedly will, try to pull the nails here and there, Ford may well have to repudiate some of the platform or modify it noticeably. This courts the risk of the Reagan people sitting on their hands come election day.

The conclusion has to be that Ford has found a confidence in being a candidate which he has not displayed as the nation's first non-elected President and decided that debating Carter is the best way for the public to learn that Jimmy is more shadow than substance.

The TV record in political debates since 1960 has been poor.

Almost without exception they have started out with the speakers issuing a campaign blast and finished up as a shouting match.

The dial turning on those performances has been overwhelming.

There is no guaranty a Ford-Carter confrontation will turn out any better, but if those in charge of their appearances referee them properly, campaigning may change from now on.

New Limits May Not Be All That Limiting

During the course of the 1972 presidential general election campaign, Richard Nixon's campaign spent approximately $60 million and George McGovern's approximately $30 million. Presidential candidates this year who rely upon federal financing for their campaigns, which both major candidates are expected to do, will have to limit themselves to $21.8 million each.

Allowing for the fact the Nixon campaign spent considerably more than was necessary four years ago, obviously the contenders this year are going to have to make some major changes in campaigning techniques to stay within the new limits. The ceiling of $21.8 million is a bit misleading.

That is the total the candidate and his official organizations can collect from the federal government, and contributions from private individuals will be unacceptable and must be returned — which in itself could cause no end of confusion. But the law also provides that committees organized by certain outside interests, such as labor unions, also can collect and spend funds providing they do so without thr consent or coordination in any way with the candidate.

In addition, each party's national committee will be entitled to spend another $3.2 million in behalf of its candidate. No one knows how the new limits will work, whether they could favor an incumbent over his challenger or how extensive special interest committees will be. The answers will be forthcoming before long

U.S. Navy Task Force Nearing Korean Waters

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The U.S. aircraft carrier Midway and four escorting warships were reported approaching Korean waters today to reinforce the American warning to North Korea against attacks on U.S. forces.

The U.S. Command refused to divulge the exact whereabouts of the Navy task force. But it was spotted by a Japanese pilot who estimated it would be close to the southern coast of Korea early today.

The pilot said a Soviet cargo ship was shadowing the carrier.

A North Korean broadcast said the dispatch of the naval force to Korean waters brought the situation "closer to the brink of war."

But the 51-mile-long demilitarized zone between North and South Korea was reported quiet, as it has been since the slaying last Wednesday of two American Army officers by North Korean guards in the Panmunjom truce village.

Thousands of South Korean workers assembled for rallies today denouncing North Korea for the attack on a United Nations Command working party that was pruning a tree in the joint security zone at Panmunjom.

The workers shouted "Down with murder-gangster Kim Il-sung," the North Korean president; "Clubs for mad dog" and similar slogans.

President Chung Hee Park's Democratic-Republican party and opposition parties issued statements calling on the government to take "strongest possible measures" against Communist provocations.

The United States and South Korea both rejected a message from North Korea which said the clash last Wednesday was "regretful."

"We do not find this message to be acceptable since it does not acknowledge responsibility for the deliberate and premeditated murders of the two U.N. Command officers," said State Department spokesman John Ordway in Washington.

A Korean official commented: "The North Koreans did not express even condolences over the officers slain, nor did we find any sense of remorse in their statement."

The South Korean Foreign Ministry said the message was delivered orally at a meeting Saturday at Panmunjom. The English text said:

"It was a good thing that no big incident occurred at Panmunjom for a long period. However, it is regretful that an incident occurred in the joint security area, Panmunjom, this time.

"An effort must be made so that such incidents may not recur in the future. For this purpose both sides should make efforts. We urge your side to prevent the provocation. Our side will never provoke first, but take self-defense measures only when provocation occurs. This is our consistent stand."

The message was delivered five hours after a U.N. Command force, acting on orders from President Ford, cut down the 40-foot Normandy poplar which the working party was pruning when the North Koreans attacked it. The tree cutters Saturday were guarded by 300 American and South Korean combat troops and an umbrella of American helicopter gunships, jet fighters and B52 bombers.

The U.N. Command said the tree blocks its forces' view of North Korean guard posts on the other side of the truce village.

Compassion Not GOP Long Suit

KANSAS CITY — According to Republican moderates, party fortunes began to decline with the death of Teddy Roosevelt. It slid from being the party of Lincoln, T.R. and progressivism to being the party of Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, Alf Landon, Tom Dewey, Barry Goldwater, and Richard Nixon.

One thus wonders what everyone is cheering about at this GOP convention. The slide has become an avalanche. Republicans are on the endangered species list. Four out of five Americans polled refuse to identify with the Grand Old Party. Thirty seven of the 50 states have anti-Republican administrations. The wags here believe that if something isn't done to reverse the party's decline, the next convention may easily be held in the foyer of the Ripon Society.

In one important sense the party deserves its troubles. In its haste to become the party of responsibility and respectability it has forgotten that politics is people. Ideology has replaced human concern in the leadership, a balanced budget in Washington has become more important to the cause than a balanced diet in Appalachia. Has Jerry Ford been to Bedford Stuyvesant? Does Ronald Reagan give a thought for the millions who would die if he pushed his feud with communism to its logical end? Fair or not, the party's image is one of aloof arrogance, and millions of Americans resent it.

Ironically, many of these millions are philosophically, if not formally, Republican. The nation has for 200 years been conservative and constructionistic. But as New York University Prof. Irving Kristol reminds us, the majority cannot simply be assumed. "It has to be welded together out of disparate parts." Alas, the Republican arc has gone cold. Rather than mass its potential constituents, it has over the years carelessly let them wander away.

Older citizens are a case in point. Kristol says they tend to be conservative, often hold on to the old values, and thus should appreciate Republicanism. Yet increasingly they do not. Many elderly Republicans are turning to the Democrats 6hers are so disillusioned with the party they are dropping out of the political process altogether. John Pecoraro of Washington's Concerned Seniors for Better Government says he thinks six of 10 older people will vote for Jimmy Carter this year, "and I personally hope it's 10 of 10."

Why the switch? "Because we can read the papers, too," says Rudy Dansiedt of the National Council of Senior Citizens. He recalls that Nixon opposed "almost every social security increase that came across his desk," and that Jerry Ford has tried to cut more recent SS hikes in half As for R. Reagan, he denounces SS at any cost, a thought that terrifies most elderly voters who get the monthly checks.

So it is that many older people wonder why they should support the GOP when it doesn't support them. In the 94th Congress there were well over 100 Democrats, but only nine Republicans, who sided with the aged on 90 per cent or more of beneficial legislation. "When people get old," says Pecoraro, "they need help more than ever. The trouble with Republicans is they just don't seem to care about it."

Hence the sun sinks deeper on the party. Besides the elderly, the rural constituency is shrinking, and the suburban, and the small town. Negligence is the ultimate sin for a political party. People do not want to be engineered, nor do they want to be forgotten.

The road back for Republicanism, then, is lined with human beings. They needn't be coddled by their party but they must be defended by it.

GOP Platform Is Conservative

KANSAS CITY — Despite the tight battle between President Ford and Ronald Reagan, this has been philosophically a single-minded convention.

Major policy arguments, by the standards of past conventions, have been rare. The dominant mood has been a sense of outrage and frustration at Federal governmental and judicial interference in the private sector and in local community affairs, ranging across everything from business regulation to the ban on school prayers.

This is a traditional conservative Republican attitude. But it prevailed at this convention with little apparent dissent from the party's moderate wing. The platform, although long on generalities and short on specifics, sailed through relatively intact with a consistent theme that the country cannot afford major Federal programs to solve domestic social injustices.

The domestic policy line now is clearly drawn for the fall presidential campaign. The Democratic platform contrasts sharply with the GOP document, calling for new Federal legislative answers to such problems as inflation and for expanded government programs to meet a variety of social ills.

The partisan campaign themes are familiar, but seem to be defined a bit more sharply this year. The Republicans will link Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter to big government and the big spending of a Democratic-controlled Congress. (In the process, of course, they will conveniently ignore that a Republican occupied the White House for the past eight years while the Federal government grew considerably.)

The Democrats will counter that the Republicans lack compassion for the unemployed, those less fortunate, and the victims of sexual or racial discrimination. The GOP convention tried to anticipate this argument. "A document, such as this platform, which refuses to knuckle under to special interest groups, will be accused of being uncaring," the platform preamble noted.

The GOP document is consistently conservative, but not heavily overburdened with the extreme right-wing positions that brought disaster upon the party in 1964. Despite some floor fights and language disputes, the reactionary tone was avoided.

Typical of the conservative but rational approach to policy disagreements taken generally by the convention was a compromise worked out in the platform committee over a radical scheme that could have thrown a monkey wrench into the entire national public school system.

The moderates, motivated as much by a desire not to make any waves that might have repercussions later against President Ford as by recognition of the conservative mood of the convention, produced a bland compromise that seemed to satisfy (if not thrill) everybody.

Calling Up The Big Debate

Since the Lincoln-Douglas debates of 1858 the American public has been fascinated with the thought of candidates for major offices arguing their positions face to face as opposed to belaboring one another at a distance on their respective campaign trails.

The assumption is that the confrontation will lay before the audience a clear, unmistakable picture of who believes what and how he or she would go about solving the problems of the country or the state, depending upon what level the candidates are rested.

Heightening the intrigue is that the Lincoln-Douglas discussions did alert the citizenry to the awesome issue of that age.

Douglas won the election for Senator from Illinois because most of those in the audiences approved his theory that slavery or emancipation should be left to local option.

Lincoln lost at the ballot box because the listeners did not yet understand the peril to the nation if every state or region could travel its own path on any given question. Even the abolitionists in Illinois withheld supporting him because he played down the emotions aroused by forced labor as secondary to the deeper question of national unity.

The debates, however, did two years later in the Presidential campaign bring to the forefront the issue of sectionalism vs. unity.

Except for comparatively minor skirmishes, the candidate debate slumped in the ensuing 100 years.

It revived in the Kennedy-Nixon debates of 1960 because television simplifies the problem of bringing candidates and the audience together.

It lapsed once the politicos saw how devastatingly the boob tube can project a speaker if his makeup and the camera angles are just one degree out of line, and adding to Nixon's poor impression, the debater's queasy health at the moment.

So it took the Republican National Convention by storm last week when Jerry Ford issued the challenge to debate Jimmy Carter in this campaign.

Ford's proposal is all the more remarkable because he is not a glib speaker nor given to snap answers, whereas Carter can rhapsodize immediately over a bowl of strawberries.

A further bit of daring do in Ford's proposal is that the GOP platform, one pretty much hammered into shape by the Reagan forces, is full of knotholes. This is particularly acute in foreign policy. If its hawkish rhetoric were put into practice, the U.S. could easily find itself being nudged towards a World War III.

Should Carter, as he undoubtedly will, try to pull the nails here and there, Ford may well have to repudiate some of the platform or modify it noticeably. This courts the risk of the Reagan people sitting on their hands come election day.

The conclusion has to be that Ford has found a confidence in being a candidate which he has not displayed as the nation's first non-elected President and decided that debating Carter is the best way for the public to learn that Jimmy is more shadow than substance.

The TV record in political debates since 1960 has been poor.

Almost without exception they have started out with the speakers issuing a campaign blast and finished up as a shouting match.

The dial turning on those performances has been overwhelming.

There is no guaranty a Ford-Carter confrontation will turn out any better, but if those in charge of their appearances referee them properly, campaigning may change from now on.

Senator Baker Asked The Really Key Question

Reminiscent of his oft-repeated question from the Watergate committee, "What did the President know, and when did he know it?" is the challenge Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. threw not only to the opposition, in his keynote address to the Republican national convention, but to his own party as well.

"The issue this year, quite simply, is this: How much government is too much government? How many laws are too many laws? How much taxation is too much taxation? How much coercion is too much coercion?"

Those are ageless questions, dating back to man's first feeble efforts at self-government. They are questions which have become central to the American experiment. A generation which has witnessed unprecedented growth both in scope and burden of its government wants some answers. They are questions which should be heard repeatedly in this campaign.

New Limits May Not Be All That Limiting

During the course of the 1972 presidential general election campaign, Richard Nixon's campaign spent approximately $60 million and George McGovern's approximately $30 million. Presidential candidates this year who rely upon federal financing for their campaigns, which both major candidates are expected to do, will have to limit themselves to $21.8 million each.

Allowing for the fact the Nixon campaign spent considerably more than was necessary four years ago, obviously the contenders this year are going to have to make some major changes in campaigning techniques to stay within the new limits. The ceiling of $21.8 million is a bit misleading.

That is the total the candidate and his official organizations can collect from the federal government, and contributions from private individuals will be unacceptable and must be returned — which in itself could cause no end of confusion. But the law also provides that committees organized by certain outside interests, such as labor unions, also can collect and spend funds providing they do so without thr consent or coordination in any way with the candidate.

In addition, each party's national committee will be entitled to spend another $3.2 million in behalf of its candidate. No one knows how the new limits will work, whether they could favor an incumbent over his challenger or how extensive special interest committees will be. The answers will be forthcoming before long

One Way Of Easing Our Conscience!

U.S. Navy Task Force Nearing Korean Waters

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The U.S. aircraft carrier Midway and four escorting warships were reported approaching Korean waters today to reinforce the American warning to North Korea against attacks on U.S. forces.

The U.S. Command refused to divulge the exact whereabouts of the Navy task force. But it was spotted by a Japanese pilot who estimated it would be close to the southern coast of Korea early today.

The pilot said a Soviet cargo ship was shadowing the carrier.

A North Korean broadcast said the dispatch of the naval force to Korean waters brought the situation "closer to the brink of war."

But the 51-mile-long demilitarized zone between North and South Korea was reported quiet, as it has been since the slaying last Wednesday of two American Army officers by North Korean guards in the Panmunjom truce village.

Thousands of South Korean workers assembled for rallies today denouncing North Korea for the attack on a United Nations Command working party that was pruning a tree in the joint security zone at Panmunjom.

The workers shouted "Down with murder-gangster Kim Il-sung," the North Korean president; "Clubs for mad dog" and similar slogans.

President Chung Hee Park's Democratic-Republican party and opposition parties issued statements calling on the government to take "strongest possible measures" against Communist provocations.

The United States and South Korea both rejected a message from North Korea which said the clash last Wednesday was "regretful."

"We do not find this message to be acceptable since it does not acknowledge responsibility for the deliberate and predmeditated murders of the two U.N. Command officers," said State Department spokesman John Ordway in Washington.

A Korean official commented: "The North Koreans did not express even condolences over the officers slain, nor did we find any sense of remorse in their statement."

The South Korean Foreign Ministry said the message was delivered orally at a meeting Saturday at Panmunjom. The English text said:

"It was a good thing that no big incident occurred at Panmunjom for a long period. However, it is regretful that an incident occurred in the joint security area, Panmunjom, this time.

"An effort must be made so that such incidents may not recur in the future. For this purpose both sides should make efforts. We urge your side to prevent the provocation. Our side will never provoke first, but take self-defense measures only when provocation occurs. This is our consistent stand."

The message was delivered five hours after a U.N. Command force, acting on orders from President Ford, cut down the 40-foot Normandy poplar which the working party was pruning when the North Koreans attacked it. The tree cutters Saturday were guarded by 300 American and South Korean combat troops and an umbrella of American helicopter gunships, jet fighters and B52 bombers.

The U.N. Command said the tree blocks its forces' view of North Korean guard posts on the other side of the truce village.

Compassion Not GOP Long Suit

KANSAS CITY — According to Republican moderates, party fortunes began to decline with the death of Teddy Roosevelt. It slid from being the party of Lincoln, T.R. and progressivism to being the party of Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, Alf Landon, Tom Dewey, Barry Goldwater, and Richard Nixon.

One thus wonders what everyone is cheering about at this GOP convention. The slide has become an avalanche. Republicans are on the endangered species list. Four out of five Americans polled refuse to identify with the Grand Old Party. Thirty seven of the 50 states have anti-Republican administrations. The wags here believe that if something isn't done to reverse the party's decline, the next convention may easily be held in the foyer of the Ripon Society.

In one important sense the party deserves its troubles. In its haste to become the party of responsibility and respectability it has forgotten that politics is people. Ideology has replaced human concern in the leadership, a balanced budget in Washington has become more important to the cause than a balanced diet in Appalachia. Has Jerry Ford been to Bedford Stuyvesant? Does Ronald Reagan give a thought for the millions who would die if he pushed his feud with communism to its logical end? Fair or not, the party's image is one of aloof arrogance, and millions of Americans resent it.

Ironically, many of these millions are philosophically, if not formally, Republican. The nation has for 200 years been conservative and constructionistic. But as New York University Prof. Irving Kristol reminds us, the majority cannot simply be assumed, "it has to be welded together out of disparate parts." Alas, the Republican arc-has gone cold. Rather than mass its potential constituents, it has over the years carelessly let them wander away.

Older citizens are a case in point. Kristol says they tend to be conservative, often hold on to the old values, and thus should appreciate Republicanism. Yet increasingly they do not. Many elderly Republicans are turning to the Democrats 6hers are so disillusioned with the party they are dropping out of the political process altogether. 128,310 Visitors Set Berrien Fair Record

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Blessed by beautiful weather, last week's Berrien County Youth fair drew a record number of people to the Berrien Springs fairgrounds.

Lowell Bruce, president of the youth fair association, reported yesterday that last year's record-breaking figure was itself broken by this year's 128,310 attendance. Crowds for the five-day 1976 fair outstripped last year's mark by 8,772, according to Bruce.

Bruce added that "preliminary reports show it should be the most successful fair, financially, ever." Income from concessions and carnival rides, as well as attendance, was higher than ever before, he explained.

The chief reason that the Berrien fair is financially successful, according to Bruce, is the fact that little has to be spent for labor. "Before and during the fair, upwards of 1,000 people out here volunteered their time. Whatever you need done around here, someone comes out to do it," he said.

In Saturday's garden tractor pull, Rory Sells, of Eau Claire, placed first on a machine that weighed up to 850 pounds. In the other division, 850 to 1,250 pounds, Don Evans of Berrien Springs, was the winner.

In the farm tractor pull the following winners were recorded: machines from 4,500 to 5,500 pounds, Mary Ellen Best of Niles; 5,501 to 6,500 pounds, Brian Evans of Berrien Springs; 6,501 to 8,000 pounds, Ron Wesner of Stevensville; 8,001 to 10,500 pounds, Jim Ball of Stevensville; 10,501 to 13,500 pounds, Mark Koebel of Berrien Springs; 13,501 to 17,000 pounds, Kurt Klann of Niles.

In the pony pulling contest, Varnold Sherwood, of Niles won the lightweight class. David Nusbaum, of Elkhart, Ind., won the heavyweight class competition.

Winners in the following classes in the heavy harness pony team hitch were: single team 46 inches and under, Jim Rozeboom of Plainwell; single team 46 to 50 inches, Frank Goins of Cassopolis; single team 50 to 56 inches, Roy Preston of Constantine; four pony hitch, any size, Jim Rozeboom of Plainwell.

Winner of the draft horse hitches show and exhibition was Carl Martensen, of Cassopolis. Horsemanship winner in the contest was Ted Wiggins, of Niles.

Late results from the horse judging, which ended Friday, show that the champion trail horse was exhibited by Julieane Krone, of Eau Claire. Reserve champion honors went to a horse shown by Tammy Dohm, of Eau Claire.

The outstanding displays in the two new commercial exhibit buildings were honored. Venetian Marble Company, of Benton Harbor, had the best display in Building 35. Maynard's Communication Enterprises, of Stevensville, won from Building 36.

For the second year, poultry and rabbits were auctioned Saturday. A good crowd stood by for nearly five hours as some 60 chickens and about 90 rabbits were sold.

Craig A. Smith's grand champion broiler chicken was bought for $210 by William Alford, representing Kentucky Fried Chicken of Berrien county. Smith is from Buchanan.

Baker Feed and Seeds, of Niles, paid $155 for the fair's grand champion market rabbit, owned by Jerry Roth, of Watervliet.

Henderson Denies Big Fund Charge

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Charles F. Henderson, Democratic nominee for 44th District state legislator, said today he has no promise of $10,000 for his campaign from the United Auto Workers and AFL-CIO.

But Henderson added he would be grateful to accept any contributions from labor for his campaign against Republican incumbent Ray Mittan of Niles.

Mittan told The Herald-Palladium in the Aug. 12 edition he had been informed by the House Republican caucus staff that Henderson was to receive a combined $10,000 contribution from the UAW and AFL-CIO.

Henderson, a Benton Harbor high school teacher, replied today he feels Mittan will "play dirty politics" in this campaign. "As of yet the UAW hasn't notified me of any campaign contributions, but I would be grateful to accept any contributions from the UAW. So, once again Mittan has expressed his opinion based on no facts," Henderson said.

"One of the facts that Mittan failed to state or look on is his voting record on labor, for the working people of this district," Henderson continued. "The UAW stated to me that 'Mittan gave very little if any suport on labor bills in the House.'"

Henderson added: "Mittan isn't going to win in November because he hasn't represented the working people of this district."

Henderson declared he will win by 5 to 1 if people will look at the voting record of Mittan and "follow their hearts and vote for the man not the party."

Henderson said: "I will never say anything against Mr. Mittan as a person, but as a state representative in Lansing, he is the 'Unknown Soldier on the issues.'"

Mittan explained his Aug. 12 statement on contributions from labor: "Our staff learned from the Democratic staff a minimum of $13,500 would be alloted to the Henderson campaign — $3,500 from the state office of the Michigan Education association and $10,000 from other labor unions. The $3,500 has already been verified and I'm quite sure the $10,000 is also true."

After the Aug. 3 primary, Henderson filed a contribution statement listing $3,500 from the MEA state public affairs committee, and $1,250 from MEA groups in Berrien and Cass counties.

Mittan said: "If there are any 'dirty politics' involved, then they come from the other side where every Democratic candidate in the state, if involved in what could be called a close election with a Republican, will receive similar amounts (from labor.)"

Mittan added: "Now that Henderson has raised the dirty politics charge and accused me of dirty politics while telling only the truth, he had better look to his background the past few months. There are many questions that might be raised."

Mittan defeated Henderson by 110 votes in the 1974 election that went to a recount. Mittan noted that in the 44th District precincts he (Mittan) outpolled Gov William Milliken, State Sen. Charles Zollar and Congressman Edward Hutchinson

Children Blamed For Blaze In BH

Children were believed responsible for a fire Sunday at an apparently vacant storage building in Hall park, Benton Harbor firemen reported. The blaze damaged a wall and ceiling of the building and damage was estimated at about $1,000. Firemen said the door to the building was open when they arrived after the alarm shortly before 3 p.m. In another fire shortly before 6 p.m., city firemen said a mattress and bedding were burned at the apartment of Mrs. Delores Rheams, 372 South Fair avenue. Firemen said the blaze was confined to the mattress which had been taken out of the apartment. Firemen reported it is believed one of Mrs. Rheams' children was playing with a cigarette lighter left on the bed. No one was injured.

SJ Girl Tells Of BH Rape

By STEVE SAGER

Benton Harbor police reported they are investigating the reported rape of a 16-year-old south St. Joseph girl, who told police she was sexually assaulted after she got lost walking through downtown Benton Harbor Friday night.

Police reported they believe the rape occurred in a house in the 600 block of Empire avenue where the girl was taken after being forced into a car on Main street near Paw Paw avenue.

Police reported the girl was forced into a car, which contained several men, by a man who apparently had been following her on foot as she walked through downtown and threatened to shoot her if she did not accompany him.

The girl was allowed to leave after being raped by one of the men who had been in the car and was found by police walking in the 400 block of Pipestone street about 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

Police said she was taken by her parents to Mercy hospital where an examination confirmed sexual penetration. She was released after the examination.

The girl, who told police she had recently moved to the St. Joseph area with her family, said she walked into Benton Harbor looking for the Fairplain Plaza, which she thought was near K-mart on Riverview drive, when she got lost.

Her parents reported to Berrien sheriff's officers about 9 p.m. Friday that she was missing.

Berrien Fair Poll Has Ford Ahead

By LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Despite a surge of pro-Democrat voters Saturday, President Gerald Ford maintained his lead over Democratic Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter in a straw vote conducted at the Berrien County Youth fair last week by The Herald-Palladium.

In three days of unofficial polling, Ford compiled 109 votes to Carter's 85. On Saturday alone, though, Carter outpolled Ford by a 56-46 margin.

Meanwhile, the other Republican candidates handily defeated Democratic rivals in balloting for other offices.

The ballots were taken at The Herald-Palladium tent all during fair week. The voting for President did not begin until Thursday, after Ford had been selected as the Republican nominee.

128,310 Visitors Set Berrien Fair Record

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Blessed by beautiful weather, last week's Berrien County Youth fair drew a record number of people to the Berrien Springs fairgrounds.

Lowell Bruce, president of the youth fair association, reported yesterday that last year's record-breaking figure was itself broken by this year's 128,310 attendance. Crowds for the five-day 1976 fair outstripped last year's mark by 8,772, according to Bruce.

Bruce added that "preliminary reports show it should be the most successful fair, financially, ever." Income from concessions and carnival rides, as well as attendance, was higher than ever before, he explained.

The chief reason that the Berrien fair is financially successful, according to Bruce, is the fact that little has to be spent for labor. "Before and during the fair, upwards of 1,000 people out here volunteered their time. Whatever you need done around here, someone comes out to do it," he said.

In Saturday's garden tractor pull, Rory Sells, of Eau Claire, placed first on a machine that weighed up to 850 pounds. In the other division, 850 to 1,250 pounds, Don Evans of Berrien Springs, was the winner.

In the farm tractor pull the following winners were recorded: machines from 4,500 to 5,500 pounds, Mary Ellen Best of Niles; 5,501 to 6,500 pounds, Brian Evans of Berrien Springs; 6,501 to 8,000 pounds, Ron Wesner of Stevensville; 8,001 to 10,500 pounds, Jim Ball of Stevensville; 10,501 to 13,500 pounds, Mark Koebel of Berrien Springs; 13,501 to 17,000 pounds, Kurt Klann of Niles.

In the pony pulling contest, Varnold Sherwood, of Niles won the lightweight class. David Nusbaum, of Elkhart, Ind., won the heavyweight class competition.

Winners in the following classes in the heavy harness pony team hitch were: single team 46 inches and under, Jim Rozeboom of Plainwell; single team 46 to 50 inches, Frank Goins of Cassopolis; single team 50 to 56 inches, Roy Preston of Constantine; four pony hitch, any size, Jim Rozeboom of Plainwell.

Winner of the draft horse hitches show and exhibition was Carl Martensen, of Cassopolis. Horsemanship winner in the contest was Ted Wiggins, of Niles.

Late results from the horse judging, which ended Friday, show that the champion trail horse was exhibited by Julieane Krone, of Eau Claire. Reserve champion honors went to a horse shown by Tammy Dohm, of Eau Claire.

The outstanding displays in the two new commercial exhibit buildings were honored. Venetian Marble Company, of Benton Harbor, had the best display in Building 35. Maynard's Communication Enterprises, of Stevensville, won from Building 36.

For the second year, poultry and rabbits were auctioned Saturday. A good crowd stood by for nearly five hours as some 60 chickens and about 90 rabbits were sold.

Craig A. Smith's grand champion broiler chicken was bought for $210 by William Alford, representing Kentucky Fried Chicken of Berrien county. Smith is from Buchanan.

Baker Feed and Seeds, of Niles, paid $155 for the fair's grand champion market rabbit, owned by Jerry Roth, of Watervliet.

Dr. Ritland said log, probably an ash log, could have been deposited there from old flood plain or when glacier passed through area. (Staff photo)

Henderson Denies Big Fund Charge

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Charles F. Henderson, Democratic nominee for 44th District state legislator, said today he has no promise of $10,000 for his campaign from the United Auto Workers and AFL-CIO.

But Henderson added he would be grateful to accept any contributions from labor for his campaign against Republican incumbent Ray Mittan of Niles.

Mittan told The Herald-Palladium in the Aug. 12 edition he had been informed by the House Republican caucus staff that Henderson was to receive a combined $10,000 contribution from the UAW and AFL-CIO.

Henderson, a Benton Harbor high school teacher, replied today he feels Mittan will "play dirty politics" in this campaign. "As of yet the UAW hasn't notified me of any campaign contributions, but I would be grateful to accept any contributions from the UAW. So, once again Mittan has expressed his opinion based on no facts," Henderson said.

"One of the facts that Mittan failed to state or look on is his voting record on labor, for the working people of this district," Henderson continued. "The UAW stated to me that 'Mittan gave very little if any suport on labor bills in the House.'"

Henderson added: "Mittan isn't going to win in November because he hasn't represented the working people of this district."

Henderson declared he will win by 5 to 1 if people will look at the voting record of Mittan and "follow their hearts and vote for the man not the party."

Henderson said: "I will never say anything against Mr. Mittan as a person, but as a state representative in Lansing, he is the 'Unknown Soldier on the issues.'"

Mittan explained his Aug. 12 statement on contributions from labor: "Our staff learned from the Democratic staff a minimum of $13,500 would be alloted to the Henderson campaign — $3,500 from the state office of the Michigan Education association and $10,000 from other labor unions. The $3,500 has already been verified and I'm quite sure the $10,000 is also true."

After the Aug. 3 primary, Henderson filed a contribution statement listing $3,500 from the MEA state public affairs committee, and $1,250 from MEA groups in Berrien and Cass counties.

Mittan said: "If there are any 'dirty politics' involved, then they come from the other side where every Democratic candidate in the state, if involved in what could be called a close election with a Republican, will receive similar amounts (from labor.)"

Mittan added: "Now that Henderson has raised the dirty politics charge and accused me of dirty politics while telling only the truth, he had better look to his background the past few months. There are many questions that might be raised."

Mittan defeated Henderson by 110 votes in the 1974 election that went to a recount. Mittan noted that in the 44th District precincts he (Mittan) outpolled Gov William Milliken, State Sen. Charles Zollar and Congressman Edward Hutchinson

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

Benton Harbor police reported they are investigating the reported rape of a 16-year-old south St. Joseph girl, who told police she was sexually assaulted after she got lost walking through downtown Benton Harbor Friday night.

Police reported they believe the rape occurred in a house in the 600 block of Empire avenue where the girl was taken after being forced into a car on Main street near Paw Paw avenue.

Police reported the girl was forced into a car, which contained several men, by a man who apparently had been following her on foot as she walked through downtown and threatened to shoot her if she did not accompany him.

The girl was allowed to leave after being raped by one of the men who had been in the car and was found by police walking in the 400 block of Pipestone street about 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

Police said she was taken by her parents to Mercy hospital where an examination confirmed sexual penetration. She was released after the examination.

The girl, who told police she had recently moved to the St. Joseph area with her family, said she walked into Benton Harbor looking for the Fairplain Plaza, which she thought was near K-mart on Riverview drive, when she got lost.

Her parents reported to Berrien sheriff's officers about 9 p.m. Friday that she was missing.

Saves Cooking Time

Foods placed inside a microwave oven absorb energy which converts to heat, and cooks food both outside and inside at the same time.

In this way, meals cook more quickly, since time isn't required for heat to penetrate food as with conventional methods.

The interior of the oven doesn't get hot nor do the utensils in which the food is cooked — paper, plastic, glass or china. As a result, food doesn't splatter or stick so cleanup time is minimal. Appliance care calls for washing the oven cavity, shelf, door, seal and exterior with a sudsy sponge or cloth, rinsing and drying.

Read the use and care book for operating and cleaning a particular model since instructions will vary.

AVOID HAIR SPRAY
In humid weather, hair spray can become particularly sticky and dulling, so try to avoid it.

Betsy Ross Flag Adorns Cake Pan

Attention home bakers! Don't miss the Bicentennial cake pan.

It is a Betsy Ross Flag design and is furled to look as if it is indeed waving over the land of the free.

A sudsy sponge or soft brush to coax batter residue from the design indentations is all that's needed to keep the pan gleaming.

Cowl Neck Highlights Sweaters

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Sssh. You didn't hear it from us, but even though the cowl neck sweater is absolutely the sweater to be seen in this year (the bigger the cowl, the better), one manufacturer told us his bestselling number is a crew neck. That is, as far as fashion merchandise goes.

His number one bestseller, the one he has to keep running year in and year out because of the demand, is a little white, acrylic cardigan, with or without embroidery. The kind Aunt Florence swears by.

That aside, those of you who are trend-conscious will have to see to it that you have a tabard or two in your closet this year. That's a knit tunic, kind of like a long vest which ties at the sides and covers your cornings and goings.

Then you'll need at least one hooded sweater, preferably with an Indian or geometric motif, and something that wraps with kimono sleeves. The sleeves don't wrap, you understand.

And if you really want to set them on their ear, get yourself one of those chic sweater coats which double as dresses.

Book Discusses Stress

Stress exerts its effects on all living things, according to Hans Selye, MD, author of "The Stress of Life."

In his new, updated book, Dr. Selye reports new findings on what medicine has learned about stress and its effects on mind and body after two decades of research.

Stress takes many forms, he reports. Diseases he discusses as being related in some measure to stress include insomnia, heart attacks, ulcers, asthma and arthritis.

According to the publisher, "The Stress of Life" is an explanation of the stress of modern life and is a guide to coping with it.

Cowl Neck Highlights Sweaters

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Ssssh. You didn't hear it from us, but even though the cowl neck sweater is absolutely the sweater to be seen in this year (the bigger the cowl, the better), one manufacturer told us his bestselling number is a crew neck. That is, as far as fashion merchandise goes.

His number one bestseller, the one he has to keep running year in and year out because of the demand, is a little white, acrylic cardigan, with or without embroidery. The kind Aunt Florence swears by.

That aside, those of you who are trend-conscious will have to see to it that you have a tabard or two in your closet this year. That's a knit tunic, kind of like a long vest which ties at the sides and covers your comings and goings.

Then you'll need at least one hooded sweater, preferably with an Indian or geometric motif, and something that wraps with kimono sleeves. The sleeves don't wrap, you understand.

And if you really want to set them on their ear, get yourself one of those chic sweater coats which double as dresses.

LIFESTYLE

Some 4,000,000 Americans now live in 1,690,000 condominiums and cooperative housing units, states a late-1975 HUD report.

Saves Cooking Time

Foods placed inside a microwave oven absorb energy which converts to heat, and cooks food both outside and inside at the same time.

In this way, meals cook more quickly, since time isn't required for heat to penetrate food as with conventional methods.

The interior of the oven doesn't get hot nor do the utensils in which the food is cooked — paper, plastic, glass or china. As a result, food doesn't splatter or stick so cleanup time is minimal. Appliance care calls for washing the oven cavity, shelf, door, seal and exterior with a sudsy sponge or cloth, rinsing and drying.

Read the use and care book for operating and cleaning a particular model since instructions will vary.

AVOID HAIR SPRAY

In humid weather, hair spray can become particularly sticky and dulling, so try to avoid it.

Betsy Ross Flag Adorns Cake Pan

Attention home bakers! Don't miss the Bicentennial cake pan.

It is a Betsy Ross Flag design and is furled to look as if it is indeed waving over the land of the free.

A sudsy sponge or soft brush to coax batter residue from the design indentations is all that's needed to keep the pan gleaming.

Try Spaghetti Italian Style

This ready spaghetti goes Italian style.

In saucepan, combine two cans (fourteen and three-fourths ounces each) spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese, one and one-half cups sliced pepperoni, one can (about two ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained, and one-fourth teaspoon Italian seasoning, crushed. Heat; stir occasionally. Serve with grated Parmesan cheese. Makes about four and one-half cups, four servings.

Small Fry's Work Center

A combination chair, desk and chalkboard encourages the imaginative art and writing efforts of small fry.

The one-piece unit moves about and folds flat for storage. Made of aluminum tubing with safe, rounded corners and a padded vinyl seat, the mini-student work center wipes clean with a sponge wrung from detergent or soap suds.

Try A Nice Slice Of Rice

Good news ahead for people who love a slice of bread but for medical reasons cannot indulge in any wheat products. Scientists have developed a new bread made from rice flour.

The rice bread in appearance and taste resembles wheat bread, enough so that a person not knowing the difference might think it was wheat bread.

Food Technologist Kazuko D. Nishita, a researcher at the Western Regional Research Center in Berkeley, Cal., who developed the recipe, explains in more detail:

"The rice bread has a firm crust, much like French bread and inside is slightly moist. It actually tastes better when very fresh or warmed. Yes, I'd say this yeast leavened rice bread has color, flavor and texture similar to conventional breads."

She hopes to get the rice bread on the market soon.

Patients with hypertension, nephritis (inflamed kidneys) and digestive difficulties, for example, would benefit from diets that include rice bread because rice contains low levels of sodium, protein, fat and fiber, and high amounts of easily digested carbohydrates.

Moreover, celiac victims (people whose small intestines react to certain proteins in wheaat, causing pain and malabsorption of nutrients) can safely eat rice bread because rice does not contain these particular proteins. Thus rice bread would provide these people with another food, adding more variety to their diets.

Candidate For AAMA Trustee

Claire Van Dam of Stevensville will be a candidate for the office of national trustee when the 20th anniversary meeting of the American Association of Medical Assistants is held at the Palmer House in Chicago Sept. 13-18.

Approximately 1,000 medical assistants, educators, students, physicians and other interested individuals will participate in a week of educational programs, workshops and other activities on the theme, "Change and Challenge — Then and Now."

Mrs. Van Dam is employed by Dr. Samuel Gould, Benton Harbor, and is a member of the Berrien County chapter of AAMA. She has served as president of the Michigan State Medical Assistants.

Also planning to attend the convention from the Berrien chapter are Barbara Clem, an employe of the Southwestern Medical Clinic, PC, and Lorelei Driver, who is employed by Dr. G.H. Mir, Benton Harbor. Dr. David Hills of St. Joseph, chapter advisor, is also planning to attend.

The main education session of the convention will analyze "The Quality of Life" as it affects the medical community.

Effie Ellis MD, co-director of the Quality of Life Center, City of Chicago, and special consultant on Community Health, National Foundation/March of Dimes, will lead a discussion of the means by which medicine can help individuals achieve an optimum level of existence during the three major periods of life.

Serving on the panel will be Robert J. Havighurst Ph.D, Professor of Education and Human Development, University of Chicago; Margaret McCullough, director of the Center for the Family, American Home Economics association, Washington, D.C., and John Paton MD, Director of Neonatology at Michael Reese hospital, Chicago.

Following this overview, a look will be taken at "Pharmaceuticals and the Quality of Life," with a panel to be moderated by American Medical association and AAMA Consultant Leo Brown.

The Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago will present a program on "Changing the Quality of Life for the Handicapped." The final education session will be a look at thefuture. Prominent AAMA leaders will discuss educational challenges yet to come and Atty. James J. McNamara, former assistant director of AMA's corporate law department, will review "Legal Dilemmas" likely to be confronted.

Cattle Maximize Resources

Without cattle, potentially valuable food sources could not be used by humans.

Of the total United States land area, some 2.2 billion acres, only 15 per cent can be used for the growing of fruits, vegetables and grains which humans can eat. Another 40 per cent of the total United States land area, however, can be used as pasture land. Humans cannot eat grass directly, but cattle can forage on grass rangelands and produce flavorful, nutritious beef for human consumption.

If cattle were not used to "harvest" these pasture lands, a major source of high quality protein would be lost to humans.

How To Clean Wooden Bowls

Clean wooden salad bowls and utensils immediately after use. Never immerse in water or soak and use as little water as possible.

Keep away from heat, and never place woodenware in the refrigerator. If roughened, smooth with sandpaper. Never polish, wax or varnish.

Need More Water

Your body system needs extra water in hot weather, whether or not your thirst increases.

"Drink water often, even when you don't feel the urge," is the advice offered in an "instructions for your patient" chart in "Patient Care," a publication for physicians.

Among the other suggestions offered are: Drink plenty of water when you're exercising. Avoid outdoor physical activities between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. whenever possible. When you exercise in the heat, take a 5-10 minute break every half-hour.

Mrs. Van Dam is employed by Dr. Samuel Gould, Benton Harbor, and is a member of the Berrien County chapter of AAMA. She has served as president of the Michigan State Medical Assistants.

Also planning to attend the convention from the Berrien chapter are Barbara Clem, an employe of the Southwestern Medical Clinic, PC, and Lorelei Driver, who is employed by Dr. G.H. Mir, Benton Harbor. Dr. David Hills of St. Joseph, chapter advisor, is also planning to attend.

The main education session of the convention will analyze "The Quality of Life" as it affects the medical community.

Effie Ellis MD, co-director of the Quality of Life Center, City of Chicago, and special consultant on Community Health, National Foundation/March of Dimes, will lead a discussion of the means by which medicine can help individuals achieve an optimum level of existence during the three major periods of life.

Serving on the panel will be Robert J. Havighurst Ph.D, Professor of Education and Human Development, University of Chicago; Margaret McCullough, director of the Center for the Family, American Home Economics association, Washington, D.C., and John Paton MD, Director of Neonatology at Michael Reese hospital, Chicago.

Following this overview, a look will be taken at "Pharmaceuticals and the Quality of Life," with a panel to be moderated by American Medical association and AAMA Consultant Leo Brown.

The Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago will present a program on "Changing the Quality of Life for the Handicapped." The final education session will be a look at thefuture. Prominent AAMA leaders will discuss educational challenges yet to come and Atty. James J. McNamara, former assistant director of AMA's corporate law department, will review "Legal Dilemmas" likely to be confronted.

Cattle Maximize Resources

Without cattle, potentially valuable food sources could not be used by humans.

Of the total United States land area, some 2.2 billion acres, only 15 per cent can be used for the growing of fruits, vegetables and grains which humans can eat. Another 40 per cent of the total United States land area, however, can be used as pasture land. Humans cannot eat grass directly, but cattle can forage on grass rangelands and produce flavorful, nutritious beef for human consumption.

If cattle were not used to "harvest" these pasture lands, a major source of high quality protein would be lost to humans.

How To Clean Wooden Bowls

Clean wooden salad bowls and utensils immediately after use. Never immerse in water or soak and use as little water as possible.

Keep away from heat and never place woodenware in the refrigerator. If roughened, smooth with sandpaper. Never polish, wax or varnish.

Need More Water

Your body system needs extra water in hot weather, whether or not your thirst increases.

"Drink water often, even when you don't feel the urge," is the advice offered in an "instructions for your patient" chart in "Patient Care," a publication for physicians.

Among the other suggestions offered are: Drink plenty of water when you're exercising. Avoid outdoor physical activities between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. whenever possible. When you exercise in the heat, take a 5-10 minute break every half-hour.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Please Don't Send Money

Dear Readers: Please do not send me any more money! In the past few weeks I have had to return over $6,500 in personal checks. Obviously, some of my readers don't understand a few things. Let me explain.

Several weeks ago, Mr. X wrote to say his conscience was bothering him because he had cheated on his income tax a few years ago and he wanted to make it right. I praised the man and suggested that he send an anonymous check to the Internal Revenue Service.

That column produced a rash of letters and checks made out to Ann Landers. (The first was for $4,000.) I returned it with the explanation that I never accept money from readers. I further explained that checks made out to Ann Landers would have to be declared by me as income and MY IRS man would want to know a little something about the money. Moreover, the name of the sender appears on the checks and any IRS man who wanted to get nosy could blow the whistle on my well-intentioned readers.

Sorry, folks, but I cannot act as a conduit for Born-Again readers. If you want to right an old wrong please have a cashier's check made out at any bank and send it ANONYMOUSLY to the Internal Revenue Service at 1111 Constitution Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224. Simply attach a note saying it is "conscience money." And bless you all for wanting to come clean.

Nothing's Right

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you won't think I'm crazy but I have a problem and I don't know what it is. I'm not exactly miserable but I'm not happy either. I'm blue a lot of the time, and lonely, although I have a good husband and nice kids. There are times when I think I need a good swift kick in the pants.

I never seem to get my work done. I never look the way I'd like to. I can never come up with the right thing to say — until two days later. My cakes fall and my bread refuses to rise. As the saying goes, I always seem to be "a day late and a dollar short."

I feel like a fool writing to you because here I am asking for help and I don't know what I need help WITH. What can you suggest, Ann? — Today's Kook

Dear T.K.: Have I got a book for you! It is called "The Trouble Book." The author is Dr. Eugene Kennedy ($8.95, Thomas More Press, 180 N. Wabash, Chicago, Ill. 60601). Please take special note of the chapters, "Nobody Has It All Together," "Feeling Bad" and "Boredom." You will look at yourself in a different light after you've read this book. It's excellent!

First Names?

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think about young children calling parents by their first names?

ANN LANDERS

My husband's family doesn't approve. My family is more casual. We grew up calling our parents Anna and Ed.

Now I'm pregnant and the question has come up. My husband wants to be called Dad. I'd prefer to be called Marie. What do you say? — Split Vote

Dear Split: If your husband wants to be called Dad, so be it. If you prefer to be called Marie — O.K.

I vote for Mother or Dad. There's something special about those words. They let your children know you're parents, not pals.

Confused about what's right and what's wrong in today's "new morality"? You're not alone. If you want honest, down-to-earth information on your sex questions, read Ann Landers' new booklet, "High School Sex And How To Deal With It — A Guide For Teens And Their Parents." Send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

ON THE COLORADO RIVER — They were laying bets I'd never get here.

"It's a nine-mile hike from the south rim of the Grand Canyon to the river," said my husband, "on a narrow path lousy with sharp rocks."

"I'll make it."

"The temperature in the canyon this time of year can go to 110 degrees."

"Not to worry."

"The river trip is six days on a rubber raft that crashes into rapids and covers you with water at a temperature of 50 degrees."

"So?"

"So you sleep on an Army cot with no protection from the elements."

"I'll survive."

"You bathe in the Colorado, drink it, and are sometimes nearly drowned in it."

"I'll make it."

"There are no gift shops."

"Are you serious? When do we have to let them know for sure?"

I was kidding, of course. The river had always been my goal. When my toes turned purple and I cut the holes out of my shoes, the odds went up.

When I ate three Granola bars during the first hour and lapped up every bit of water in my canteen, they shook their heads. When I crawled into a cave with heat exhaustion and told them to go on, they gave me that "told you so" look.

I looked longingly at the Colorado River from the shade in my cave. Designed . . . created . . . decorated . . . by God. No mirrors. No reason to suck in your stomach. No cause to yell at the kids to turn the lights off. No electrical outlets to plug in Neil Diamond. A culturally deprived oasis with no Golden Arches, no bumper stickers and no reruns. One of the last places in civilization that time and a two-year-old could not destroy.

I summoned up the only pedestrian prayer I knew from memory: "Please God, send me a mule."

Ten minutes later, a man appeared around the bend dragging six mules with six empty backs.

As the riverboat captain said later, "You're the only person to ever descend into the canyon on foot and end up on her . . ."

Some people get testy when they lose a bet.

Library Plans Four Films

Four films on a variety of subjects will be featured during Family Film Night, Tuesday, Aug. 24, at 7:30 p.m. at Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph.

"New Brunswick Promenade" shows the placid inland fields and deserted Atlantic coastline as well as historical and scenic locations. Emphasis is on the Fundy National park and King's Landing settlement.

"Rube Goldberg — Or Doing It the Hard Way" stresses the American penchant for complex inventions to perform simple tasks. The viewer is introduced to Rube Goldberg, cartoonist and satirist. Further displays of historic inventions at the Smithsonian Institution are seen.

Billy Gilbert, Charlie Hall and Mae Bush join Laurel and Hardy as the boys take a vacation after a doctor prescribes a change of climate for their health in "Them Thar Hills."

The fourth film, "Women in Russia," portrays the women in that country, from ballerinas to bricklayers, fashion models to airdrill operators, university students to 90-year-old women in old peoples' homes.

A story hour for preschool through second grade children will be held Wednesday, Aug. 25, at 11 a.m.

FOR TUESDAY AUG. 24, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're very enterprising today. You have rare ability to take on a normally tough job and actually have fun doing it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is a marvelous day to entertain at home. Even if you organize something impromptu, it will turn out to be a conversation piece.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Creative matters, or those relating to communication are your forte today. For example, you can be very creative in writing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A project you're interested in could spell personal gain. It's been slow getting started, but a sudden jolt could overcome the inertia.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be assertive in situations calling for a bold stroke. If opportunity knocks and you don't immediately fling open the door blame no one but yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You've been waiting to see if someone would act in your behalf in an important matter. Put your mind at ease — the answer is "yes."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A surge of new energy and hope should be yours today. You'll begin to act more independently than you have for some time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your ambitions are still in high gear. Your chances of success remain excellent. Concentrate on achieving things to which you give highest priority.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's your kind of day, but you need an active companion to help you appreciate its fullness. Team up with a goer like yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Difficult tasks don't intimidate you today. You'll do better teamed with another than working alone.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your approach is realistic today. This gives you a slight edge over associates. Don't let them overrule your sound ideas.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You've delayed some changes you want to make because of the effort involved. Today would be a good day to start. You can move a few rungs up the ladder.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "One of the interesting things about bidding seems to be that it goes through cycles. In the very first days of contract there were no forcing bids at all, so the jump to game became a very strong bid. Then the pendulum swung back and it became a pre-empt or stop bid."

Jim: "Today, it has all sorts of meanings. Thus, the jump response of three notrump to partner's opening suit bid is supposed to show an opening notrump of 16-18 balanced points."

Oswald: "We don't use the bid often. When we do we won't have 18, but will have from a good 15 up to 17 and every reason to like notrump played from our seat as the right final contract."

Jim: "South was very bitter about his bad luck, but he brought it on himself. He had sixteen balanced points, but he really did not want to be declarer. Had he just responded with two of a red suit, North would have bid two notrump; played at game and made at least ten tricks."

He certainly did. It was designed to stop people from making silly preempts. It served its purpose whereupon Harry and all other experts abandoned it.

Decorating Trends

BY MIKE IANNELLI

HOW TO USE COLOR is one of the most difficult things for the amateur decorator to learn, and a flair for color is one of the attributes of the professional decorator.

Yet there are some basic guidelines anyone can use for selecting color. One factor is personal preference. People react to particular colors, and experience proves that most people are partial to a particular color range. A good decorator will work with that color preference, because the homeowner will be happy in such a setting.

But the repetition of one color range, while useful in any home interior as the basic scheme, can soon become monotonous. How to avoid this? The "outside" color . . . the contrast color or opposite in the color spectrum which will serve as a catalyst, bringing out the beauty of the basic color scheme, emphasizing it by contrast.

A warm color (one is enough) will make a room formed of cool tones more livable, and a cool color will keep a room of reds and oranges and yellows from becoming too warm. The bright, vivid color in a room of neutral shades will have the same effect.

You'll find it useful to bring swatches of fabric, and color chips, with you when you come in to our store to look at new furnishings. We can help you achieve the happy color combination you want. Step in and talk over your plans.

Four films on a variety of subjects will be featured during Family Film Night, Tuesday, Aug. 24, at 7:30 p.m. at Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph.

"New Brunswick Promenade" shows the placid inland fields and deserted Atlantic coastline as well as historical and scenic locations. Emphasis is on the Fundy National park and King's Landing settlement.

"Rube Goldberg — Or Doing It the Hard Way" stresses the American penchant for complex inventions to perform simple tasks. The viewer is introduced to Rube Goldberg, cartoonist and satirist. Further displays of historic inventions at the Smithsonian Institution are seen.

Billy Gilbert, Charlie Hall and Mae Bush join Laurel and Hardy as the boys take a vacation after a doctor prescribes a change of climate for their health in "Them Thar Hills."

The fourth film, "Women in Russia," portrays the women in that country, from ballerinas to bricklayers, fashion models to airdrill operators, university students to 90-year-old women in old peoples' homes.

A story hour for preschool through second grade children will be held Wednesday, Aug. 25, at 11 a.m.

New books at the library include "Peacock Terrace" by Victoria Holt; "Screwball: The Life of Carole Lombard" by Larry Swindell, and "The Man Who Pardoned Nixon" by Clark Mollenhoff.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're very enterprising today. You have rare ability to take on a normally tough job and actually have fun doing it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is a marvelous day to entertain at home. Even if you organize something impromuptu, it will turn out to be a conversation piece.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Creative matters, or those relating to communication are your forte today. For example, you can be very creative in writing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A project you're interested in could spell personal gain. It's been slow getting started, but a sudden jolt could overcome the inertia.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be assertive in situations calling for a bold stroke. If opportunity knocks and you don't immediately fling open the door blame no one but yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You've been waiting to see if someone would act in your behalf in an important matter. Put your mind at ease — the answer is "yes."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A surge of new energy and hope should be yours today. You'll begin to act more independently than you have for some time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your ambitions are still in high gear. Your chances of success remain excellent. Concentrate on achieving things to which you give highest priority.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's your kind of day, but you need an active companion to help you appreciate its fullness. Team up with a goer like yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Difficult tasks don't intimidate you today. You'll do better teamed with another than working alone.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your approach is realistic today. This gives you a slight edge over associates. Don't let them overrule your sound ideas.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You've delayed some changes you want to make because of the effort involved. Today would be a good day to start. You can move a few rungs up the ladder.

Decorating Trends

BY MIKE IANNELLI

HOW TO USE COLOR is one of the most difficult things for the amateur decorator to learn, and a flair for color is one of the attributes of the professional decorator.

Yet there are some basic guidelines anyone can use for selecting color. One factor is personal preference. People react to particular colors, and experience proves that most people are partial to a particular color range. A good decorator will work with that color preference, because the home-owner will be happy in such a setting.

But the repetition of one color range, while useful in any home interior as the basic scheme, can soon become monotonous. How to avoid this? The "outside" color . . . the contrast color or opposite in the color spectrum which will serve as a catalyst, bringing out the beauty of the basic color scheme, emphasizing it by contrast.

A warm color (one is enough) will make a room formed of cool tones more livable, and a cool color will keep a room of reds and oranges and yellows from becoming too warm. The bright, vivid color in a room of neutral shades will have the same effect.

You'll find it useful to bring swatches of fabric, and color chips, with you when you come in to our store to look at new furnishings. We can help you achieve the happy color combination you want. Stop in and talk over your plans.

Oswald: "One of the interesting things about bidding seems to be that it goes through cycles. In the very first days of contract there were no forcing bids at all, so the jump to game became a very strong bid. Then the pendulum swung back and it became a pre-empt or stop bid."

Jim: "Today, it has all sorts of meanings. Thus, the jump response of three notrump to partner's opening suit bid is supposed to show an opening notrump of 16-18 balanced points."

Oswald: "We don't use the bid often. When we do we won't have 18, but will have from a good 15 up to 17 and every reason to like notrump played from our seat as the right final contract."

Jim: "South was very bitter about his bad luck, but he brought it on himself. He had sixteen balanced points, but he really did not want to be declarer. Had he just responded with two of a red suit, North would have bid two notrump; played at game and made at least ten tricks."

Colorado's Livestock Mutilations Still Unsolved

By JUDY HERR
Associated Press Writer

DENVER (AP) — Ranchers armed themselves against an unknown enemy. Rural residents who never had locked their doors bought padlocks. Strange helicopters with beacons trained on the ground were reported flying over pastureland.

No, it's not a scene from a 1950s cutrate horror movie. That's the way it was last summer: fear and anger in the cattle country of eastern Colorado and other western states because of unsubstantiated reports that cattle and other animals were being mutilated by somebody.

A year later, the mystery remains unresolved, but the furor is gone, despite a few reports of new "mutilations."

The president of the Colorado Cattlemen's Association says he feels there is "enough scientific data to put the idea of mutilations to rest." But local sheriffs remain concerned about the suspected mutilations.

The Colorado Bureau of Investigations continues an investigation of the situation, but has turned up no human suspects. Carl Whiteside, acting director of the CBI, says investigators so far have come with no motive for the mutilations if, in fact, there were any. There is considerable evidence that predators, mostly coyotes, picked over the remains of dead animals, not humans, he says.

"If somebody were interested in animal parts, they could go to a rendering plant and get them for nothing," Whiteside said.

The mutilation saga started in Colorado on a spring night last year when a rancher in Elbert County found the shell of a dead cow, its tongue, sex organs, rectum and other body parts apparently carved out.

Then reports of other "mutilations" began to pour in from counties on the state's eastern plains, and stories of suspected mutilations dominated the front pages of many newspapers. The Denver Post and eight organizations offered a $13,000 reward for information leading to the apprehension of mutilators. The Post didn't receive a single response and the reward offer expired this month.

It was suggested to Whiteside's office that the reason for the mutilations might be: satanic rites, or college fraternities or even creatures from outer space. But Whiteside says he has to deal with facts—facts that point to predators not humans or Martians.

More than 200 cases of suspected cattle mutilations were reported in Colorado alone last year. This year, with the mutilations investigation no longer in the limelight, Howard Gillespie, currently in charge of the CBI investigation, says he's had only three official reports of mutilations from local sheriffs.

"We've conducted 37 examinations of hide samples in our laboratory," Gillespie said. "Of those, we've determined that two had been cut with a sharp instrument and that 35 had been chewed by some type of predator."

Officials in the diagnostic laboratory at Colorado State University in Fort Collings, Colo., agree. A spokesman said only 11 "definite mutilations" were found last year, while the number has dropped to two or three this year. Close to 50 animals have been tested, he said.

Authorities in Wyoming, where more than 100 cases of mutilations have been reported in a year, say 99 of the cases definitely were the work of other animals.

Dr. H.A. Hancock of the Wyoming State Veterinary Laboratory points out that cuts in animal hides caused by predators can look "surgically straight."

Robert Burghart Jr. of Colorado Springs, Colo., who heads the state cattlemen's association, blames the "confirmed" mutilations on pranksters who read or heard news stories about mutilations.

"If you take the scientific data now available, they all, in every instance, were predator caused," Burghart said. "Also in every instance in carcases in Colorado which were available ... it was apparent that animals already were dead (when the mutilations occurred).

"What that says to me is that if there have been mutilations, they were done by pranksters working on dead animals."

Why, then, did last summer's mutilation reports create such havoc among ranchers? Burghart thinks there are two reasons: news coverage and a the indefinable feeling a rancher has for his animals.

"The reaction of the general public was pretty volatile," Burghart said. "Anyone who has a love of life hates to think of any animal being killed. The ranchers' feeling was even more intense."

Last summer, Gov. Guy Richard Lamm called the mutilations "one of the greatest outrages in the history of the western cattle industry." He pledged the full resources of the state to arrest the persons responsible. Lamm later backed down after results of various studies were released.

But there are enough local officials still convinced there are human culprits involved to keep the controvery flickering.

One such official is Logan County Undersheriff Jerry Wolever. "We attempted to cooperate with the CBI, but we didn't get satisfactory answers," Wolever said. "We're open to any and all suggestions. Anyone could be right." But Wolever discounts the predator theory.

Sheriff George Yarnell of Elbert County, hardest hit last year with 63 reported mutilations, is another. He says he has had six mutilations reported to him since March. He says he doesn't believe they were predator-caused, though he says ranchers are not as upset as they were last summer.

And then there's Sheriff Harry L. "Tex" Graves of Logan County.

He said it's likely the CBI and lab officials at CSU would conclude the country's latest mutilation, discovered in late July, was the work of predators, even though all the cow's teeth had been cut out with surgical precision.

"There's a coyote in northeastern Colorado wearing a necklace made from cow's teeth," he said. "On the other hand, maybe he collected the teeth to take back to his dentistry class."

At That Moment

In the lobby of Memphis' Peabody Hotel, Associated Press photographer John Lindsay hears some talk, hardly more than a rumor, about a chain gang working on the levee nearby. Next morning, he rents a car. The going is rough: roads washed out, blocked. Snaking around trees through a patch of soggy woods, he finds his way to the levee and sees the gang at work. Lindsay is appalled, personally hurt, at the sight. He wants to ask the guard, "Why do they need chains while they're working?" Several days later after his pictures are published, he reads in the paper: "Chairman E. W. Hale of the Shelby County Commission has recommended commutation of sentences for the 500 black prisoners who worked on the levee."

Down On The Levee In 1937

The year 1937 began in the rain.

It rained in Wheeling and it rained in Cincinnati and it rained in Louisville and in Washington it rained while the President was telling 3,000 drenched spectators, from his inaugural stand, of his dissatisfaction with "one-third of a nation ill-housed, ill-clad, ill-nourished."

It rained in the bayous of Arkansas and in the hills of Pennsylvania and for a two-day period on the plains of Ohio it rained six inches.

Up and down the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, it rained, 16 inches here, 20 inches there. And rolling tributaries — the White, the Arkansas, the Ouachita, the Monongahela — coursing through 10 sodden states, dumped their foaming waters into the swollen Ohio which in its turn plunged with such might and violence into the Mississippi that for a stretch, the Father of Waters flowed upstream.

Never in recorded U.S. history has a flood of such proportions visited such a vast section of the country with such fury. By February 1,500,000 are homeless and another 50,000, fleeing the lowlands around Memphis, are streaming into that old steamboat town which itself is imperiled. It is apparent that the system of "flood-proof" levees on the lower Mississippi, recently completed by the Army Corps of Engineers at a cost of $325 million, will not be sufficient: the Mississippi is expected to crest at 53 feet at Memphis, seven and a half feet about the record crest.

The levees must be strengthened — and all must help. From out of their armories come National Guardsmen. From out of their work camps come members of the Civilian Conservation Corps. From out of the Shelby County Penal Farm in Tennessee, leg irons fast to ankles, comes a chain gang.

Chain gang? Most urbanites of 1937 are vaguely aware of this quaint practice in penology, but only through books and movies. Rural southerners could on occasion get an actual look at the forlorn lines of black faces working roadbeds. But photographs of the men are actively discouraged and extremely rare.

For most Americans, then, the picture they see in their morning papers February 2, 1937, four chained men on a Mississippi levee, is an eye-opener in the truest sense.

Minor Parties Aim High

DETROIT (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union and six minor political parties say they will go to the U. S. Supreme Court with their fight against a Michigan law they say is designed to keep small parties off the state's general election ballot.

The appeal is aimed at overturning a ruling last week by a three-judge U.S District Court panel which upheld a new Michigan law requiring parties to get three-tenths of a per cent of the primary vote in order to get a spot on the November ballot.

The District Court judges said the parties could appear on the ballot this year because the law was passed too late. But they also ruled that the law itself was constitutional, and would apply to later elections.

The law, passed last April, was intended to limit to nine the number of parties offering candidates in the general election. Proponents say voting machines can only handle nine parties, and if more are added paper ballots would have to be used.

But Michigan ACLU director Howard Simon called the Michigan law the toughest hurdle any minor party faces anywhere in the U.S.

"It's a frightening development when our liberties depend on the most convenient technology available to the state," Simon said, referring to the voting machine argument.

"In this time of growing disenchantment with the two major parties, we see the major parties trying desperately to protect themselves by keeping others off the ballot.

Without the District Court's exemption for this year, each minor party would have had to get about 3,500 votes in the primary in order to be on the ballot in November.

Under the old state law — which will be the guide for this year's election — the parties had to collect 17,600 petition signatures to qualify.

Of the six parties involved in the Supreme Court appeal, only the Communist Party was unable to qualify under the old law.

The other parties in the suit are the Libertarian Party, Socialist Labor Party, Communist labor party, U.S. Labor Party and Socialist Workers Party.

Also suing to get on the ballot is independent presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy.

German Pastor Dies Of Burns

BERLIN (AP) — An East German Protestant pastor who set fire to himself to protest Communist pressure against the church has died of his burns, a church spokeswoman in West Berlin said today.

The press office of the church administration in the East German city of Magdeburg replied to a query that Pastor Oskar Bruesewitz, 47, died Sunday afternoon in a hospital in the city of Halle.

"We only know the fact that he died yesterday," the West Berlin spokeswoman declared.

Western reports said Pastor Bruesewitz suffered burns over 55 per cent of his body, regained consciousnes only briefly and had to be fed artificially.

The official East German news agency ADN confirmed last Friday Pastor Bruesewitz's self-immolation and said it took place last Wednesday in front of his church in the town of Zeitz, but did not report the extent of his injuries.

Western accounts said that before setting himself on fire he had put up signs calling on the Communist regime to ease attempts to incite young people against the Christian religion.

West Berlin newspapers reported that his wife, Christa, had stated her support for her husband's action, rejecting Communist media charges that he was "abnormal."

Individual church statements presented by ADN supported the government's contention that Pastor Bruesewitz was "a sickly person" who acted on the spur of the moment.

West German television, however, interviewed two East German ministers who characterized Pastor Bruesewitz as a pious man who undertook his self-immolation as "an act of desperation" to call attention to the plight of religion in East Germany.

Skyjackers Holding 90

Associated Press by telephone that the hotel had sent lunch and drinks for 100 persons on request of officials at the airport.

He said tourists scheduled to leave Luxor had been barred from the airport and passengers already at the field were ordered back to hotels.

Egyptian officials reportedly believed the hijackers had been trained and hired by the Libyan government. Libyan President Moammar Khadafy is Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's main Arab enemy and relations between the two countries are poor. Egypt has accused Khadafy of directing a wave of terrorist attacks in Egypt in recent months. The Libyan leader has denied the charges.

The hijackers demanded the release of three Libyans jailed last month after reportedly confessing that Khadafy had ordered them to kill or kidnap a former Libyan leader, Omer el Mehelsky, now living in exile in Egypt, Interior Ministry sources said.

They also called for the release of the manager of South Yemen Airlines in Egypt and a Palestinian, both of whom are being held on charges of trying to assassinate a former prime minister of South Yemen on Aug. 6, the sources said.

Motorcyclist Breaks Leg

ALLEGAN — John B. Ostune, 33, of Allegan, was injured around 11 p.m. last night when he apparently lost control of his motorcycle near here and ran into a ditch.

Third Prisoner Flees County Jail

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

Another inmate Saturday walked away from the Berrien county jail, the third escapee in the past four weeks, but one of the other two was apprehended in Benton Harbor early today.

Berrien sheriff's deputies identified the escaped inmate Saturday as Lester G. Vincent, 20, of 1139 Lavette street, Benton Harbor. Taken into custody about 1 a.m. today by a Berrien deputy and Benton Harbor police was Bernard Meeks, 22, of 791 Buss avenue, allegedly released from jail Friday by assuming the name of a prisoner who had been released the day before.

A clerical error led to the mistaken release of Jerry L. Price, 26, of 1911 Eastland avenue, Benton township, July 28. Price is being sought for return to jail.

Meanwhile, another prisoner who failed to return to jail while on day parole last April, was returned to jail Sunday night after he was taken into custody by Benton Harbor police.

He was identified as Jasper Pleasant Hurst, 54, of 232 Bellview street, Benton Harbor. He was arrested about 11 p.m. near his home. Jail records indicate that Hurst still had 66 days left to serve on a one year sentence on a charge of aggravated assault.

Meeks, according to Capt. Gerald Hass, Berrien jail administrator, used the name of a prisoner who was released from district court after paying fine and costs. Through a clerical error, the released prisoner's name still appeared on jail records and when his name was called for release, Meeks assumed his identity.

Meeks was awaiting court examination on a charge of unlawfully driving away an auto in Buchanan township and had been sentenced to 30 days in jail for assault and battery against another prisoner in a jail cell last Wednesday.

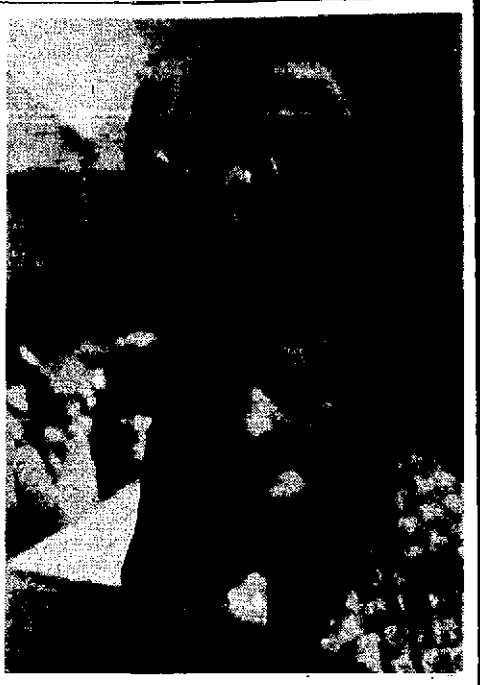

The inmate who walked away Saturday, Lester Vincent, was a jail trusty who was working in the jail kitchen area when he walked away. Guards discovered him missing about 7 a.m. Jail records show Vincent was serving a one year jail term for possession of marijuana.

He is described as white, about 5-feet-8 and weighs about 160 pounds. He was wearing a white T-shirt and blue jeans when he walked away.

Price remains at large.

Emergency Ruling Asked In AIP Case

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state has asked the Michigan Supreme Court to make an emergency decision on whether both slates of the divided American Independent party (AIP) can be on the November ballot.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley announced today that he has asked the high court to review the case on an immediate and emergency basis, even though a suit on the question is pending before the state Court of Appeals.

Kelley noted a federal court decision last week that requires the state to allow five minor parties on this year's ballot, bringing the total number of parties on the ballot to nine. State officials have said that nine full parties are all voting machines can handle, and that having more than nine parties would force the state to switch to time-consuming paper ballots.

Other suits unrelated to the AIP case could bring the total number even higher.

"If the American Independent party succeeds in having two slates placed on the ballot, the state could be forced to use the tedious paper ballot voting system in all precincts now using voting machines," Kelley said.

Bernard Apol, director of the state elections division, said a final court decision is needed by Aug. 31 to guarantee enough time to prepare for the November election.

Both factions of the AIP want the slate of candidates they support to have space on the ballot, and each has sued the secretary of state and the state director of elections. One faction has sued in the U.S. District Court, while the other has sued in the state appeals court.

Kelley said that 77 of Michigan's 83 counties use voting machines. He said that 70.5 per cent of all persons who voted at the 1974 general election used voting machines.

Troopers said the pickup was extensively damaged and that Hoadley was pinned in the vehicle.

Matchbook Makers Win Round

WASHINGTON (AP) — Matchbook makers have won a major round in their fight against costly federal safety proposals, but they're not out of the fire yet. The Consumer Product Safety Commission said Friday that it is discarding a plan to require child-resistant covers on matchbooks. The agency admitted that the plan, proposed last April, was unwieldy, uneconomical and perhaps even unsafe. One commissioner said she was concerned that, if the government made matchbooks harder to unlatch, harried adults might leave them open and actually make it easier for children to get at the matches.

denied he said the firm was at fault.

Mrs. Bloomer sued Consumers and Edison in 1973 but a Mason County circuit court jury ruled in favor of the utilities.

Consumers filed a suit against her, seeking $4,627 in court costs. Mrs. Bloomer, who said she had no money, said she deeded part of her property to the utility.

"I was personally concerned that if we started buying homes falling into Lake Michigan, where is this going to go?" said William Wisner, an attorney for Consumers.

He added, "There was some difference of opinion in our own camp whether to pursue the $4,627 in costs from a widow ... but we decided to go ahead anyway because I have never seen a case we lost where the prevailing party did not collect costs.

"I think it was the proper thing to do for to the best of my recollection, Consumers Power is not a charitable organization."

German Pastor Dies Of Burns

BERLIN (AP) — An East German Protestant pastor who set fire to himself to protest Communist pressure against the church has died of his burns, a church spokeswoman in West Berlin said today.

The press office of the church administration in the East German city of Magdeburg replied to a query that Pastor Oskar Bruesewitz, 47, died Sunday afternoon in a hospital in the city of Halle.

"We only know the fact that he died yesterday," the West Berlin spokeswoman declared.

Western reports said Pastor Bruesewitz suffered burns over 85 per cent of his body, regained consciousnes only briefly and had to be fed artificially.

The official East German news agency ADN confirmed last Friday Pastor Bruesewitz's self-immolation and said it took place last Wednesday in front of his church in the town of Zeitz, but did not report the extent of his injuries.

Western accounts said that before setting himself on fire he had put up signs calling on the Communist regime to ease attempts to incite young people against the Christian religion.

West Berlin newspapers reported that his wife, Christa, had stated her support for her husband's action, rejecting Communist media charges that he was "abnormal."

Individual church statements presented by ADN supported the government's contention that Pastor Bruesewitz was "a sickly person" who acted on the spur of the moment.

West German television, however, interviewed two East German ministers who characterized Pastor Bruesewitz as a pious man who undertook his self-immolation as "an act of desperation" to call attention to the plight of religion in East Germany.

He said tourists scheduled to leave Luxor had been barred from the airport and passengers already at the field were ordered back to hotels.

Egyptian officials reportedly believed the hijackers had been trained and hired by the Libyan government. Libyan President Moammar Khadafy is Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's main Arab enemy and relations between the two countries are poor. Egypt has accused Khadafy of directing a wave of terrorist attacks in Egypt in recent months. The Libyan leader has denied the charges.

The hijackers demanded the release of three Libyans jailed last month after reportedly confessing that Khadafy had ordered them to kill or kidnap a former Libyan leader, Omer el Meheisky, now living in exile in Egypt, Interior Ministry sources said.

They also called for the release of the manager of South Yemen Airlines in Egypt and a Palestinian, both of whom are being held on charges of trying to assassinate a former prime minister of South Yemen on Aug. 6, the sources said.

Johnny Still Can't Read: It's Disgraceful

By KATHRYN DIEHL
Reading Reform Foundation

CHAPTER ONE

If your child has finished first grade, or higher, he should be able to read the following words and phrases easily and accurately. Can he?

Fog. . .sizzle. . .clicking. . .scrub and mop. . .freeze ice cubes. .close the screen. . .strike a match. . .stir. . .church. . . herd of cows. . .long or short. . .jet plane. . .quit making that noise. . .napkin. . .bathtub. . .dentist. . .sore throat. . .traded baseball cards. . .cage of monkeys. . .empty.

Those words and phrases were picked at random from thousands found in several good first grade reading programs which use an intensive phonics method of teaching children to read. Before the end of the first grade, the children are independent readers, able to read and understand anything within their comprehension vocabulary of thousands of words.

If your child cannot read those simple words and phrases, he is in deep trouble. He probably is being taught to read by an educational mistake known as the "sight word" or "look-say" method; he is already a recruit in that vast army of functionally illiterate Americans who cannot read a help-wanted ad or the label on a bottle of pills.

Tragically, and needlessly, millions of American children through the fourth grade or higher will fail that simple test above. If your child is one of them, you will have to teach him to read at home, for it is obvious his school can't or won't.

It will take time, and it will take patience. But, if you have been able to read this far, you can do it. And you will find it easy, interesting, fun, and foolproof. Keep that always in mind: You CAN do it.

When you teach a child to read, you give him a priceless gift and the most essential skill he will need in his lifetime: the ability to read anything he wants. You will free his imagination to soar on the wings of good books, and you will remove the single greatest obstacle he will ever encounter in seeking whatever level of education he needs or wants.

The reading crisis that blights our nation can no longer be ignored. The U.S. Office of Education reported (October 1975) that the results of a four-year study indicate more than 23 million adults are functionally illiterate and another 39 million are "functional but not proficient in such tests as reading a newspaper grocery ad."

Please note these horrifying figures refer only to adults. They don't include the millions of children who already are mired in failure — unable to read, write or spell — as they struggle hopelessly and helplessly from grade to grade.

Look-say has been the predominant method of teaching reading in our public schools for 30 years. It has been primarily responsible for producing generation after generation of poor readers and non-readers. Obviously, the fault lies with the method, not with our children and not with their teachers.

You can rescue your child, of whatever age, by teaching him at home with intensive phonics.

Here, in brief, is the basic difference between the two methods:

With intensive phonics, children learn to read, write and spell words by the way they sound. Once they have learned the sounds of the letters, alone and in various combinations, and how to blend them to form words (in just a short while), they are independent readers.

With look-say, children are taught to memorize whole words by the way they look. They can spend an entire school year memorizing the various and confusing shapes of a bare 250-350 words. Look-say is not designed to produce independent readers, and seldom does.

Look-say was originally devised in the early 1800s as a means of teaching reading to deaf mutes. It worked well with them; a child who could hear no sounds, say no sounds, could develop a limited reading vocabulary by associating a picture of a dog with the printed word "dog," if the association was made often enough. Why it was ever decided that this would be an effective method for children who could hear and say sounds, remains a mystery to this day.

Samuel L. Blumenfeld, whose discovery of the origins of look-say is reported in his book, "The New Illiterates," even notes that in The Rev. Thomas H. Gallaudet's 1837 primer based on the sight-word method, the three main characters were Frank, Jane and a dog named Spot.

All look-say publishers now claim they teach phonics. The fact is, they DON'T teach phonics. At best, they introduce some phonetic principles in haphazard, unscientific ways that do nothing more than confuse the child.

If the school isn't teaching your child to read, you must teach him at home. It can be done easily, in a reasonable number of hours, and quite inexpensively.

It is getting dark now in American education. You must turn on the lights for your child.

MICHIGAN TOBACCO: Bill Butts, 51, stands next to his small crop of Burley tobacco grown in a garden across from his home at 1573 Leeds avenue, Benton township. Butts says he's tried to grow tobacco in previous years but was unsuccessful until he started the seedlings in his house and transplanted them. On advice from an old tobacco grower, Butts intends to clip the flowers (top of plant), which will cause the leaves to grow larger. He will later dry the leaves. The large leaves are reportedly the best for smoking. (Staff photo)

REMAINDER IN TRUST

St. Joe Woman Wills $435,000

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The will of Helen Anthony Carver leaves $435,000 to various individuals and organizations and assigns the the remainder of her estate to a trust created in 1968. Provisions of the trust were not available.

Her 1975 will and a 1976 codicil containing amendments does not set a specific dollar value on the estate for which proceedings have been started in Berrien court to admit the estate to probate. A hearing has been scheduled for Sept. 14 before Judge Ronald Lange on admission to probate.

MRS. HELEN CARVER

Mrs. Carver, of St. Joseph, died Aug. 7 on her 86th birthday. She was the owner of Anthony Oil Co. Shreveport, La., and former owner of Heath Co. which she sold in 1955. She was the wife of Joseph Carver and she had no children.

Mrs. Carver's will directs executors to purchase a $100,000 annuity for Joseph Carver "from any reputable insurance company" with at least 10 years of payments.

The will states that if Carver should die before termination of the annuity, payments will be made to the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, Washington, D.C.

Atty. Roger Law, of Grand Rapids, and Old Kent Bank and Trust Co., Grand Rapids, are named executors and trustees in the will.

The will states there is real estate valued at $10,000 and upwards and personal property of $50,000 and upwards.

The will leaves personal effects, jewelry, crystal and silver to Joseph Carver whom she married in 1958. Mrs. Carver's first husband, Howard Anthony, was killed in 1954 in a plane crash. She and Howard Anthony purchased the assets of the bankrupt Heath Co. in the 1930s and built it into the world's largest producer of electronic kits.

Other provisions of Mrs. Carver's will:

Wearing apparel to be divided equally between her sisters, Edith Ostrander, of Kalamazoo, and Ruth Hunter, of Benton Harbor.

$50,000 each to Edith Ostrander and Ruth Hunter.

$20,000 each to Christine (Kubath) Clark, Kalamazoo; James Ballard, Darien, Ill.; Jerome Ballard, Charlotte, N.C.; and Dorothy Pawlacyk, Stevensville; and Earl Clough, Rosedale, W.Va.

$15,000 each to Melinda Hunt, Benton Harbor; Taylor Nelums, Benton Harbor; Roberta Stevens, St. Joseph; the American Bible Society of New York; and Marian Mattox, St. Joseph.

Forgive the balance of any indebtedness to Mrs. Carver by Claude Fell, of Sacramento, Calif., and Fay Hyslop, of Benton Harbor.

A set of Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentaries to Gloria Palmisano, of Colorna.

$10,000 to Esther Moore, of Buchanan.

$25,000 for the education of the five children of Mario and Gloria Palmisano in Seventh-day Adventist schools.

$25,000 to The Quiet Hour, Redlands, Calif.

Forgive any indebtedness to Mrs. Carver by Voice of Prophecy, Glendale, Calif.

The will also directs payment of a 10 per cent tithe on taxable income for partial calendar year ending at date of death to Seventh-day Adventist church, Berrien Springs.

A Million's Left Over

FARMINGTON HILLS, Mich. (AP) — At a time when most cities are experiencing a financial crunch, this Detroit suburb is on the verge of returning $1 million to its residents. The money is what's left over after the city pays off the remainder of $2.5 million in bonds sold in the mid-1960s to build and improve sewers and the city water system. If the city council approves the rebates tonight, it could mean the return of from $50 to $500 to property owners in 20 of the city's 80 to 85 special assessment districts. Girard Miller, city finance director, said the city has a surplus because the bonds were sold at a lower interest rate than anticipated. Construction costs also were lower than expected, Miller said.

They're Angry At Carter

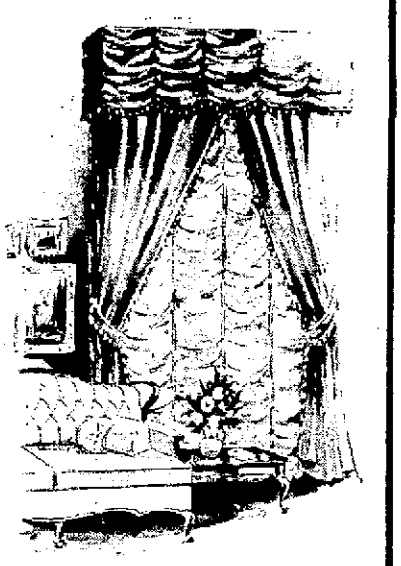

DETROIT (AP) — Angry at being snubbed by the Democratic candidates, the National Primitive Baptist Convention has voted not to endorse Jimmy Carter or his vice-presidential running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn. The Rev. R. N. Gooden, executive vice-president of the black denomination, said the move came after both candidates failed to appear before the convention despite reported assurances one of them would. Spokesmen for the two Democratic nominees, however, have insisted neither Carter nor Mondale were committed to appear. Gooden said another factor in the rejection of a committee resolution to endorse the Carter-Mondale ticket is the church's policy against political endorsements.

MICHIGAN TOBACCO: Bill Butts, 51, stands next to his small crop of Burley tobacco grown in a garden across from his home at 1573 Leeds avenue, Benton township. Butts says he's tried to grow tobacco in previous years but was unsuccessful until he started the seedlings in his house and transplanted them. On advice from an old tobacco grower, Butts intends to clip the flowers (top of plant), which will cause the leaves to grow larger. He will later dry the leaves. The large leaves are reportedly the best for smoking. (Staff photo)

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The will of Helen Anthony Carver leaves $435,000 to various individuals and organizations and assigns the the remainder of her estate to a trust created in 1968. Provisions of the trust were not available.

Her 1975 will and a 1976 codicil containing amendments does not set a specific dollar value on the estate for which proceedings have been started in Berrien court to admit the estate to probate. A hearing has been scheduled for Sept. 14 before Judge Ronald Lange on admission to probate.

MRS. HELEN CARVER

Mrs. Carver, of St. Joseph, died Aug. 7 on her 66th birthday. She was the owner of Anthony Oil Co. Shreveport, La., and former owner of Heath Co. which she sold in 1955. She was the wife of Joseph Carver and she had no children.

Mrs. Carver's will directs executors to purchase a $100,000 annuity for Joseph Carver "from any reputable insurance company" with at least 10 years of payments.

The will states that if Carver should die before termination of the annuity, payments will be made to the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, Washington, D.C.

Atty. Roger Law, of Grand Rapids, and Old Kent Bank and Trust Co., Grand Rapids, are named executors and trustees in the will.

The will states there is real estate valued at $10,000 and upwards and personal property of $50,000 and upwards.

The will leaves personal effects, jewelry, crystal and silver to Joseph Carver whom she married in 1958. Mrs. Carver's first husband, Howard Anthony, was killed in 1954 in a plane crash. She and Howard Anthony purchased the assets of the bankrupt Heath Co. in the 1930s and built it into the world's largest producer of electronic kits.

Other provisions of Mrs. Carver's will:

Wearing apparel to be divided equally between her sisters, Edith Ostrander, of Kalamazoo, and Ruth Hunter, of Benton Harbor.

$50,000 each to Edith Ostrander and Ruth Hunter.

$15,000 each to Melinda Hunt, Benton Harbor; Taylor Nelums, Benton Harbor; Roberta Stevens, St. Joseph; the American Bible Society of New York; and Marian Mattox, St. Joseph.

Forgive the balance of any indebtedness to Mrs. Carver by Claude Fell, of Sacramento, Calif., and Fay Hyslop, of Benton Harbor.

A set of Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentaries to Gloria Palmisano, of Coloma.

$10,000 to Esther Moore, of Buchanan.

$25,000 for the education of the five children of Mario and Gloria Palmisano in Seventh-day Adventist schools.

$25,000 to The Quiet Hour, Redlands, Calif.

Forgive any indebtedness to Mrs. Carver by Voice of Prophecy, Glendale, Calif.

The will also directs payment of a 10 per cent tithe on taxable income for partial calendar year ending at date of death to Seventh-day Adventist church, Berrien Springs.

A Million's Left Over

FARMINGTON HILLS, Mich. (AP) — At a time when most cities are experiencing a financial crunch, this Detroit suburb is on the verge of returning $1 million to its residents. The money is what's left over after the city pays off the remainder of $2.5 million in bonds sold in the mid-1960s to build and improve sewers and the city water system. If the city council approves the rebates tonight, it could mean the return of from $50 to $500 to property owners in 20 of the city's 80 to 85 special assessment districts. Girard Miller, city finance director, said the city has a surplus because the bonds were sold at a lower interest rate than anticipated. Construction costs also were lower than expected, Miller said.

They're Angry At Carter

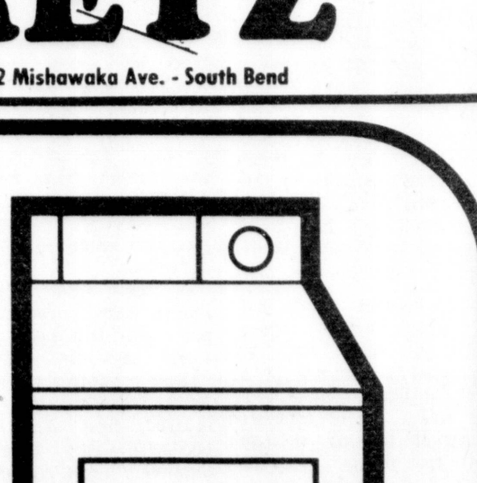

DETROIT (AP) — Angry at being snubbed by the Democratic candidates, the National Primitive Baptist Convention has voted not to endorse Jimmy Carter or his vice-presidential running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn. The Rev. R. N. Gooden, executive vice-president of the black denomination, said the move came after both candidates failed to appear before the convention despite reported assurances one of them would. Spokesmen for the two Democratic nominees, however, have insisted neither Carter nor Mondale were committed to appear. Gooden said another factor in the rejection of a committee resolution to endorse the Carter-Mondale ticket is the church's policy against political endorsements.

Chowchilla Honors Hero Bus Driver And Children

By ROBERT McEWEN
Associated Press Writer

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Bus driver Ed Ray, and 24 of the 26 children he helped escape after a bizarre kidnaping, rode down the street on a red, white and blue float as they were honored by a grateful town.

The crowd on hand Sunday exceeded the town's population by about 500.

The shy hero and the youngsters rode down main street while a high school band played Spanish marching music.

Ray waved from his seat at the front of the float. His arms were draped around two of the youngsters he helped free.

Two of the kidnap victims have moved from Chowchilla and were not present, but the other youngsters, perched in uneven rows on the float, waved, pointed to friends and laughed.

People sitting on curbs and lawn chairs whooped and hollered, and parents held tiny children aloft under a sunny sky.

"All America should be indebted to his example," President Ford said in a letter read to the crowd by Chowchilla Mayor Jim Dumas.

Ray, 55, received 10 plaques and scrolls. Among them was one handed to him by 9-year-old Jennifer Brown, one of the children on last month's fateful bus ride.

"Me and the kids have something for you too, Ed," she said. "And we all signed it."

A gray stone monument was unveiled. It bore a plaque which reads, "With heartfelt thanks the people of Chowchilla commemorate the safe return of 26 school children and their bus driver who were abducted July 15, 1976, and who escaped unharmed 30 hours later."

Then there was a barbecue at the fairgrounds. About 5,500 people showed up, more than the town's population.

There were few words from the hero. Asked how he felt, he answered, "Gee, I dunno."

When a reporter asked whether this was the biggest event of his life, Ray thought a moment, finished a plate of barbecued beef and replied, "Yep."

The children and driver had been whisked away in two moving vans and transported to an underground prison in a rock quarry. Under Ray's direction, they dug their way out to freedom.

Three young men from wealthy San Francisco Bay area families were arrested after the incident. Frederick Woods, 34, James Schoenfeld, 24, and Richard Schoenfeld, 22, have pleaded innocent to kidnap and robbery charges. They are scheduled to face a preliminary hearing Thursday.

HERO HONORED: Bus driver Ed Ray waves to newsmen as he and the young victims of July 15 mass kidnaping are paraded down main street of Chowchilla, Calif. Townspeople celebrated the safe return of Ray and the children with an awards ceremony and barbecue Sunday. (AP Wirephoto)

UAW Picks 'Target' Soon

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union, after five weeks of bargaining for new labor contracts, selects a strike target this week from among the Big Three automakers.

No progress has been reported in the negotiations since they began more than a month ago. Which company will be chosen as the target for a possible walkout remains a matter of speculation among industry observers.

Will it be Ford because it's the No. 2 maker's turn? Or maybe industry giant General Motors because of its strong financial position? And what about Chrysler, always a possible candidate because it's so vulnerable to a strike?.

The UAW, which has not tipped its hand thus far, will provide the answer on Tuesday, when its international executive board convenes to debate the issue.

Union officials say there still is no agreement among leaders on who the target should be and there likely won't be until after they thrash it out in closed session.

"We never make a selection until the last minute," said one official. "We like to discuss all the pros and cons first. We may go in to the meeting expecting to name one company and then come out with a different one."

Veteran labor observers see Ford as the frontrunner for 1976, mainly because Ford hasn't been the target since the 1967 round of triennial talks. A settlement was reached that year following a 66-day strike.

GM was the target in 1970, when it was hit by a 67-day walkout, and Chrysler was tagged in 1973, when there was a nine-day strike.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock has said repeatedly all year that Ford won't be the target simply because it's Ford's turn.

And union officials are quick to point out there are many good reasons for going to Ford, GM or Chrysler, as well as strong arguments for not picking any of them this year.

The union, which is bargaining for 680,000 auto workers, will be sifting through those pros and cons in determining which company will be picked to either set an industry pattern settlement or to strike when current three-year pacts expires Sept. 14.

"We have to assess where we can get the most in the quickest time," a UAW vice president said.

Too Much Direction?

DETROIT (AP) — A Recorder's Court Judge has dropped charges against 11 of 14 people accused of being part of a major car-theft ring because, the judge says, all of the autos were stolen at the direction of the police. Judge Dalton A. Roberson's 17-page opinion called police action in the case "reprehensible," and strongly criticized the prosecution's handling of the matter. Two Detroit policemen who infiltrated the alleged car theft ring charged that orders for luxury cars were taken from individuals and dealers in other states, and the cars to fill those orders were stolen from Detroit area car lots and neighborhoods. But Judge Roberson said all of the autos involved in the alleged thefts were ordered by the undercover police agents. He ruled that the police played such an active role when they infiltrated the alleged ring that it could be argued the thefts were not unlawful because they were directed by police. Three men still face charges of receiving and concealing stolen property.

Swiss Expel Two From East

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The Swiss government today announced the expulsion of a Soviet diplomat and a Romanian Embassy employe. A Justice Ministry spokesman said the two cases were not related nor were they connected with the recent arrest of retired Brig. Gen. Jean-Louis Jeanmaire, who is suspected of spying for the Soviet Union.

Why Do You Suffer From Your Headache

Fifteen million Americans suffer from headaches every day. Why? We approached Dr. Vince Ackerman of The Ackerman Chiropractic Center and frequent lecturer on the subject of headaches, on that big "WHY" regarding headaches.

Dr. Vince Ackerman

"Well, technically, most chronic headaches are due to irritation and compression of the upper spinal nerves," the prominent doctor states. "But when you talk headache you could spend an hour discussing various technical and medical aspects and they'd still all boil down to one thing: Pain."

"But to stick with the 'why'," says Dr. Ackerman, "you must realize that headache is part of the sympton complex in many diseases. However, he points out, "most chronic or recurring headaches at the base of the skull and upper neck are caused by irritation of the upper three spinal nerves."

Dr. Ackerman notes that the spinal nerves which supply the scalp may be compressed or irritated by a slightly displaced spinal segment which partly occludes the spinal opening through which the nerves exit the spine.

"This type of chronic headache at the base of the skull may radiate pain to the top of the head and the temples," says Dr. Ackerman. "It is usually accompanied by tender spots in the scalp, upper neck and at the base of the skull." He adds that it may occasionally be accompanied by dizziness and nausea and thereby confused with other types of problems.

"The upper three spinal nerves may also be irritated or compressed by postural decay of the upper spine," Dr. Ackerman notes. "In this case the scalp and neck muscles are constantly pulled to a critical tension against the spine and skull . . . excessive and prolonged muscle tension compresses the delicate nerves which lie between the skull and the scalp muscles."

Dr. Ackerman is quick to state that all this talk of headches is always overshadowed by pain experienced by the sufferer. "You can't do much for a headache by just talking. The person who has a painful headache, especially if it's a chronic condition, wants and needs effective treatment."

It should be remembered that all serious headache problems start with a first one, then another, then another until the condition is chronic. "Talk to a person who suffers from recurring migraine attacks and you'll seek effective treatment of your first headache," says Dr. Ackerman.

Of course, most of those 15 million daily headaches get 'a pain pill treatment ' this way," says Dr. Ackerman. "These self-treating habit-forming potents are simply delaying final action on a headache. They offer only temporary relief and obviously do little if anything toward correcting the basic cause of the headache."

"Why" the headache? That question has been answered.

"Why" not effective treatment?" That question is up to you.

Dr. Ackerman maintains offices at 3018 Red Arrow Hwy., St. Joseph (Telephone 429-1700.)

Michigan Man Is Charged After Smashup, Fire Hurt 7

MAYWOOD, Ill. (AP) — A Michigan man was being held today on charges of arson and attempted murder after he threw a match into the ruptured gas tank of a car, injuring seven Indiana residents, police said.

He was identified as James Superits, 23, of Wakefield, Mich.

Superits reportedly crashed his auto into the rear of a car carrying seven persons Saturday afternoon on the Tri-State Tollway south of Chicago. He then threw a lighted match into the gasoline tank, officials said.

State police said four of the persons still were in the car when it caught fire and had to be rescued by police and other motorists.

Marcielle Winebrenner, 63, of rural Albion, Ind., suffered a fractured vertebra and a fractured wrist after she was dragged from the car. Police said someone pushed her into a ditch to protect her from a possible explosion.

Mrs. Winebrenner was reported in fair condition in South Suburban Hospital, Hazel Crest, where her husband, Walter, was treated and released.

The driver of the car struck by Superits, Willard Gilbert of Churbusco, Ind., and his two children, Carrie, 8, and Andrew, 6, were released after treatment at the hospital.

Gilbert's wife, Carol, 35, was admitted to the hospital with head injuries.

Inez Grawcock, 78, of Lauto, Ind., was admitted to Ingalls Memorial Hospital, Harvey, with head injuries.

Superits was charged with reckless driving, arson and four counts of attempted murder. He was in custody in the Cook County sheriff's police lockup in Maywood.

Denial From On High

DETROIT (AP) — The No. 2 man in the Detroit Police Department, Frank Blount, has denied any involvement in alleged narcotics payoffs under investigation by the U.S. Justice Department. "It's a lie," the 51-year-old executive deputy chief said. "It's not true." A Justice Department Official in Detroit told the Detroit News that federal investigators are "taking a hard look" at Blount and several other police and civilian department employes in connection with an alleged narcotics payoff scheme. Blount, the highest-ranking black in the history of the Detroit Police Department, speculated the investigation might have stemmed from a longstanding feud with his immediate superior, Police Chief Philip Tannian.

Filipino Nurses In 'Nightmare'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Two Filipino nurses, awaiting a Jan. 4 federal court trial on charges of slaying five patients and poisoning 10 others at a Veterans Hospital, say their ordeal "seems like a nightmare."

The nurses, center of an international situation as the Philippine government joined in an inquiry into the multiple deaths, granted their first full-scale interview last week.

Their meeting with a Detroit Free Press staffer came as the FBI continued its efforts to piece together evidence to convict the two women.

Filipina Narcisco, 30, and Mrs. Leonoru Perez, 32, said they found their role as defendants in an upcoming murder trial an unreal one.

"It is a real thing, and there is no unreality about it," said Richard Idelonis, the federal prosecutor assigned to the case.

The FBI entry came Aug. 16, 1975, after a series of strange deaths cropped up at the Veterans Administration in Ann Arbor. A pattern of death by heart arrest developed in many of the cases and led to the call for federal authorities to investigate.

The two women, both immigrants from the Philippines, were arrested June 16 after being indicted by a federal grand jury in Detroit.

They were charged with injecting the drug Pavulon into the intravenous solution of veterans who were patients at the hospital.

Government officials admitted their case was largely circumstantial but insisted they had enough to convict the two women who had worked in the wards area where the deaths and lesser cases occurred.

The two nurses have insisted they did not know each other until they met at the Ann Arbor VA facility in the spring of 1975. Even then, they said, they were not close friends but rather co-workers.

Most of the suspicious breathing failures, that caused a wave of fear in the big VA facility, occurred at times when both nurses were on duty, the FBI and grand jury said.

Friends and well wishers in the Philippines and this country joined in a fund-raising drive to get an anticipated $350,000 needed for legal fees in the case, plus $36,000 more for court transcripts of court proceedings.

Dr. Bernard Naylor of the University of Michigan, an official of a defense fund committee, said it has raised only $5,500 to date but insisted the tempo of collections would pick up as trial time nears.

In addition, fund-raising drives are going on in the Phillipines with considerable success, he said.

Defendant Narcisco summed up the feelings of the two nurses as she told a newsmen, "I think I have decided to face reality. This is going on, and all I can do is to be strong and face it."

170 ARRESTED
Nuke Protesters Held In N.H.

By KARL SWANSON
Associated Press Writer

EXETER, N.H. (AP) — About 170 demonstrators were arrested during an antinuclear power protest at the construction site of a $1.6 billion nuclear plant.

The demonstrators were scheduled for arraignment today on charges of criminal trespass and contempt of court. The latter charge stems from issuance of a Superior Court injunction banning anyone from the utility's construction site without authorization.

The protesters were carried or dragged to 10 school buses Sunday by about 100 state troopers after being told to leave the Public Service Co. of New Hampshire's construction site in Seabrook. They were held overnight at a National Guard armory in Portsmouth.

"No forced busing!" the protesters chanted as the buses arrived and the troopers moved in to break up the demonstration against construction of the plant.

The demonstrators came from throughout New England and New York State. About 1,000 persons gathered at Hampton Falls Common for rally Sunday afternoon, and then about 200 of them went to the guarded plant site via an old railroad right-of-way.

The demonstration was organized by the Clamshell Alliance, a coalition of New England antinuclear power groups.

The protestors sat in a large circle in the construction area, singing and shouting "No nukes!"

Site manager John Herrin told them they could leave peacefully if they chose to vacate the 715-acre oceanfront site. A few minutes later an attorney accompanying the group asked if they could remain for about 15 minutes.

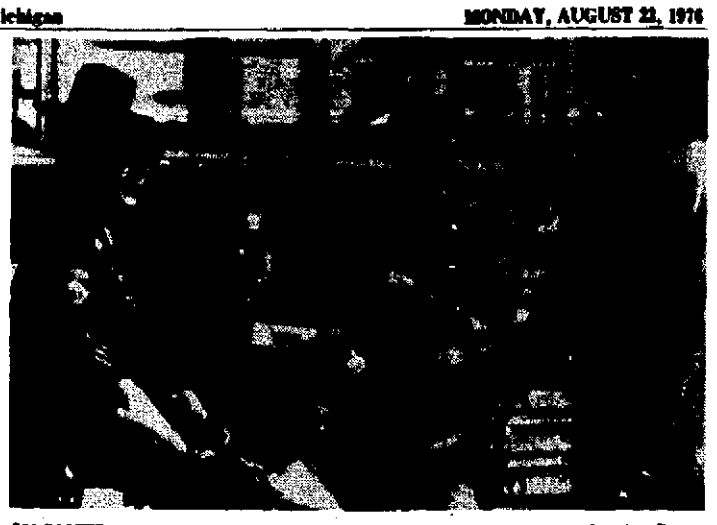

"No, it's too late," Herrin replied. A few minutes later, he changed his mind and said the protesters could stay for 10 minutes.

"No!" the demonstrators responded as the state police arrived.

Col. Paul Doyon told the group they had 10 minutes to leave the site, but they remained seated. Many joked and chatted with troopers as they let their bodies go limp, forcing officers to drag or carry them to waiting buses.

There were no injuries and no open hostility between police and protesters.

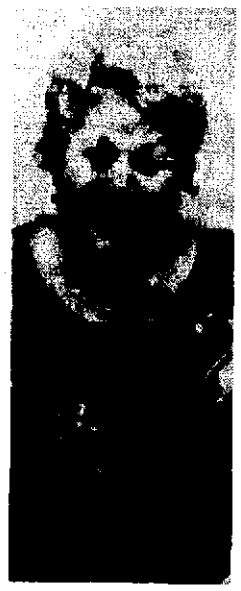

Eighteen persons were arrested Aug. 1 during a similar demonstration at the site. Three more were arrested several days later at the official ground-breaking ceremonies.

Survey Shows Police Split

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's white policemen view Mayor Coleman Young as a cop-hater and see Police Chief Philip Tannian as the mayor's puppet, an informal survey by the Detroit Free Press shows. The newspaper concluded Sunday, based on interviews with about two dozen police officers, that black officers appear to have much better morale than whites on the force. The black officers also have a higher opinion of Tannian and Young. Among the white officers interviewed, there was a common complaint that the mayor, police chief and ranking officers fail to support the cop in the street. But a black officer, Lt. Johnnie Shoates, said, "I think the mayor is trying to have a police department that is truly representative of the city. I do not think for one minute he is anti-police."

Missile Report 'Redone'

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Daniel O. Graham, retired military intelligence chief, says analysis rewrote an estimate of Soviet progress in missile warhead development after Henry Kissinger disagreed with their original conclusions.

"I was employed at CIA when one fully coordinated National Intelligence Estimate on Soviet strategic attack systems was returned for rewrite by Dr. Kissinger because he disagreed with certain conclusions," Graham said. "It was rewritten."

Graham said Kissinger, then head of the National Security Council, wanted the estimate to indicate faster Russian progress toward achieving multiple independently targetable warheads (MIRVs).

"The estimate was changed in his direction," Graham said.

He recalled that the incident occurred in late 1969 or early 1970 when the Nixon administration was working toward an agreement with the Soviet Union on limiting strategic nuclear weapons.

The general, who retired last January as director of the Defense Intelligence Agency, suggested that Kissinger wanted a more ominous intelligence estimate to support arguments that such an agreement was imperative to curb Soviet missile gains.

An associate of Kissinger said Graham's version of the incident was overdrawn and "not quite a fair representation" of what happened.

"I don't believe that Kissinger sent the National Intelligence Estimate back to get a different conclusion," the Kissinger associate said.

"He probably told them to look at the NIE again and consider all possible interpretations of the evidence. There was a fair amount of debate in Washington at the time about the Russian S9 missile and whether they were MIRVing it.

"I would seriously doubt that Kissinger would tell the technicians what to conclude. To my knowledge, he has never done that."

The CIA was given an opportunity to comment but did not do so.

Graham mentioned the incident briefly and without detail in an article in "Strategic Review," journal of the privately financed United States Strategic Institute. He elaborated in an interview.

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Daniel O. Graham, retired military intelligence chief, says analysts rewrote an estimate of Soviet progress in missile warhead development after Henry Kissinger disagreed with their original conclusions.

"I was employed at CIA when one fully coordinated National Intelligence Estimate on Soviet strategic attack systems was returned for rewrite by Dr. Kissinger because he disagreed with certain conclusions," Graham said. "It was rewritten."

Graham said Kissinger, then head of the National Security Council, wanted the estimate to indicate faster Russian progress toward achieving multiple independently targetable warheads (MIRVs).

"The estimate was changed in his direction," Graham said.

He recalled that the incident occurred in late 1969 or early 1970 when the Nixon administration was working toward an agreement with the Soviet Union on limiting strategic nuclear weapons.

The general, who retired last January as director of the Defense Intelligence Agency, suggested that Kissinger wanted a more ominous intelligence estimate to support arguments that such an agreement was imperative to curb Soviet missile gains.

An associate of Kissinger said Graham's version of the incident was overdrawn and "not quite a fair representation" of what happened.

"I don't believe that Kissinger sent the National Intelligence Estimate back to get a different conclusion," the Kissinger associate said.

"He probably told them to look at the NIE again and consider all possible interpretations of the evidence. There was a fair amount of debate in Washington at the time about the Russian S9 missile and whether they were MIRVing it.

"I would seriously doubt that Kissinger would tell the technicians what to conclude. To my knowledge, he has never done that."

The CIA was given an opportunity to comment but did not do so.

Graham mentioned the incident briefly and without detail in an article in "Strategic Review," journal of the privately financed United States Strategic Institute. He elaborated in an interview.

BRIDGE REEMERGES: The ancient Dartmoor granite bridge has reemerged from the Fernworthy Reservoir for the first time since 1943 as England's worst drought in 250 years has dried up the reservoir. (AP Wirephoto)

South England Is Tinderbox

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — Six counties in southern England and Wales smouldered today after fire fighters battled through the night and put out two big forest fires and more than 200 smaller blazes that swept through the drought-stricken countryside.

Fire brigade officers warned that the fires could break out again at any time, since Britain's worst drought in 250 years has made southern England and Wales "a giant tinderbox."

Authorities estimated that some 3,000 persons were evacuated Sunday, including 1,000 from a country club, 360 aged patients from St. Leonard's Geriatric Hospital, a nudist colony and holidayers in mobile home parks.

Twenty fire fighters were overcome by heat and smoke, and about 50 homes were destroyed, but no towns were threatened, police reported.

A dozen highways and three major rail lines in southern England were closed as hundreds of troops, firemen and volunteers fought the fires, which were fanned by strong winds.

The biggest blaze was in the Burn Forest, 15 miles west of Southampton, on England's south coast. Fire chiefs said an estimated six square miles were burned over.

"We stopped the flames only a few hundred yards from St. Leonard's Hospital," a fire officer reported.

"It was terrifying. The flames leapt from the crowns of the trees 60 feet up and we couldn't always get at them. We nearly didn't make it."

The fire fighters used up thousands of gallons of water. The government has already warned that water will soon be rationed in many areas if rain does not fall and replenish dried-up reservoirs, rivers and underground springs.

The fires raged through tinder-dry forests and moorland in five southern counties — Hampshire, Dorset, Kent, Sussex and Norfolk — and Merioneth county in northwest Wales.

Kiss And Run

LONDON (AP) — Rock musician Mick Jagger's wife, Bianca, fled from photographers Sunday night when they caught her kissing record company executive Barry Cross at London's Heathrow Airport. Cross hit one photographer in the chest with a briefcase and yelled, "If you take pictures there'll be trouble." Then he ran off and caught a plane to Nice, France.

Fifth Tropical Storm May Grow Into Hurricane

MIAMI (AP) — Forecasters say tropical storm Emmy, which started Sunday as just a depression, could grow into a hurricane and threaten the Leeward Islands.

Emmy was organizing itself over the South Atlantic overnight, and a hurricane watch was issued for the extreme northern Leeward Islands today.

Forecasters said the storm would probably pass close enough to cause some gale force winds, mainly in heavier showers and thundershowers. They said some localized flooding could occur on the islands from heavy rainfall.

At midnight EDT, Emmy was about 170 miles east-northeast of Antigua, with winds of 55 miles per hour.

Meanwhile, hurricane Candice was churning open water in the North Atlantic. That storm became the season's second hurricane Sunday when its winds reached 75 miles per hour.

The National Hurricane Center here said Candice's only threat at the present time was to shipping, and that it was south of the main shipping lines.

At midnight, the hurricane was about 400 miles southeast of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

The first hurricane of the season, Belle, formed earlier this month east of The Bahamas and moved over Long Island, N.Y., Aug. 9. At least three deaths and $12 million in insured losses were attributed to Belle.

Tropical storm Dottie formed this past week over Key West, Fla., and dumped heavy rains in south Florida and the midAtlantic coast before breaking up as it came ashore last Friday night near Charleston, S.C.

The first tropical storm, Anna, developed in the mid-Atlantic on July 30 and then broke up.

Michigan GOP Delegation Unity Has Shaky Base

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Republican National convention ended on a note of solidarity last week, and the feeling was reflected in the Michigan delegation.

Leaders of both the Ford and Reagan camps pledged unity in the campaign for the White House, Senate, Congress and the state legislature.

They made a special effort to put to rest any speculation that the battle for the GOP nomination caused a serious split among Michigan Republicans.

And leaders noted the party will need all the unity it can get—plus support from independent voters—to enable Gerald Ford to win his home state in November.

There were, however, some strong words and ill feelings among the Reagan followers, who felt they were treated as second-class citizens from the moment they mounted a campaign against Ford on his home turf.

Regarded as outcasts by party regulars, they complained of being frozen out of convention committees and discriminated against in matters like pages and guest tickets.

Some of that feeling still remains, yet most of the Reagan backers are expected to support the Ford-Dole ticket.

An Associated Press poll of 35 of the 58 Reagan delegates and alternates from Michigan showed that 23 would support the ticket this fall, and only six said they definitely would not. Sixteen said they would work actively for Ford's election.

More important, Reagan leaders pledged their total support to Ford. Both state chairman John Welborn, a state senator from Kalamazoo, and his finance chairman, John Gnau, said they had no reservations in backing the President.

"Some of our people say things. But when they think about it, we don't have any choice," Welborn said. "Jerry Ford is still a million times better than Jimmy Carter."

In a last-day gesture of unity, Welborn removed himself Thursday from consideration as a possible seconding speaker for North Carolina Sen. Jesse Helms, who was nominated to oppose Robert Dole for the vice presidential slot. Helms withdrew his own name from consideration.

Welborn said a vast majority of Reagan followers from Michigan will support the ticket, adding he was "not in support of a third-party move whatsoever."

Gnau said he would work enthusiastically for Ford.

Similar voices of unification came from the Ford camp.

"It is essential to try and have them with us," said Gov. William Milliken. But he added that Ford won't carry Michigan or win the election with support only from Republicans, even if Reagan and Ford backers pull together.

Both Congressman Marvin Esch, seeking a Senate seat, and Sen. Robert Griffin predicted party unity this fall. And top Republican leaders also forecast a victory for Ford in his own state — but admitted it isn't assured. The Carter campaign is expected to launch a major effort in Michigan.

"If he (Ford) can't carry Michigan, he's going to have problems in other areas of the country," Milliken said.

He added Ford probably will spend most of his time in other regions of the country, relying on his native-son fame and the strong state party organization to help him win as it did in the May presidential primary.

EX-GOVERNOR HONORED

DENVER (AP) — The late Ralph L. Carr, who as governor of Colorado offered refuge to Japanese-Americans fleeing prejudice elsewhere in the nation in World War II, has been honored for his actions. FOR SAILORS AND TOURISTS

Soo Locks Are A Sight To See

By GEORGE VARGO

Now is the time to visit one of the most encouraging cities in Michigan's beautiful upper peninsula. There is so much to see in this part of the state: the famous Soo locks, legend of the locks museum, the propeller of the first steamer to go through the locks and anchors from old-time sailing ships. THe main attraction, of course, is the immense locks.

Sault Ste. Marie, the oldest city in Michigan, is the third oldest white settlement in the U.S., having been established in 1668, the year that Father Marquette built the first mission church. The "Soo" as the county seat is commonly known is on the shore of the St. Mary's river, through which the waters of Lake Superior flow to Lake Huron. The French called a cascade or rapids a "Sault", meaning "leap or jump". They added the name of a patron saint to the term and called it Sault de Sainte Marie, "leap of St. Mary's."

The Soo is the home of one of the greatest engineering marvels of our time, the Locks of the St. Mary's which annually handle more tonnage than the Panama and Suez Canals combined. Ships are raised or lowered 21 feet between Lake Superior and Lake Huron. Four locks are in use at the present time. MacArthur lock is 800 feet long, 80 feet wide. The new Poe lock is 200 feet long and 110 feet wide and the Davis lock 1,350 long and the Sain lock same dimensions as the Davis.

The water level on the Lake Superior side is about 21 feet high than the level on the Lake Huron side. The locks serve as "elevators" to raise and lower vessels from the one level to the other.

An "inbound" vessel coming from Lake Huron or Michigan via the St. Mary's River enters the open lock to which it is directed by the control tower.

The gates are closed behind it, and water from the Lake Superior side is allowed to flow into the lock through a system. When the water reaches the highest level, the gates on the upper end are opened and the vessel proceeds into the "upper pool" on the Lake Superior side.

The process is reversed for a downbound vessel. It enters a lock filled to the upper level and the gates are closed behind it. The valves are opened to permit the water in the lock to flow out and seek the level of the "lower pool" side, and the vessel is lowed to the lower side and it "locks downbound."

Thousands of visitors crowd the lookout towers at the locks daily. Youngsters thrill to the sight of the big ships which pass through the locks. Oldsters with cameras take pictures daily. One beautiful sight are the floral gardens scattered around adjacent park. Benches are all over the place where oldsters tell stories of the locks to the

AT MACKINAC CITY: On your way to or from the Soo, visit historic Mackinac City, too. One of sights is old Mackinac lighthouse here. It's one of oldest around the straits.

FOREIGN VESSEL: Large Greek ship bound for Lake Superior for load of grain passes through locks. She is one of hundreds of foreign ships that haul wheat, corn and barley to other countries during navigation season.

Locks At Soo A Sight To See

small fry.

East of the locks is a large freighter used as a museum and donated by a steel company. Also, there is the biggest wrecking tug, the Favorite, which went to the rescue of ships wrecked, and there are various Coast Guard ships nearby. Some tourists stay up all night watching foreign ships passing through the locks.

It was to overcome the shipping obstacle of the rapids in the St. Mary's River that the locks were constructed. Through common usage the original French word has been corrupted and today the locks are known officially as the Soo Locks.

There are many places to visit in and around the Soo. See one of the marvels of the Great Lakes, a channel dynamited through solid rock, located 18 miles south of the Soo, near the Neebish ferry. Other places and things to see: De Tour, where all ships heading for the Soo locks and Lake Superior must pass; St. Ignace; Mackinac bridge; and Michilimackinac Fort near the bridge.

Lakes Superior, Michigan, Huron, Erie and Ontario — the five Great Lakes — are the largest group of fresh water lakes in the world.

They make up the most important inland waterway in America. These lakes were the chief route used by the early explorers and settlers of the Northwest Territory. Later the cheap transportation offered by the Great Lakes turned this territory into one of the most important industrial areas in the United States and Canada.

Looking through the windows of the Ojibway Hotel at the Soo yo can get a view of all ships which are locked through at night or in the day time. When raining, you still can see the Canadian horizon across the river.

There are plenty of motels and cottages near and around the Soo. Rates are pretty reasonable by the week.

Since the time Harvey's Lock was opened on June 18, 1855, ships of all types have gone through the locks. Schooners were the reliable freight carriers of the day and long afterward. Also came the passenger ships of various lines. Today foreign ships from all nations around the world pass through the locks. No tolls are charged as they haul grain, steel, ore and machinery abroad. Despite the progress in air transport, the sea lanes remain the greatest universal trading link in the world today.

If you wish old-time history, visit the museums and the library and Bishop Baraga's Home, John Johnston Home, Schoolcraft home and Indian Mission. Surely, it is a God-given land or paradise for the worker and all who love nature at its best. Boat tours through the locks are held daily by 5 all-weather ships which sail through the locks, including the Canadian lock. It is the best way to see the rapids and the locks. Rides through the locks with monstrous freighters, so close you can almost touch them.

After leaving the Soo, steer your car for Mackinac City, where the old ferry docks are a campers paradise with beautiful surroundings.

Stop off at the old Forst near the old Mackinac lighthouse, with its floral garden, or visit the "Jewel of the Lakes", Mackinac Island. Ships operate from the mainland where the blue waters of Lake Huron and Michigan meet. You can stay at the many cottages and motels which are in and around Mackinac City. Boat trips are daily items on your vacation. And a camera will record all the sights if you wish to see things as they are after coming home.

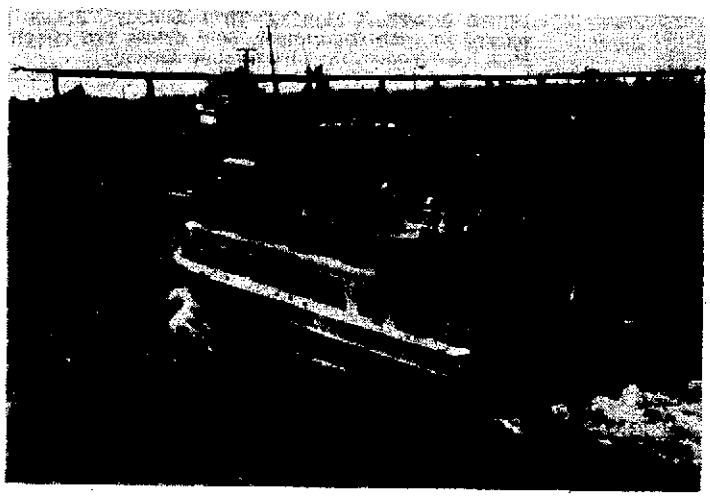

Why travel abroad when you have the greatest scenery and free country in the world right here from the boundary of Canada and the United States. You can travel over the freeways to your delight. School will be beginning soon and travel is fun and recreation if you have worked all year.

Visit the many museums in this land of Hiawatha. Nothing more invigorating than a boat trip, even for a short distance. Millions of tourists have gone over the Mackinac Bridge. A record will be broken this Bicentennial year. Some records have already been broken in traffic over the bridge and many more will be broken before the year ends. This is one year which will live in memory if you take in the State of Michigan and its beauty. Fall will be upon us before we know it, and the splendor of fall colors, will be on us.

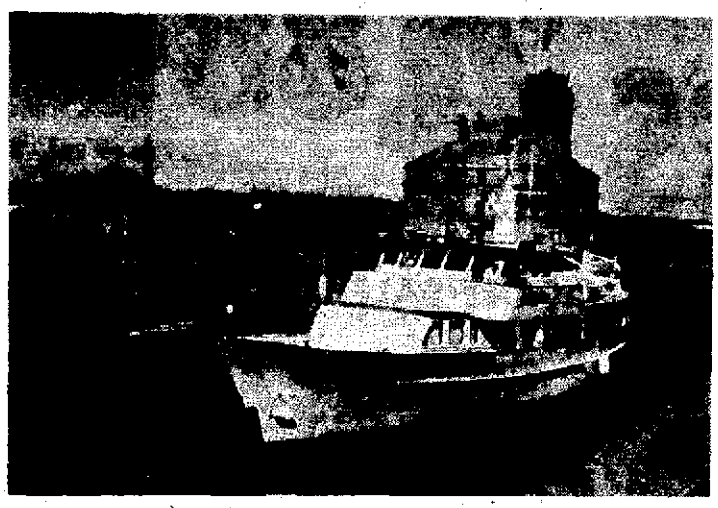

There has been a lot of face-lifting since the writer sailed the first time through the locks in 1910. The surroundings are beautiful, and everything runs like clock-work. The Corps of Engineers sure has done a wonderful lot of work.

LOCKS A BUSY PLACE: Ships of all descriptions sail through locks at Sault Ste. Marie, passing between Lakes Superior and Huron. Here U.S. Steel's ore ship, Irving S. Olds, edges up to MacArthur lock to await orders from control tower. She is over 600 feet long.

TOURISTS SAIL THE LOCKS: This one of five excursion ships which take passengers through the locks, around the rapids and down St. Mary's river.

PRIVATE YACHTS: Mingled among the big freighters passing through Soo locks in summer season are numerous private yachts that cruise Great Lakes. In winter months they are in Carribean and Florida waters.

Ex-Leader Of Brazil Is Killed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The body of former President Juscelino Kubitschek was to lie in state today in Rio's Modern Art Museum before being flown to Brasilia, the inland capital he built, for burial.

Kubitschek, 73, and his chauffeur were killed Sunday night on their way back to Rio from Sao Paulo. The Brazilian news agency said their car apparently went out of control, crossed into the opposite lane and collided with a trailer truck.

The truck driver, Ladislau Borges, told the police: "I did what I could but I couldn't get out of the way. It happened too fast." He suffered a fractured shoulder.

Kubitschek, while president from 1956 to 1961, realized the longtime dream of an inland Brazilian capital to stimulate development of the interior of the country. Built on virgin land to the designs of one architect, Oscar Neimeyer, Brasilia was a landmark in urban planning and construction and one of the showplaces of the Western Hemisphere.

There were also accusations that Kubitschek got rich on the multi-billion-dollar project, charges never proven in court.

Aircraft Carrier Era May Be Near End, Study Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A National Security Council study and a revised five-year program for rebuilding the U.S. fleet both suggest that the age of giant, nuclear-powered aircraft carriers may be drawing to a close.

A summary of the as-yet-incomplete NSC study, sent to Congress recently by Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, calls for developing alternative means of providing an air umbrella over the seas. The revised fleet-rebuilding program calls for only one large-deck aircraft carrier, whereas the original program, sent to Congress last winter, called for two.

While saying the large-deck carrier will play a major role in sea control into the 1990s, the NSC study said that "in view of advancing technology and the high cost of carrier replacement, we must pursue all avenues to find ways to put airpower to sea."

This could mean that the Nimitz-class carrier proposed by the Ford administration in the defense budget for the coming year, if approved by Congress, will be the last such 91,000-ton giant to be built.

Such carriers, which now cost about $2 billion apiece, are too costly and have become increasingly vulnerable to advanced-type Soviet antiship missiles, the study said.

While cutting the request for carriers from two to one, the revised rebuilding program submitted by Rumsfeld calls for an increase of 153 Navy ships, 42 more than projected in the plan of last winter.

Rumsfeld wants Congress to restore about $1.6 billion cut from next year's budget for new ships, especially for the lead vessels in two advanced classes, a nuclear-powered strike cruiser and a special type of destroyer designed to carry the Aegis air defense missile system.

The NSC study said the Aegis would offset a serious deficiency in current weaponry for defending the U.S. fleet against the newer Soviet antiship missiles.

Nearly half of the additional 42 ships would be patrol frigates, which would battle submarines and shoot down aircraft or missiles aimed at U.S ships, amphibious groups or supply vessels under their escort.

In regard to its call for "the development of a more flexible replacement" for the big aircraft carriers, the NSC study urges an addditional $95 million to speed up research and development of several new technologies.

These include planes that can take off and land vertically or on relatively short decks. The first Soviet aircraft carrier, the Kiev, carries such aircraft.

In addition, the study said the Pentagon should consider "multi-mission, long-endurance aircraft ... that might allow the sea control mission to be conducted from land bases even in the continental United States."

The original plan of last winter carried a price tag of $35.4 billion. No figure was provided for the expanded program, perhaps because it is still subject to change.

The U.S. fleet now totals 475 ships, the smallest number since before Pearl Harbor in 1941.

This is one year which will live in memory if you take in the State of Michigan and its beauty. Fall will be upon us before we know it, and the splender of fall colors, will be on us.

There has been a lot of face-lifting since the writer sailed the first time through the locks in 1910. The surroundings are beautiful, and everything runs like clock-work. The Corps of Engineers sure has done a wonderful lot of work.

LOCKS A BUSY PLACE: Ships of all descriptions sail through locks at Sault Ste. Marie, passing between Lakes Superior and Huron. Here U.S. Steel's ore ship, Irving S. Olds, edges up to MacArthur lock to await orders from control tower. She is over 600 feet long.

TOURISTS SAIL THE LOCKS: This one of five excursion ships which take passengers through the locks, around the rapids and down St. Mary's river.

PRIVATE YACHTS: Mingled among the big freighters passing through Soo locks in summer season are numerous private yachts that cruise Great Lakes. In winter months they are in Carribean and Florida waters.

Ex-Leader Of Brazil Is Killed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The body of former President Juscelino Kubitschek was to lie in state today in Rio's Modern Art Museum before being flown to Brasilia, the inland capital he built, for burial.

Kubitschek, 73, and his chauffeur were killed Sunday night on their way back to Rio from Sao Paulo. The Brazilian news agency said their car apparently went out of control, crossed into the opposite lane and collided with a trailer truck.

The truck driver, Ladislau Borges, told the police: "I did what I could but I couldn't get out of the way. It happened too fast." He suffered a fractured shoulder.

Kubitschek, while president from 1956 to 1961, realized the longtime dream of an inland Brazilian capital to stimulate development of the interior of the country. Built on virgin land to the designs of one architect, Oscar Neimeyer, Brasilia was a landmark in urban planning and construction and one of the showplaces of the Western Hemisphere.

There were also accusations that Kubistchek got rich on the multi-billion-dollar project, charges never proven in court.

Aircraft Carrier Era May Be Near End, Study Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A National Security Council study and a revised five-year program for rebuilding the U.S. fleet both suggest that the age of giant, nuclear-powered aircraft carriers may be drawing to a close.

A summary of the as-yet-incomplete NSC study, sent to Congress recently by Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, calls for developing alternative means of providing an air umbrella over the seas. The revised fleet-rebuilding program calls for only one large-deck aircraft carrier, whereas the original program, sent to Congress last winter, called for two.

While saying the large-deck carrier will play a major role in sea control into the 1990s, the NSC study said that "in view of advancing technology and the high cost of carrier replacement, we must pursue all avenues to find ways to put airpower to sea."

This could mean that the Nimitz-class carrier proposed by the Ford administration in the defense budget for the coming year if approved by Congress, will be the last such 94,000-ton giant to be built.

Such carriers, which now cost about $2 billion apiece, are too costly and have become increasingly vulnerable to advanced-type Soviet antiship missiles, the study said.

While cutting the request for carriers from two to one, the revised rebuilding program submitted by Rumsfeld calls for an increase of 153 Navy ships, 42 more than projected in the plan of last winter.

Rumsfeld wants Congress to restore about $1.6 billion cut from next year's budget for new ships, especially for the lead vessels in two advanced classes, a nuclear-powered strike cruiser and a special type of destroyer designed to carry the Aegis air defense missile system.

The NSC study said the Aegis would offset a serious deficiency in current weaponry for defending the U.S. fleet against the newer Soviet antiship missiles.

Nearly half of the additional 42 ships would be patrol frigates, which would battle submarines and shoot down aircraft or missiles aimed at U.S ships, amphibious groups or supply vessels under their escort.

In regard to its call for "the development of a more flexible replacement" for the big aircraft carriers, the NSC study urges an addditional $95 million to speed up research and development of several new technologies.

These include planes that can take off and land vertically or on relatively short decks. The first Soviet aircraft carrier, the Kiev, carries such aircraft.

In addition, the study said the Pentagon should consider "multi-mission, long-endurance aircraft ... that might allow the sea control mission to be conducted from land bases even in the continental United States."

The original plan of last winter carried a price tag of $35.4 billion. No figure was provided for the expanded program, perhaps because it is still subject to change.

The U.S. fleet now totals 475 ships, the smallest number since before Pearl Harbor in 1941.

Trappers Advised To Wear Gloves, Avoid Infection

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan trappers don't face much danger of being infected by rabbits or foxes but should wear gloves anyway, according to state officials.

Cases of persons being infected by rabbits are unusual and a dangerous fox disease has not yet been reported in the state, they say.

Bacterial infection from rabbits is uncommon in Michigan, says Glen Dudderer, wildlife specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University.

The other infection, carried by the fox and sometimes spread to trappers, has been reported in surrounding states but not here. However, veterinarian Jeffrey Williams says, "Nobody's really looked hard in Michigan."

The infection carried by rabbits is called tularemia. If trappers are handling or dressing an infected rabbit and have an open wound or cut, they could get the infection if the cut comes in contact with blood or tissue from the infected animal, Dudderer said.

The infection, which can be treated with antibiotics, causes fever and aching and can be fatal if left untreated.

"It's uncommon, but I wouldn't want to call it rare," he added. "The possibilities of contracting it are low but are nonetheless there. Whenever you dress a rabbit, it's advisable to wear gloves."

Dudderer said the disease, which is spread among rabbits and sometimes squirrels by ticks and mites, is not an epidemic among Michigan animals.

"At this time of year it is most prevalent because populations of animals are at their highest and populations of arthropods (ticks and mites) are at their highest. The incidence seems to decline drastically with the first frost."

The fox-carried disease, hydatidosis, in which tapeworm eggs are transmitted, occurs in the northern part of North America and in Asia and Europe, Williams said.

It is most severe in Asia and Russia where there is a big fox trapping industry, he said. It has also been detected in western Canada and Alaska, and in recent years in most of the north central states of this country: North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois.

Foxes transmit the tapeworm to the rodents they prey upon, which retransmit the tapeworm back to the foxes, Williams said. The embryonic form of the parasite is a cyst, which evolves into a tapeworm in the intestine.

The fox eliminates tapeworm eggs in the form of cyst-like spores into the environment, Williams said. Some of them stick to the pelt.

"The guy who goes out and traps foxes and handles those pelts is exposing himself to these spore-like eggs. He isn't working under very hygenic conditions. He strips off the pelts. His hands, clothing, and knives get contaminated, and almost inevitably he swallows some," Wilhams said. He said a trapper wearing gloves has a much better chance of not getting infected.

The spores, once swallowed, reproduce themselves into more spores until they form a huge cyst-like mass. "The growth is almost cancerous," Williams said, adding that it blocks off nerves and blood vessels and interferes with liver function.

"Surgery is the only cure," Williams said, and nontreatment can be fatal.

Dudderer and Williams said cats can transmit both diseases. Dudderer said that if a cat killed a diseased rabbit and then scratched a person, he or she could get the disease.

Williams said infections of the fox tapeworm have been discovered in domesticated cats, which means that potentially the cat could bring this type of tapeworm eggs into homes and infect people other than trappers.

He said this can happen when the cat traps some of the rodents that are normally fox prey.

"We found domestic cats infected in Canada, Minnesota and Wisconsin," he said.

Incendiary Tank Is Found Under Embassy Auto

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Police removed an "incendiary object" hidden from beneath a car parked in front of the American Embassy in downtown Vienna, a police spokesman said today. An embassy spokesman said he understood the car was an embassy staff car.

The embassy said one of its employes noticed a suspicious looking object under one of the cars outside about 7 a.m. Sunday and called the police.

The police spokesman said the object was a five-quart plastic tank filled with a "highly inflammable liquid" and with an ignition mechanism attached to it. But he said the fuse was "not operational" and could not have exploded the bomb.

Trappers Advised To Wear Gloves, Avoid Infection

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan trappers don't face much danger of being infected by rabbits or foxes but should wear gloves anyway, according to state officials.

Cases of persons being infected by rabbits are unusual and a dangerous fox disease has not yet been reported in the state, they say.

Bacterial infection from rabbits is uncommon in Michigan, says Glen Dudderer, wildlife specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University.

The other infection, carried by the fox and sometimes spread to trappers, has been reported in surrounding states but not here. However, veterinarian Jeffrey Williams says, "Nobody's really looked hard in Michigan."

The infection carried by rabbits is called tularemia. If trappers are handling or dressing an infected rabbit and have an open wound or cut, they could get the infection if the cut comes in contact with blood or tissue from the infected animal, Dudderer said.

The infection, which can be treated with antibiotics, causes fever and aching and can be fatal if left untreated.

"It's uncommon, but I wouldn't want to call it rare," he added. "The possibilities of contracting it are low but are nonetheless there. Whenever you dress a rabbit, it's advisable to wear gloves."

Dudderer said the disease, which is spread among rabbits and sometimes squirrels by ticks and mites, is not an epidemic among Michigan animals.

"At this time of year it is most prevalent because populations of animals are at their highest and populations of arthropods (ticks and mites) are at their highest. The incidence seems to decline drastically with the first frost."

The fox-carried disease, hydatidosis, in which tapeworm eggs are transmitted, occurs in the northern part of North America and in Asia and Europe, Williams said.

It is most severe in Asia and Russia where there is a big fox trapping industry, he said. It has also been detected in western Canada and Alaska, and in recent years in most of the north central states of this country: North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois.

Foxes transmit the tapeworm to the rodents they prey upon, which retransmit the tapeworm back to the foxes, Williams said. The embryonic form of the parasite is a cyst, which evolves into a tapeworm in the intestine.

The fox eliminates tapeworm eggs in the form of cyst-like spores into the environment, Williams said. Some of them stick to the pelt.

"The guy who goes out and traps foxes and handles those pelts is exposing himself to these spore-like eggs. He isn't working under very hygenic conditions. He strips off the pelts. His hands, clothing, and knives get contaminated, and almost inevitably he swallows some," Williams said. He said a trapper wearing gloves has a much better chance of not getting infected.

The spores, once swallowed, reproduce themselves into more spores until they form a huge cyst-like mass. "The growth is almost cancerous," Williams said, adding that it blocks off nerves and blood vessels and interferes with liver function.

"Surgery is the only cure," Williams said, and nontreatment can be fatal.

Dudderer and Williams said cats can transmit both diseases. Dudderer said that if a cat killed a diseased rabbit and then scratched a person, he or she could get the disease.

Williams said infections of the fox tapeworm have been discovered in domesticated cats, which means that potentially the cat could bring this type of tapeworm eggs into homes and infect people other than trappers.

He said this can happen when the cat traps some of the rodents that are normally fox prey.

"We found domestic cats infected in Canada, Minnesota and Wisconsin," he said.

Incendiary Tank Is Found Under Embassy Auto

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Police removed an "incendiary object" hidden from beneath a car parked in front of the American Embassy in downtown Vienna, a police spokesman said today. An embassy spokesman said he understood the car was an embassy staff car.

The embassy said one of its employes noticed a suspicious looking object under one of the cars outside about 7 a.m. Sunday and called the police.

The police spokesman said the object was a five-quart plastic tank filled with a "highly inflammable liquid" and with an ignition mechanism attached to it. But he said the fuse was "not operational" and could not have exploded the bomb.

Eighth Win In 14 Attempts This Year

Pearson MIS Champ

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — David Pearson never got too much formal education, but he's always been blessed with native intelligence and common sense.

Pearson seems to know when it's time to lay back, take it easy. And he also knows when to stand on the gas. In life, such a knowledge can be the difference between success and failure. In stock car racing, it's the difference between victory and defeat.

So far this season in NASCAR Grand National racing, Pearson's been victorious in eight of 14 attempts.

Victory No. 8 was added Sunday at Michigan International Speedway, in the $135,000 Champion 400 — Pearson's seventh victory in the last nine races at the two-mile track. It came at the expense of Cale Yarborough and Richard Petty, who tried to run away from Pearson through the middle of the race.

At age 41, Pearson still doesn't want to know anything in life but race cars. And he's shown he's good at it. But he's always believed he could accomplish anything he really wanted to do, or could be anything he wanted to be.

"For instance, with the proper education, I could be a sports writer if I wanted," he said, adding impishly, "but I don't wanna."

For one thing, if he was a sports writer, he'd have to interview guys like himself, and he doesn't think that would be especially interesting.

He's never really accepted the fact he's a genuine folk hero with racing fans, a celebrity. He doesn't really see why his opinion should be worth much. To him, he's just a fairly ordinary guy who got a lucky break.

"If Ray Fox hadn't come along and give me a car in 1961, I'd probably still be painting cars for a living," Pearson said in a reflective mood. "I'd probably be racing my sportsman car o weekends when I could afford it.

"Hey, there's guys running sportsman now who were running sportsman back when I was.

"Back then I raced until I blew a motor or something, then go home and work and save money until I could go racing again. If I needed a tire, I'd work until I had the money to buy it, then go racing again.

"You're never gonna get anywhere like that."

But about all Pearson has to do these days is show up at the race track in his fireproof suit, sunglasses and the custom made alligator shoes he prefers to drive in.

The work on his No. 21 Mercury is almost flawlessly done by the famed Wood brothers. Their cars have won nine of 14 races at Michigan International since 1969 when the track opened. Not so much as a screw was turned, once the Mercury was unloaded here Friday. All the work, familiar stuff by now, was done back home by the Woods in their Stuart, Va., shops.

"That's peace of mind," Pearson added.

Pearson's bank account also provides peace of mind these days. Winner of more than $1.5 million in prize money in his career, Pearson had already collected more than $200,000 this season, which is only two-thirds over.

"Fifty-five per cent of all that goes to the government, though," Pearson said dourly.

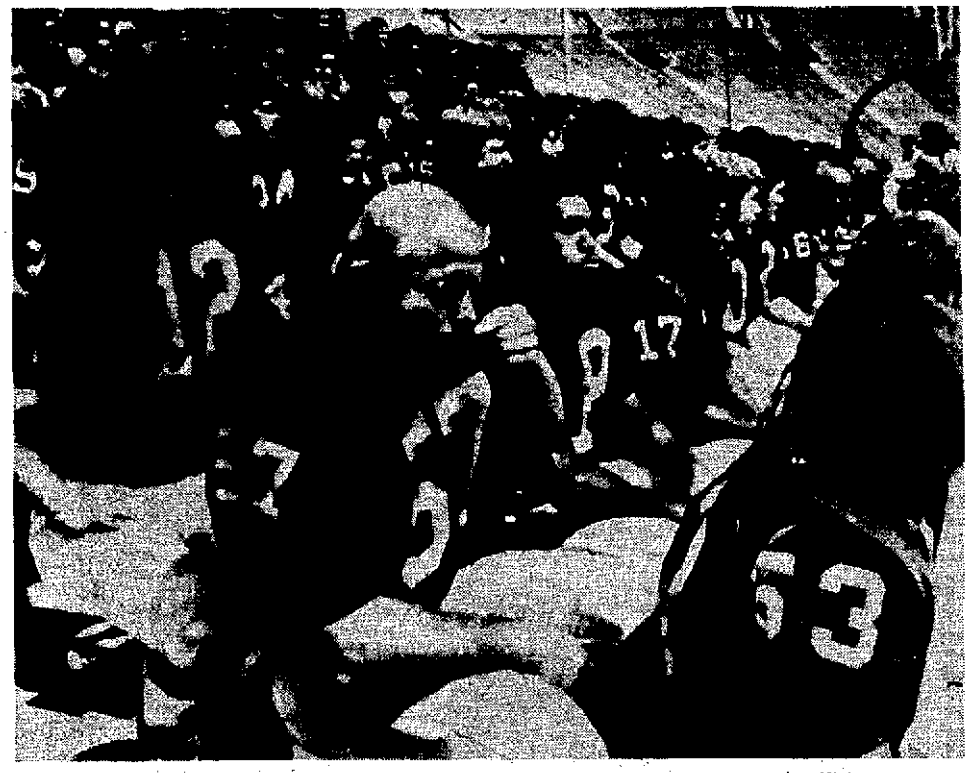

He earned $16,500 for his victory Sunday. He averaged 140.078 miles an hour, but probably could have gone faster if he needed to. At the end, he was 1.2 seconds ahead of Yarborough.

"Just enough," said Pearson.

Bobby Allison, who finished fourth, remarked: "I've never seen that car beaten on the race track, when it came right down to the last lap, since 1971."

WINS AT MIS: David Pearson, driver of car number 21, won the Champion Spark Plug 400 Sunday at Cambridge Junction in a close race with Cale Yarborough and Richard Petty. Pearson pulled ahead of Yarborough in the last 17 laps to win his eighth race at Michigan International Speedway. After the race, he posed with raceway models in the winner's circle. (AP Wirephoto)

Bo Says Michigan Ready

Expects Faster Start From Wolverines

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — University of Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler launched the 1976 football season Saturday, declaring he is ready to go and so is his team.

Schembechler, who underwent open heart surgery just three months ago, said, "When I first came out of there (surgery), I didn't think I could do it ... but I feel great now."

The U-M coach, who brought out his 99 players for picture day in Michigan Stadium, speculated that his team may get off to a better start this season than last season.

"We'll probably get away a little faster than last year, when we really weren't a very good team at the start," said Schembechler.

He also had a few words for Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes, who declared several weeks ago in Chicago that he had "turned in" Michigan State for alleged recruiting violations and would turn in any Big Ten team that he thought was guilty of recruiting violations.

Schembechler says he would do the same thing, but also gently chided Hayes.

"This business is getting out of hand ... this 'I turned you in, who turned who in,' stuff," said Schembechler. "All of that doesn't make the guilty innocent and it doesn't make the guy who turned 'em in any better than anyone else."

The Wolverines were 8-2-2 last year, including the 14-6 Orange Bowl loss to Oklahoma.

Detroit Is Tops In Youth Games

MEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Detroit teams dominated the 10th annual U.S. Youth Games, which wound up three days of competition for boys and girls 15 and under Sunday night.

The Detroit boys basketball team beat Washington 67-52 in the final round. Detroit's boys and girls teams also took the bowling and tennis titles.

Washington's girls basketball team defeated East Orange, N.J., 43-32.

In track and field, New York finished on top with 233 points, with Washington second with 150 and Detroit close behind with 1148.

Boys and girls swimming was dominated by Richmond.

Racing Days Over For Royal Glint

DETROIT (AP) — A steady stream of visitors filed past the Detroit Race Course stall where Royal Glint was resting Sunday to pay homage to the million-dollar thoroughbred whose racing career ended in tragedy.

Royal Glint, the 7-5 favorite in Saturday's running of the $100,000 Michigan Mile, had just taken the lead when jockey Jorge Tejeira felt something "pop" and pulled him to the outside away from the oncoming pack.

Sharp Gary went on the win the race.

Track veterinarians said the 6-year-old gelding suffered multiple fractures of both sesamoid bones in his left ankle — the same kind of bones shattered last year by filly champion Ruffian.

But where Ruffian was destroyed, veterinarians worked to save Royal Glint's life, and trainer Gordon Potter said Sunday it looked like the horse would pull through.

"If he had been a $2,000 horse, he probably would have been put down by now," Potter said. "But we're doing everything we can to save him, and he's doing his best, too.

"Look at him! He's fighting it all the way."

Royal Glint, his swollen ankle wrapped in heavy bandages and packed in ice, was standing supported by deep straw in his DRC stall Sunday as hundreds of racing fans and the curious walked past to look at him.

Potter said Royal Glint will be shipped to owner Dan Lasater's farm near Lexington, Ky., as soon as he is well enough to travel. But the horse's racing days are over.

"It was just one of those freak things," Lasater said after the race. "There's really not much you can say ... except I think we can save him, and I guarantee he will be well taken care of on a farm because he's taken real good care of me."

Royal Glint, the son of Round Table, started 32 times in his career and won 21 races, including 16 stakes. He was second nine times, and third four times.

His final total earnings stand at $1,004,815 — making him only the 13th thoroughbred in the history of racing to break $1 million.

What Is Renee On Court?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — She is tall and striking with deep-set brown eyes, high cheek bones and soft, feminine features. If you met her at a cocktail party you wouldn't be disinclined to ask her for a date.

Her voice has a husky, throaty quality. She is articulate and bright with a pleasant, low key personality. There is an unmistakable gentility about her. She radiates class.

And she can give a tennis ball a masculine wallop.

Dr. Renee Richards — is she man or woman once she puts a racket in her hand?

The Women's Tennis Association insists she should not compete in women's tournaments. The U.S. Tennis Association, reacting to Dr. Richards' entry in the ladies' division of the forthcoming Open championships at Forest Hills, has ordered chromosome sex tests for all female competitors. It's a national issue suddenly thrown into the laps of the sports and medical establishments. Fans are in a quandary.

"I am now a woman, certified so by gynecologists," insists the 6-foot-2, 145-pound ophthalmologist from Newport Beach, Calif., who within the past year has undergone a sex operation changing her from a man into a woman.

"I have played tennis most of my life. I wish now to play in tournaments, which seems my right. Obviously, I cannot compete in the men's tournament. Why shouldn't I be allowed to play as a woman?"

The women's association, whose president is Chris Evert, contends Renee, who once was a ranking male in the 35-and-over class, would have an unfair advantage.

"They shouldn't be afraid of me," Renee says. "They won't be when they find I am human — not a two-headed monster, not a giant-killer."

The controversial transsexual looked anything but a two-headed monster when she made her Eastern debut as a woman Saturday in the $60,000 Tennis Week Tournament here, beating 22-year-old Cathy Beene of Houston, a former college champion, 6-0, 6-2.

Miss Beene got only six points in the first set, unable to cope with Renee's pace. The doctor tired visibly in the second set and at times it appeared she might let the match get away.

Although tall for a woman with tremendous stride and reach, she played with a feminine grace. She covered the court well, showed remarkable anticipation and dominated the match with a sharp spin service and an effective overspin backhand.

"She looked all woman to me," said Jack Connolly, a tax assessor for the South Orange township and a tennis fan. "I think the women should let her play."

"I wouldn't want to play her," said 15-year-old Jenny Sacco of Chatham, N.J., another who saw the match. "She is so tall and strong."

Miss Beene, Renee's victim in the match, said she felt she could beat Dr. Richards under normal circumstances. "I was nervous and psyched myself out," she said.

Miss Beene insisted, however, that Renee should not be permitted to play in women's tournaments. "On principle, I would say no," she said.

Gene Scott, the tournament promoter and a former ranking player, said he had known Dr. Richards for 15 years when the latter was Richard Raskind, a prominent New York eye surgeon.

"I played Dick in the 35-and-over tournament at Forest Hills two years ago and he had me match point," Scott said. "Renee is not the same player I remember. She still has the tennis instincts and is a smart player but she doesn't have the strong twist service and the power that Raskind had. She also lacks endurance. She has lost some 30 pounds."

The muscle tone also apparently has undergone considerable change. Renee's arms and legs appear smooth and supple, without muscle bulges.

Renee tells the poignant story of how, even as a young boy, she always wanted to be a girl, often slipping into his mother's shoes and clothes. The desire persisted as Richard followed his education to Yale, where he captained the tennis team, and on to the University of Rochester for a medical degree.

Raskind began the transition 10 years ago, taking female hormones. He would dress as a man in the daytime to pursue his practice and change into women's clothes at night. He married, fathered a son who is now four years old and later saw the marriage dissolve.

After undergoing an operation in New York a year ago, Renee sought a new life in California. But the secret was discovered after she won a tournament in La Jolla.

Asked if the circus atmosphere that pervaded at her debut here was embarrassing, Renee replied, "The mental and emotional strain is enormous, but I have managed to block it out."

She was asked, since there have been reports that her agent is taking bids on a biography, if her motives in pursuing the tennis issue were financial.

"Absolutely not," she said. "Money is not involved. I am doing this for all the other persons like me — not necessarily transsexuals — who are fighting social stigmas. It is a crusade with me."

Then Renee revealed a truly feminine attribute.

"What is your true age?" a reporter asked. "Forty-one or forty-two? We hear it both ways."

"Do I have to tell?" Renee replied. Then smiling: "Forty-two — my birthday was Friday."

"I have played tennis most of my life. I wish now to play in tournaments, which seems my right. Obviously, I cannot compete in the men's tournament. Why shouldn't I be allowed to play as a woman?"

The women's association, whose president is Chris Evert, contends Renee, who once was a ranking male in the 35-and-over class, would have an unfair advantage.

"They shouldn't be afraid of me," Renee says. "They won't be when they find I am human — not a two-headed monster, not a giant-killer."

The controversial transsexual looked anything but a two-headed monster when she made her Eastern debut as a woman Saturday in the $60,000 Tennis Week Tournament here, beating 22-year-old Cathy Beene of Houston, a former college champion, 6-0, 6-2.

Miss Beene got only six points in the first set, unable to cope with Renee's pace. The doctor tired visibly in the second set and at times it appeared she might let the match get away.

Although tall for a woman with tremendous stride and reach, she played with a feminine grace. She covered the court well, showed remarkable anticipation and dominated the match with a sharp spin service and an effective overspin backhand.

"She looked all woman to me," said Jack Connolly, a tax assessor for the South Orange township and a tennis fan. "I think the women should let her play."

"I wouldn't want to play her," said 15-year-old Jenny Sacco of Chatham, N.J., another who saw the match. "She is so tall and strong."

Miss Beene, Renee's victim in the match, said she felt she could beat Dr. Richards under normal circumstances. "I was nervous and psyched myself out," she said.

Miss Beene insisted, however, that Renee should not be permitted to play in women's tournaments. "On principle, I would say no," she said.

Gene Scott, the tournament promotor and a former ranking player, said he had known Dr. Richards for 15 years when the latter was Richard Raskind, a prominent New York eye surgeon.

"I played Dick in the 35-and-over tournament at Forest Hills two years ago and he had me match point," Scott said. "Renee is not the same player I remember. She still has the tennis instincts and is a smart player but she doesn't have the strong twist service and the power that Raskind had. She also lacks endurance. She has lost some 30 pounds."

The muscle tone also apparently has undergone considerable change. Renee's arms and legs appear smooth and supple, without muscle bulges.

Renee tells the poignant story of how, even as a young boy, she always wanted to be a girl, often slipping into his mother's shoes and clothes. The desire persisted as Richard followed his education to Yale, where he captained the tennis team, and on to the University of Rochester for a medical degree.

Raskind began the transition 10 years ago, taking female hormones. He would dress as a man in the daytime to pursue his practice and change into women's clothes at night. He married, fathered a son who is now four years old and later saw the marriage dissolve.

After undergoing an operation in New York a year ago, Renee sought a new life in California. But the secret was discovered after she won a tournament in La Jolla.

Asked if the circus atmosphere that pervaded at her debut here was embarrassing, Renee replied, "The mental and emotional strain is enormous, but I have managed to block it out."

She was asked, since there have been reports that her agent is taking bids on a biography, if her motives in pursuing the tennis issue were financial.

"Absolutely not," she said. "Money is not involved. I am doing this for all the other persons like me — not necessarily transsexuals — who are fighting social stigmas. It is a crusade with me."

Then Renee revealed a truly feminine attribute.

"What is your true age?" a reporter asked. "Forty-one or forty-two? We hear it both ways."

"Do I have to tell?" Renee replied. Then smiling: "Forty-two — my birthday was Friday."

20th Win Eludes Jones

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Confidence Randy Jones has. He's not sure about a balk move.

"It's not my job as a player to question the umpiring," the San Diego Padres left-hander said after failing for the second time to chalk up his 20th victory of the season. "But I didn't do anything different than I usually do. And I haven't had a balk called on me since I was pitching in college."

The balk played a major role in the New York Mets' 1-0 victory over the Padres Sunday.

Pepe Mangual, running for Joe Torre, who reached first on an error to lead off the seventh inning, was awarded second base when first base umpire Jim Quick ruled that Jones balked while throwing over to first. Jerry Grote followed with a double off the left field wall to score Mangual with the game's lone run.

Jones' defeat was Mets' pitcher Jon Matlack's fifth shutout of the season, tops in the NL. Matlack, who fired a six-hitter and got out of a bases-loaded jam in the bottom of the ninth, is 13-7.

In other National League games Sunday, Philadelphia defeated Houston 5-1, St. Louis bombed Atlanta 8-0, Cincinnati edged Chicago 4-3, Pittsburgh clobbered Los Angeles 6-1 and San Francisco handed Montreal its eighth straight loss 4-3.

A two-out single by Gary Matthews in the ninth inning scored Larry Herndon to give San Francisco its victory over Montreal. It was the Expos' eighth straight loss.

Willie Stargell's two-run homer and Richie Zisk's three singles helped Pittsburgh end Los Angeles' six-game winning streak as Larry Demery and Kent Tekulve combined for a six-hitter.

Stargell's 16th homer of the season came in the first inning and the Pirates added two more runs in the fourth and another in the fifth off loser Rick Rhoden, 11-2. The final Pirates run in the sixth came off Al Downing.

Tom Underwood's five-hitter and shoddy Houston fielding gave Philadelphia its victory over the Astros. Underwood, 93, walked two and struck out seven as the Phillies won their fifth game in six outings.

Keith Hernandez' three-run homer and pitcher Lynn McGlothen's three-run double powered St. Louis past Atlanta. McGlothen shut out the Braves on five hits.

McGlothen squared his record at 11-11 with a 10-strikeout, one-walk performance. It was the St. Louis right-hander's third shutout and eighth complete game of the year.

Pete Rose's two-out single in the seventh drove home Ed Armbrister with the tie-breaking run, lifting Cincinnati to its victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Four Chicago pitchers held the hard-hitting Reds to just four hits — three by Joe Morgan, whose 23rd homer of the season with one on tied the score at 3-3.

With two outs, pinch-hitter Mike Lum reached first base on an error by first baseman Pete LaCock. Pinch-runner Ed Armbrister stole second and scored on Rose's single.

In the second, Dan Driessen walked, stole second, continued to third on a throwing error and scored on a wild pitch for Cincinnati's first run.

Rookie Manny Sarmiento, 3-1, picked up the victory as the Reds finished their season's series holding a 9-3 advantage over the Cubs. Joe Coleman, the fourth Cubs pitcher, was saddled with his 11th loss in 14 decisions.

Rawly Eastwick notched his 18th save of the season by pitching the final inning.

Spartans Concentrating On OSU

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State's football team may not be prepared to play Ohio State three weeks from now, but coach Darryl Rogers says he is looking forward to the game anyway.

An intense rivalry has developed between the two teams because it was Ohio State coach Woody Hayes whose allegations triggered the NCAA probe into recruiting violations at MSU. The school is on probation as a result.

"All we've concentrated on is what Ohio State does," the new Michigan State football coach said Saturday at annual press day. "And they seem as good as anybody in the Big Ten."

Among the players disciplined by the NCAA and who, as a result, might not be able to compete in the season opener against Ohio State are quarterback Ed Smith and half a dozen other players.

"We're counting on whoever comes out for football Monday," Rogers said. "We know they are football players and we'd be silly not to practice them. We'll use our seven individuals just as if they are going to be available to us all along."

Hunt is fighting his season-long ineligibility in court. If he is successful, the other six may try the same tactic, Michigan State athletic director Joe Kearney said.

BRIDGMAN — Golfers interested in trying out for the Bridgman high school golf team should report to the high school at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings will meet the Toronto Maple Leafs at Kalamazoo Wings Stadium Sept. 23 in their first home exhibition game of the season.

The National Hockey League Wings will be training for the second year in Kalamazoo, the home of their International Hockey League affiliate, the Kalamazoo Wings.

Four of the seven pre-season games will be played on Kalamazoo ice, including games against the Cleveland Barons.

Brother's Help, Faith Brings Massengale Win

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Take a tip from your brother, mix it with trust in God and then concentrate on your golf game.

That formula brought Rik Massengale, a soft-spoken Texan, the $42,000 top prize in the $210,000 Sammy Davis Jr. Greater Hartford Open golf tournament Sunday in steam-bath-like conditions.

Massengale, who leads a Bible study group that meets regularly on the pro golf tour, fashioned a strong five-under-par 31 on the back nine for a final-round 66 as he held off a host of challengers on the Wethersfield Country Club's 6,598-yard course, one of the shortest on the tour.

The handsome, mustachioed 29-year-old, younger brother of former touring pro Don Massengale, said that just a few weeks ago at the Pleasant Valley Classic in Massachusetts he told a friend, "I really didn't feel like I could win." He said he was putting well but didn't think his game was good enough for a victory.

Then his brother, Rik's boyhood idol who is now a club pro, worked with him at the PGA tournament last week to change his grip.

"That's all I changed. That's just golf. That's how quick it can change," Massengale said after his second victory in six years as a pro.

As he accepted his check he thanked God for the victory and later explained, "I'm a Christian first. I'm a golfer second."

Massengale either led or shared the lead from the start of the four-day event, finishing with an 18-under-par 266 in 95-degree, humid weather.

Collecting second-place money of $19,425, each with 16-under 268s, were J.C. Snead, co-leader after three rounds, and Al Geiberger, who launched himself that close to victory with an eagle three on the par-five 16th and a birdie two on the 215-yard, par-three 17th.

Geiberger, skipping the American Golf Classic in Akron, Ohio next week to be with his wife, who is expecting a child within days, plans to return to action the following week for the World Series of Golf.

Geiberger, whose 64 was the final round's lowest, raised his earnings to $182,184 this year. Snead, with a final three-under-par 68, boosted his winnings to $144,882.

Lee Trevino, who shared the lead midway through the round, fell back and then closed with a birdie on the 18th for a 67. He stood alone in fourth at 271.

Arnold Palmer, never in contention but a favorite of thousands who followed him religiously, equalled his best round of the year, a 66, and finished with a six-under-par 278.

Geiberger, skipping the American Golf Classic in Akron, Ohio next week to be with his wife, who is expecting a child within days, plans to return to action the following week for the World Series of Golf.

Geiberger, whose 64 was the final round's lowest, raised his earnings to $182,184 this year. Snead, with a final three-under-par 68, boosted his winnings to $144,882.

Lee Trevino, who shared the lead midway through the round, fell back and then closed with a birdie on the 18th for a 67. He stood alone in fourth at 271.

Arnold Palmer, never in contention but a favorite of thousands who followed him religiously, equalled his best round of the year, a 66, and finished with a six-under-par 278.

Ontario Team Takes Youth Soccer Title

BURNABY, British Columbia (AP) — The Saltfleet Goaheads of Ontario won the North American Youth Soccer championships Sunday 3-1 over Missouri Ruiz of St. Louis.

Louis Nagy, Peter Appleman and Andrew Dalton combined to give Ontario the win. The lone St. Louis goal came from Dennis Feerey.

In consolation play, Warren Pow scored seven goals to lead the favored Dunbar Stongs of Vancouver to a 10-1 win over the North Point Royals of Tacoma, Wash.

Cutler Ridge of Miami, Fla., took Crescentwood of Manitoba 6-1 while New Jersey Post of Trenton defeated Quebec Fabrose of Laval 6-2.

Eight teams representing under-16 youth soccer clubs in the United States and Canada were playing in the three-day, single-elimination tournament which wound up Sunday.

Spartans Concentrating On OSU

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State's football team may not be prepared to play Ohio State three weeks from now, but coach Darryl Rogers says he is looking forward to the game anyway.

An intense rivalry has developed between the two teams because it was Ohio State coach Woody Hayes whose allegations triggered the NCAA probe into recruiting violations at MSU. The school is on probation as a result.

"All we've concentrated on is what Ohio State does," the new Michigan State football coach said Saturday at annual press day. "And they seem as good as anybody in the Big Ten."

Among the players disciplined by the NCAA and who, as a result, might not be able to compete in the season opener against Ohio State are quarterback Ed Smith and half a dozen other players.

"We're counting on whoever comes out for football Monday," Rogers said. "We know they are football players and we'd be silly not to practice them. We'll use our seven individuals just as if they are going to be available to us all along."

Hunt is fighting his season-long ineligibility in court. If he is successful, the other six may try the same tactic, Michigan State athletic director Joe Kearney said.

Golf Meeting

BRIDGMAN — Golfers interested in trying out for the Bridgman high school golf team should report to the high school at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Wings Set K'zoo Date

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings will meet the Toronto Maple Leafs at Kalamazoo Wings Stadium Sept. 23 in their first home exhibition game of the season.

The National Hockey League Wings will be training for the second year in Kalamazoo, the home of their International Hockey League affiliate, the Kalamazoo Wings.

Four of the seven pre-season games will be played on Kalamazoo ice, including games against the Cleveland Barons.

Campbell's Relief Job Beats Tigers

Johnson Helps Sox Gain Split

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball Manager Gene Mauch, how do you spell relief? C-A-M-P-B-E-L-L.

"Mike Marshall is the best relief pitcher I ever managed ... up to now. This guy is THE relief pitcher," Minnesota Manager Mauch said after relief ace Bill Campbell, pitching for the fifth day in a row, raised his record to a scintillating 13-3 — he also has 16 saves — as the Twins defeated the Detroit Tigers 6-4 in 12 innings Sunday.

Campbell, who came in and ended a Tiger threat in the 10th by nailing Bill Freehan and Pedro Garcia on called third strikes, almost lost it in the 11th when third baseman Mike Cubbage and first baseman Rod Carew collided on Ben Oglivie's pop-up with a runner racing home from third. Cubbage caught the ball, it bounced out of his glove and he caught it again to end the inning.

"Both (Campbell and Marshall) had the equipment to get left and right-handed batters out," Mauch said. "Both can get balls to move away from the hitter. Both are super athletes."

Then Mauch fingered Campbell's weakness.

"Marshall might outhit him a little, but pitchers don't hit in this league," he said.

After Campbell's pop fly scare in the 11th, the Twins snapped a tie against Detroit relief ace John Hiller in the 12th on consecutive doubles by Butch Wynegar and Lyman Bostock and Cubbage singled home an insurance run which Campbell didn't need.

Elsewhere in the American League, the California Angels blew an eight-run lead in the ninth inning but scored three times in the 11th to defeat the New York Yankees 11-8, the Baltimore Orioles won their opener from the Chicago White Sox 6-2 but dropped the nightcap 7-3, the Kansas City Royals turned back the Milwaukee Brewers 7-4, the Oakland A's nipped the Boston Red Sox 7-6 in 11 innings and the Cleveland Indians shaded the Texas Rangers 3-1.

The Angels pounded Catfish Hunter for six runs and nine hits in 6 1-3 innings, including solo homers by Dave Collins leading off the game and Tony Solaita, in piling up an 8-0 lead. Meanwhile, Frank Tanana limited the Yankees to two hits until they exploded with one out in the ninth.

The Angels tagged Sparky Lyle for three runs in the 11th after Jerry Remy singled and Lyle threw late to second on Mario Guerrero's bunt. The runs crossed on Tommy Davis' pinch single, Lyle's throwing error and Lee Stanton's sacrifice fly.

Lamar Johnson rapped out three singles, drove in two runs and scored twice to lead Pete Vuckovich and the White Sox to a victory over the Orioles and a split of Sunday's doubleheader.

Reggie Jackson's tie-breaking pinch grand slam homer in the ninth inning of the opener gave the Orioles a triumph and Jim Palmer his 17th victory, most in the American League. He hurled a three-hitter.

Jackson's homer was the fourth grand slam of his career, third this season and second in eight days against the White Sox. But the loss in the nightcap enabled the Orioles to pick up only one-half game on the New York Yankees, who lost to California 11-8. Second-place Baltimore trails the Yankees by 9½ games in the AL East.

Vuckovich, 7-3, ran out of gas in the seventh inning of the nightcap and needed help from Francisco Barrios.

The Sox kayoed Oriole starter Ross Grimsley, 6-6, in the third inning and kept pecking away at the Baltimore bullpen, piling up a 7-1 lead.

Johnson singled in the second inning and scored on singles by Bill Stein and Jerry Hairston. The Sox added two more runs in the third on a double by Jorge Orta, a walk, a run-scoring single by Johnson and a sacrifice fly by Chet Lemon.

Johnson drove in another run and scored again as the White Sox broke it open with three runs in the fifth.

Vuckovich had allowed only one run and two hits — both by designated hitter Jackson — going into the seventh when he yielded two runs on a pair of walks and singles by Brooks Robinson and Rick Dempsey. Barrios took over and earned his third save.

Jackson's homer provided Palmer with his 17th victory against 11 losses and his 17th complete game of the season. The Orioles took a 2-0 lead in the sixth inning on a single by Dempsey and a walk to Lee May and two-out, run scoring singles by Doug DeCinces and Ken Singleton.

Palmer had a one-hit shutout going into the eighth when he walked Jack Brohamer and hit Bucky Dent with a pitch. Jim Essian then beat out a bunt single to load the bases before Orta tied the game with a hard-shot single off shortstop Mark Valenger's glove.

Singleton walked to open the Baltimore ninth and Dave Duncan singled. Pinch hitter Brooks Robinson drew a walk to fill the bases. Terry Forster came in to face Jackson, who cleared the bases with his 22nd homer of the season.

Jackson singled in the first inning of the second game and then doubled in the fourth inning and scored on a throwing error by Vuckovich.

Amos Otis singled home two runs in Kansas City's four-run ninth-inning rally after Danny Frisella issued three consecutive walks and Ruppert Jones drove in the tying run with a grounder.

"That's the first time I've ever done that since I've been in the big leagues," Frisella said. "I guess you can't do it every time. That's why people on bomb squads don't live long."

Don Baylor's suicide squeeze bunt single drove in the winning run after a single by Phil Garner, a sacrifice and Bert Campaneris' fifth hit of the game. A two-run single by Campaneris helped the A's to a 6-1 lead but the Red Sox tied it with five runs in the sixth off relievers Paul Lindblad and Rollie Fingers.

Pat Dobson scattered seven hits for his first victory since July 16. It was his eighth start in search of his 12th triumph.

Singles by Rick Manning, George Hendrick and Buddy Bell accounted for the Indians' first run in the fourth inning against winless rookie Tommy Boggs and Tommy Smith drove in what proved to be the decisive run with a grounder in the fifth after Frank Duffy doubled and was sacrificed to third.

Thompson's And Fayette Champs

Plangger, Luther Stars In State Tourney

Fayette Bar of Niles and Thompson's Supermarket of Buchanan grabbed top honors in state softball tournament play over the weekend.

Sparked by two players from Plangger's, Fayette's captured the Class A state fastpitch softball championship at Ann Arbor. Fayette's will compete in the national tournament over Labor Day weekend at Hamilton, Ohio.

Thompson's, on the other hand, hardly worked up a sweat in winning the Class A state slowpitch title at Midland. Thompson's will play in the national tourney Labor Day weekend in Maryland.

Rick Plangger and George Luther, two pitching standouts this year for Plangger's, were the sparkplugs in Fayette's title climb. And it was done in dramatic fashion.

Fayette dropped its opening game of the tourney 4-2 to Heidelburg Inn of Ann Arbor. But the Niles team then proceeded to capture six straight games to take the championship.

As he was most of the year for Plangger's, Rick Planger was the workhorse on the mound for Fayette's, pitching 40 straight innings over one stretch.

But it was Luther who picked up the victory in relief in the decisive championship game. Luther relieved a tired Plangger in the sixth inning of the title tilt with the score tied 3-3. And former Brandywine star Jim Johnson made him the winner with a two-run homer in the last of the sixth for a 5-3 victory.

Plangger started all six games in the final two days of the tourney. He pitched a three-hitter and fanned 13 in a 3-1 win over West Bay Honda of Saginaw. Plangger hurled four-hitters against both Townclub of Elk Rapids and Steelcase of Grand Rapids, winning each 6-1.

He then toyed with Heidelburg Inn in a rematch won by Fayette 9-5, before beating Flint AUL's standout pitcher Jim Doyle 1-0 with a two-hitter. Doyle was the nation's fourth-ranked pitcher and the victory forced the extra title game.

Thompson's banged out 77 hits and batted a crisp .491 in easily winning the slowpitch title with five straight victories.

In easy fashion, Thompson's polished off Kelly Buick of Lansing 15-3 in five innings. Blackhurst Realtors of Midland 15-3 in five innings, East Side Lounge of Battle Creek 6-3, Village Inn of the Upper Peninsula 13-6 and Sackett Brick of Kalamazoo 14-4 in five innings. The tourney had a 10-run rule.

Jim Rundberg posted all five victories on the mound to run his season record to 48-6. Only against East Side Lounge was Thompson's pressed. The Buchanan team trailed 3-0 entering the sixth inning, but scored three runs to tie the game in the sixth and won it with three more in the seventh.

George Dreitzler was the big hitting star in the tournament for Thompson's, belting 14 hits in 18 official trips to the plate. Dave Shoemake followed closely behind with 12 hits in 16 at bats.

Campbell's Relief Job Beats Tigers

Johnson Helps Sox Gain Split

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball Manager Gene Mauch, how do you spell relief?

C-A-M-P-B-E-L-L.

"Mike Marshall is the best relief pitcher I ever managed ... up to now. This guy is THE relief pitcher," Minnesota Manager Mauch said after relief ace Bill Campbell, pitching for the fifth day in a row, raised his record to a scintillating 13-3 — he also has 16 saves — as the Twins defeated the Detroit Tigers 6-4 in 12 innings Sunday.

Campbell, who came in and ended a Tiger threat in the 10th by nailing Bill Freehan and Pedro Garcia on called third strikes, almost lost it in the 11th when third baseman Mike Cubbage and first baseman Rod Carew collided on Ben Oglivie's pop-up with a runner racing home from third. Cubbage caught the ball, it bounced out of his glove and he caught it again to end the inning.

"Both (Campbell and Marshall) had the equipment to get left and right-handed batters out," Mauch said. "Both can get balls to move away from the hitter. Both are super athletes."

Then Mauch fingered Campbell's weakness.

"Marshall might outhit him a little, but pitchers don't hit in this league," he said.

After Campbell's pop fly scare in the 11th, the Twins snapped a tie against Detroit relief ace John Hiller in the 12th on consecutive doubles by Butch Wynegar and Lyman Bostock and Cubbage singled home an insurance run which Campbell didn't need.

Elsewhere in the American League, the California Angels blew an eight-run lead in the ninth inning but scored three times in the 11th to defeat the New York Yankees 11-8, the Baltimore Orioles won their opener from the Chicago White Sox 6-2 but dropped the nightcap 7-3, the Kansas City Royals turned back the Milwaukee Brewers 7-4, the Oakland A's nipped the Boston Red Sox 7-6 in 11 innings and the Cleveland Indians shaded the Texas Rangers 3-1.

The Angels pounded Catfish Hunter for six runs and nine hits in 6 1-3 innings, including solo homers by Dave Collins leading off the game and Tony Solaita, in piling up an 8-0 lead. Meanwhile, Frank Tanana limited the Yankees to two hits until they exploded with one out in the ninth.

The Angels tagged Sparky Lyle for three runs in the 11th after Jerry Remy singled and Lyle threw late to second on Mario Guerrero's bunt. The runs crossed on Tommy Davis' pinch single, Lyle's throwing error and Lee Stanton's sacrifice fly.

Lamar Johnson rapped out three singles, drove in two runs and scored twice to lead Pete Vuckovich and the White Sox to a victory over the Orioles and a split of Sunday's doubleheader.

Reggie Jackson's tie-breaking pinch grand slam homer in the ninth inning of the opener gave the Orioles a triumph and Jim Palmer his 17th victory, most in the American League. He hurled a three-hitter.

Jackson's homer was the fourth grand slam of his career, third this season and second in eight days against the White Sox. But the loss in the nightcap enabled the Orioles to pick up only one-half game on the New York Yankees, who lost to California 11-8. Second-place Baltimore trails the Yankees by 9½ games in the AL East.

Vuckovich, 7-3, ran out of gas in the seventh inning of the nightcap and needed help from Francisco Barrios.

The Sox kayoed Oriole starter Ross Grimsley, 6-6, in the third inning and kept pecking away at the Baltimore bullpen, piling up a 7-1 lead.

Johnson singled in the second inning and scored on singles by Bill Stein and Jerry Hairston. The Sox added two more runs in the third on a double by Jorge Orta, a walk, a run-scoring single by Johnson and a sacrifice fly by Chet Lemon.

Johnson drove in another run and scored again as the White Sox broke it open with three runs in the fifth.

Vuckovich had allowed only one run and two hits — both by designated hitter Jackson — going into the seventh when he yielded two runs on a pair of walks and singles by Brooks Robinson and Rick Dempsey. Barrios took over and earned his third save.

Jackson's homer provided Palmer with his 17th victory against 11 losses and his 17th complete game of the season. The Orioles took a 2-0 lead in the sixth inning on a single by Dempsey and a walk to Lee May and two-out, run scoring singles by Doug DeCinces and Ken Singleton.

Palmer had a one-hit shutout going into the eighth when he walked Jack Brohamer and hit Bucky Dent with a pitch. Jim Essian then beat out a bunt single to load the bases before Orta tied the game with a hard-shot single off shot shortstop Mark Valenger's glove.

Singleton walked to open the Baltimore ninth and Dave Duncan singled. Pinch hitter Brooks Robinson drew a walk to fill the bases. Terry Forster came in to face Jackson, who cleared the bases with his 22nd homer of the season.

Jackson singled in the first inning of the second game and then doubled in the fourth inning and scored on a throwing error by Vuckovich.

Amos Otis singled home two runs in Kansas City's four-run ninth-inning rally after Danny Frisella issued three consecutive walks and Ruppert Jones drove in the tying run with a grounder.

"That's the first time I've ever done that since I've been in the big leagues," Frisella said. "I guess you can't do it every time. That's why people on bomb squads don't live long."

Don Baylor's suicide squeeze bunt single drove in the winning run after a single by Phil Garner, a sacrifice and Bert Campaneris' fifth hit of the game. A two-run single by Campaneris helped the A's to a 6-1 lead but the Red Sox tied it with five runs in the sixth off relievers Paul Lindblad and Rollie Fingers.

Pat Dobson scattered seven hits for his first victory since July 16. It was his eighth start in search of his 12th triumph.

Singles by Rick Manning, George Hendrick and Buddy Bell accounted for the Indians' first run in the fourth inning against winless rookie Tommy Boggs and Tommy Smith drove in what proved to be the decisive run with a grounder in the fifth after Frank Duffy doubled and was sacrificed to third.

Thompson's And Fayette Champs

Plangger, Luther Stars In State Tourney

Fayette Bar of Niles and Thompson's Supermarket of Buchanan grabbed top honors in state softball tournament play over the weekend.

Sparked by two players from Plangger's, Fayette's captured the Class A state fastpitch softball championship at Ann Arbor. Fayette's will compete in the national tournament over Labor Day weekend at Hamilton, Ohio.

Thompson's, on the other hand, hardly worked up a sweat in winning the Class A state slowpitch title at Midland. Thompson's will play in the national tourney Labor Day weekend in Maryland.

Rick Plangger and George Luther, two pitching standouts this year for Plangger's, were the sparkplugs in Fayette's title climb. And it was done in dramatic fashion.

Fayette dropped its opening game of the tourney 4-2 to Heidelburg Inn of Ann Arbor. But the Niles team then proceeded to capture six straight games to take the championship.

As he was most of the year for Plangger's, Rick Planger was the workhorse on the mound for Fayette's, pitching 40 straight innings over one stretch.

But it was Luther who picked up the victory in relief in the decisive championship game. Luther relieved a tired Plangger in the sixth inning of the title tilt with the score tied 3-3. And former Brandywine star Jim Johnson made him the winner with a two-run homer in the last of the sixth for a 5-3 victory.

Plangger started all six games in the final two days of the tourney. He pitched a three-hitter and fanned 13 in a 3-1 win over West Bay Honda of Saginaw. Plangger hurled four-hitters against both Townclub of Elk Rapids and Steelcase of Grand Rapids, winning each 6-1.

He then toyed with Heidelburg Inn in a rematch won by Fayette 9-5, before beating Flint AUL's standout pitcher Jim Doyle 1-0 with a two-hitter. Doyle was the nation's fourth-ranked pitcher and the victory forced the extra title game.

Thompson's banged out 77 hits and batted a crisp .491 in easily winning the slowpitch title with five straight victories.

In easy fashion, Thompson's polished off Kelly Buick of Lansing 15-3 in five innings, Blackhurst Realtors of Midland 15-3 in five innings, East Side Lounge of Battle Creek 6-3, Village Inn of the Upper Peninsula 13-6 and Sackett Brick of Kalamazoo 14-4 in five innings. The tourney had a 10-run rule.

Jim Rundborg posted all five victories on the mound to run his season record to 48-6. Only against East Side Lounge was Thompson's pressed. The Buchanan team trailed 3-0 entering the sixth inning, but scored three runs to tie the game in the sixth and won it with three more in the seventh.

George Dreitzler was the big hitting star in the tournament for Thompson's, belting 14 hits in 18 official trips to the plate. Dave Shoemake followed closely behind with 12 hits in 16 at bats.

Tarkenton Sparks Vikings

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fran Tarkenton has been through it before but it was all new to Sammie White.

"We've been working very hard with these young receivers during training camp," said Tarkenton. "At some point kids have got to make a play. Sammie made a very big play."

White, a rookie from Grambling, hauled in a Tarkenton pass in the corner of the end zone with just 24 seconds left Sunday to give Minnesota a 23-17 victory over Cincinnati in a National Football League preseason game.

"Man, oh, man," said White when asked what his thoughts were as he watched the ball float towards him. "I'd better get this one."

How did he feel hauling in the game-winning catch?

"I just didn't know what to say or do," said the fleet rookie. "My mind was blank. But I've always had the confidence I could make the big play."

The winning toss, which covered 32 yards, came with the teams tied 17-17 and facing an overtime period in humid, 91-degree weather in Bloomington.

Tarkenton threw two touchdown passes in the game and set up a third with a 52-yard pass to Tom Gerecitano.

The Bengals, who lost for the first time in four outings, had rallied to tie it at 17-all with just 1:16 left when John Reaves hit Billy Brooks with an 11-yard TD pass. Boobie Clark rammed over from the one-yard line for the other Cincinnati touchdown.

The victory evened the Vikings' exhibition record at 2-2.

In Saturday night games, Los Angeles downed Oakland 23-14; San Francisco edged San Diego 17-16; Miami topped Tampa Bay 28-21; New England defeated Atlanta 28-17; Kansas City got by Washington 23-20; Dallas dumped Detroit 36-16; St. Louis beat Chicago 20-14; the New York Jets defeated Houston 27-24, and Denver rocked Seattle 52-7.

On Friday night Buffalo buried Green Bay 37-0, New Orleans defeated Baltimore 26-20 in overtime and the New York Giants upset Pittsburgh 17-0.

Cleveland plays at Philadelphia Monday night.

John Cappelletti ran for one touchdown and caught a pass from James Harris for another as undefeated Los Angeles overcame Carl Garrett's 96-yard TD run on the opening kickoff to beat Oakland.

Jim Plunkett fired two touchdown passes but San Francisco needed Steve Mick-Mayer's 38-yard field goal with two seconds left to keep its unbeaten record intact against San Diego.

Bob Griese threw for three first-half touchdowns and Miami held off cross-state rival Tampa Bay in the second half to up its record to 4-0 in front of 71,718 fans — the largest crowd of the preseason — at Tampa.

Don Calhoun raced 71 yards for one touchdown and quarterback Tom Owen passed for two more to lead New England past winless Atlanta.

A pair of second-half touchdown passes by reserve quarterback Tony Adams and Jan Stenerud's 36-yard field goal with 14 seconds left carried Kansas City past Washington.

Butch Johnson scored on an 89-yard kickoff return and Danny White hooked up with Duke Ferguson on two touchdown passes to help Dallas post its first victory of the exhibition season.

Veteran Jim Bakken booted a pair of field goals and Steve Jones and Jim Otis scored on short runs as St. Louis handed Chicago its first loss of the preseason.

Three field goals by Pat Leahy and Joe Namath's 10-yard TD pass to Jerome Barkum helped the Jets beat Houston. The Oilers missed a chance to tie when Skip Butler's 35-yard field goal attempt with 20 seconds left went wide.

Defensive back Louis Wright scored on a 27-yard fumble return and quarterbacks Steve Ramsey, John Hufnagel and Norris Weese each threw a touchdown pass as Denver routed winless Seattle.

Forzano Plans To Select No. 1 QB By Tuesday

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lion coach Rick Forzano says he'll name his No. 1 quarterback before the team starts practice Tuesday.

But in the wake of Saturday night's 36-16 loss to Dallas, it's hard to say which of the three competitors for the spot — Bill Munson, Greg Landry or Joe Reed — Forzano will pick.

The three have been jockeyed in and out of the Lions' five National Football League preseason games as Forzano tried to see which one would take charge. But none of them really has.

Reed looked like he might have the edge after his first-half work against the Cowboys in Memphis's Liberty Bowl stadium Saturday. He steered the first-half offense of 176 yards, converting big third-down plays even though the Lions trailed 13-9.

Landry came in for nine plays, including a screen pass that gave rookie Lawrence Gaines a chance for his 67-yard touchdown run and put the Lions ahead, briefly, 16-13.

Forzano says he plans to review the film of Saturday's game and then make his choice. But he adds, "Of course, whether it lasts or not is something else."

Landry admits the coach is in "a tough position. He's had to play us all and that's difficult to do. I need more work and I'm sure we all probably do. I don't know how he'll decide."

Munson agrees. "We can only wait and see. He either has to pick one or it becomes a musical chairs situation. It's almost impossible for the coach to be able to give three guys enough playing time to get anything going."

Reed says he feels good about his last outing before the pick. "I was pleased with the way we moved the ball," he said, "but the fumbles hurt us. I hope we can get them all out of our system in the preseason. The line blocked well, they really came off the ball.

Sets Optimistic In WTT Playoffs

OAKLAND (AP) — Carrying a league-leading 19-8 record in men's singles and fresh from a satisfying victory over the Golden Gaters' Tom Okker, Sandy Mayer of the New York Sets is understandably optimistic about his team's chances in the World Team Tennis final playoffs.

Mayer, the cocky former NCAA champ from Stanford, downed Okker 6-3 Saturday to put the Sets ahead for good over the Gaters in the first of their best-of-five playoff series. The second match will be played tonight at the Oakland Coliseum.

"So they can't believe we beat them, huh?" Mayer asked in the dressing room after Saturday's 31-23 win. "Well, let me tell you, they'd better believe it."

Besides beating Okker in singles, Mayer joined with Australian Phil Dent in a 6-4 doubles victory over Okker and Frew McMillan, on record the best men's doubles team in the WTT.

McMillan, the Gaters' player-coach, said a lineup change is "a possibility" but would not elaborate. One possibility would be to have Francoise Durr take over the women's singles from Betty Stove, who lost 7-6 Saturday to Virginia Wade.

Miss Stove would then replace Miss Durr as McMillan's partner in mixed doubles. The Durr-McMillan team was trounced 6-2 by Phil Dent and Billie Jean King, who with Virginia Wade lost the women's doubles set 7-5 to Miss Stove and Miss Durr.

Midlands Should Dominate College Football Again

CHICAGO (AP) — The Midlands have dominated the national collegiate football championship through the 1970s, with one exception, and there is no reason to believe it cannot happen again.

Can Oklahoma make it three straight national titles or will Nebraska assert itself in the Big Eight? Nebraska won in 1970 and 1971. Oklahoma in 1974 and 1975.

In between, Southern California stepped in for the title in 1972 and Notre Dame took it back to the Midwest in 1973.

Then there is the Big Ten, dominated by Ohio State and Michigan. Although these two powerhouses are consistently ranked among the top 10 during the season — Ohio State topped The Associated Press poll most of the 1975 campaign — they have managed to stub their toes in the bowl games when the national championships are decided.

Not since Ohio State finished on top in 1968 has a Big Ten team won the national title.

If the Midlands again provide the national champion, it will be one of five schools — Oklahoma, Nebraska, Notre Dame, Michigan or Ohio State. Nobody else figures.

Notre Dame can look forward to returning to the Top 10 this year. The Irish are loaded with fine running backs and Rick Slager and Joe Montana will battle for the quarterback spot. Eight starters return on defense including ends Ross Browner and Willie Fry and back Luther Bradley.

Oklahoma, upset only by Kansas last season but a winner over Michigan in the Orange Bowl, has lost heavily. Gone are the Selmon brothers, Leroy and Dewey, from the Sooners' ragged defense.

Oklahoma also lost running back Joe Washington and regular quarterback Steve Davis. But the Sooners, like other major powers, have little trouble recruiting top talent and must be considered for the Big Eight and national championships.

Nebraska appears ready to step out front in the Big Eight. The Cornhuskers won 10 straight last year before falling to Oklahoma and then losing to Arizona State 17-14 in the Fiesta Bowl.

Always tough on defense, Nebraska has eight starters returning to one of the nation's top offensive units including quarterback Vince Ferragamo and fullback Monte Anthony.

Kansas could be a factor in the Big Eight. The Jayhawks, who surprised Oklahoma 23-3 last year, have quarterback Nolan Cromwell, the Big Eight's leading rusher and top player back again along with halfback Laverne Smith.

Oklahoma State has 17 starters returning and could be the dark horse of the league. Missouri has 15 starters back but a tough schedule will be the undoing of the Tigers.

Colorado lost heavily through graduation and will rely on untried talent. Kansas State and Iowa State don't figure in the conference race.

Unless Ohio State can do a quick rebuilding job in the backfield — and there is no reason to believe it cannot be done — Michigan could capture the Big Ten title and the guaranteed trip to the Rose Bowl.

Ohio State lost two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin, the first 5,000-yard rusher in major college history, along with quarterback Cornelius Greene and wingback Brian Baschnagel.

But Coach Woody Hayes — who often has warned, "Don't get caught without a fullback" — has massive Pete Johnson to rebuild around.

Ohio State again has an awesome defense to go with the kicking game of Tom Skladany.

Michigan, with one of its youngest teams in years, lost only to Ohio State and Oklahoma last year. The Wolverines are loaded, with quarterback Rick Leach having a year of experience and Rob Lytle ready to run with the best of them. Calvin O'Neal and Greg Morton anchor a tough Wolverine defense.

If anyone can challenge Ohio State and Michigan supremacy in the Big Ten — the two have won or shared the conference title for the past eight years — it will be Purdue, Minnesota or possibly Illinois.

Michigan State, despite NCAA restrictions for recruiting violations, still has talent but a number of players are ineligible to play in certain games including the season opener at Ohio State.

Quarterback Mark Vitali and running back Scott Dierking head Purdue's hopes. The Boilermakers will make up for size with speed and quickness.

Tom Dungy has become the top passing quarterback in the Big Ten and will head a veteran team at Minnesota. They say you can't win by passing in the Big Ten, but Dungy has an excellent pair of receivers in Ron Kullas and Mike Jones.

Illinois can hold its own on defense with the likes of John DiFeliciantio and Dean March up front and linebackers Scott Studwell and John Sullivan. Offense will be a problem unless quarterback Kurt Steger can take charge.

Indiana and Northwestern are looking forward to improved teams.

Indiana has a great runner in Courtney Snyder and Northwestern has running back Greg Boykin and end Scott Yelvington.

Wisconsin fell apart last year and will be without Billy Marek and Iowa is in another rebuilding year.

Miami of Ohio will be seeking a fourth straight Mid-American Conference title but the Redskins will have to battle off the likes of Bowling Green, Ball State and Central Michigan.

Tulsa again figures to be the power in the Missouri Valley with New Mexico State and West Texas State providing the strongest challenges.

Battle-Tested Purdue Is Eyeing Improved Record

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue lost fullback Mike Pruitt and three offensive linemen from last season's 4-7 football team, but Coach Alex Agase is optimistic of a better showing this year with an improved quarterback and tailback, plus the return of 10 defensive starters.

The often intangible factor of experience also should work to the Boilermakers' advantage, Agase said, since 13 seniors were listed in starting positions at the start of practice last week.

That would give Purdue its most battle-tested crew since 1972, the last year the Boilermakers posted a winning record, 6-5.

Agase, who came to Purdue in 1973, feels this year's squad just may give him his first winning season here.

"It's obvious that everything starts with the quarterback, and it's easy to see that it's important for a winning team to be solid at the quarterback position," the coach said. "We feel with the improvement of Mark Vitali this past spring and the surgence of Steve Barr and Joe Metallic at the position, we have met that need."

Vitali completed only 36 per cent of his passes last year, but he totaled 728 yards on 46 completions and three touchdowns. Metallic, a junior, was the star of Purdue's spring intrasquad game, hitting five of seven attempts for 99 yards and two touchdowns.

The loss of Pruitt, a first-round pick in the National Football League draft, will hurt, Agase admitted. But returning is Scott Dierking, "a performer we feel is one of the premier tailbacks in the conference this season."

Dierking led the Boilermakers with 914 yards last year, and he will be trying to become the only other runner besides Otis Armstrong to lead the team in rushing three straight seasons.

"Dierking is a superior runner and he makes us extremely strong at that position," Agase said. Tim Boykin also will play both tailback and fullback this season.

One significant personnel change involved flanker Paul Beery, the leading pass catcher last season, who was moved to defensive safety. He will be replaced by Reggie Arnold, who will be backed up by Jappy Oliver.

"The offensive line is our biggest area of concern," Agase said. "We lost three outstanding linemen to graduation and they all were selected in the professional football draft."

It looks like Dave Lafary and John LeFeber will replace Ken Long and Jeff Stapleton at tackle, and Rich Wetendorf will succeed Jim Polak at center.

The biggest loss on defense was 6-7 Ken Novak at tackle. "We won't be as large as usual...but there will be a pickup in quickness," Agase said.

He likely will be replaced by Cleveland Crosby. "a very quick performer, not large in size, but very fast for a lineman."

"Three of the four backfield players, cornerbacks Mike Northington and Jerome King, plus Pat Harris at free safety, started every game last season. That's a lot of experience."

Other returnees include Mark Travline, who played a lot last year at free safety and will be used also at strong safety; linebackers Bob Mannella Mike Burgamy and Fred Arrington, and linemen Kim Cripe, Chris Barr and Roger Ruwe.

Over all, Agase said, "we need to develop some backup depth in some positions."

Whitworth Posts 76th LPGA Victory

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth recorded her 78th Ladies Professional Golf Association victory Sunday by letting the other golfers shoot at her score while she sat in the clubhouse at the $55,000 Patty Berg Golf Classic.

"It's my Bicentenial victory," said the lanky Texan, who birdied the 18th hole for an even-par 73 to win the Berg Classic by two strokes over Sandra Post.

"I would rather be ahead and let them shoot at me," she said, relaxing after her round to watch Miss Post and Bonnie Bryant come in on 18. Miss Whitworth finished seven under par.

Miss Whitworth set a course record Friday with an opening 66 and coasted to par 73s the rest of the way to pick up the $8,000 winner's check. The cardboard facsmile of the check measured 4 feet by 10, but Miss Whitworth commented, "everything should be big for Texas."

Her last tour victory had come in February.

Miss Post started the day at seven under, tied with Miss Whitworth. She gained the lead at eight under with an even 37 on the front side while the Texan came in with 38. But Miss Post, a Canadian playing out of Boynton Beach, Fla., three-putted the 11th green and missed two short birdie efforts and a four-foot par putt to finish at five under par for the tournament.

Miss Bryant, the only lefthander on the tour, hits a long ball but missed short birdie putts on the last four holes that could have won her the title. She finished third at four under par.

"My putter deserted me today," said the 32-year-old golfer from Palm Springs, Calif. "They count just as much around the green when they're two feet as they do with a 240-yard drive."

Jane Blalock, who put herself into the running Saturday with a 68, birdied the final hole to finish with a 72 and fourth place.

Defending champion Joann Washam finished the tournament in a four-way tie for 21st place at 223, 11 strokes back.

Minnesota's grand lady of golf, Patty Berg, failed to make the cut after shooting 79 Friday and 77 Saturday. Miss Berg, who at age 57 still makes her living at golf, turned from player to television commentator for the tournament that bears her name.

He likely will be replaced by Cleveland Crosby, "a very quick performer, not large in size, but very fast for a lineman."

"Three of the four backfield players, cornerbacks Mike Northington and Jerome King, plus Pat Harris at free safety, started every game last season. That's a lot of experience."

Other returnees include Mark Travline, who played a lot last year at free safety and will be used also at strong safety; linebackers Bob Mannella Mike Burgamy and Fred Arrington, and linemen Kim Cripe, Chris Barr and Roger Ruwe.

Over all, Agase said, "we need to develop some backup depth in some positions."

Erskine Wins State Open

Home Town Boy Wins By Three Strokes

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — With his wife, Judy, clutching her lucky "golden eagle" for all it was worth, touring pro Randy Erskine held on for a three-stroke victory Sunday in the $15,000 Michigan Open.

Erskine, who is taking a break from the PGA grind to visit family and friends here in his home town, fired a two-over-par 74 over the 7,020-yard Bedford Valley Country Club layout to finish at nine-under 279 for the tournament.

Michigan Amateur champion Mike Hurley, of Albion, and D. A. Weibring, an assistant pro at Red Run Golf Club in Madison Heights, finished in a tie for second at 282, while Detroit amateur Bob Proben was a stroke back at 283, followed by Grand Rapids pro Lynn Janson at 284.

Erskine collected the $2,000 top prize. Weibring picked up the full $1,400 in second-place earnings since amateur Hurley was ineligible for prize money.

"One of Randy's sponsors handed me this solid gold African coin on Saturday after Randy eagled the 16th hole," Mrs. Erskine said. "He said, 'That was worth an ounce of gold, keep it.' So I'm calling it my 'golden eagle.'"

Erskine, who had the home-town galleries rooting unashamedly for him all week long in the prestigious tournament, needed all the luck he could get during the final two rounds of play as Weibring made repeated runs at him.

Four times during the final 36 holes Weibring, a Quincy, Ill., native who recently graduated from Illinois State University, pulled even with Erskine. But each time he was frustrated in his effort to take the lead.

"Every time I'd catch up, I couldn't get over the hump," Weibring said. "But, to tell the truth, I was really trying to play the course, rather than trying to play Randy, because he really does have too much experience for me to try to play him."

For Erskine, the victory marked the first time he has led a tournament from start to finish since turning pro three years ago.

"I certainly am elated, to say the least," the slim long-hitter said. "I mean, if anyone would have told me I would shoot nine-under here when the week started — I'd have laughed. Now, I just hope I can take this momentum into the Buick Open at Flint next week."

For the top two amateurs, Hurley and Proben, the tournament was one mostly of frustrations and thoughts of what might have been. Either could have won the title had he been able to avoid one disastrous round.

Hurley fired a disappointing 75 during Saturday's third round while Proben soared to a 75 in the final round.

"If I had played here like I did in the Michigan Amateur, I'd have smoked some people," Hurley sighed.

For young Proben, who admits he wants to turn pro just as soon as he can find a sponsor, the dejection was even more intense, since he knew he needed a strong finish to help him attract a benefactor.

"I just hit the ball bad in the final round," he said. "I hit the ball all over the place. Geez! I'd like to shoot myself."

Tex Simon turned in the best score of the southwestern Michigan golfers. He carded a 74 on both Saturday and Sunday to finish with a 293 total. Bob Ackerman from Bridgman, last year's winner, ended up with a 295 total while Jeff Voss of South Haven carded a 298.

UNSER WINNER: Al Unser stands in the winner's circle with the checkered flag Sunday after winning the 200-mile Tony Bettenhausen championship car auto race at Wisconsin's State Fair Park track at Milwaukee. He had an average speed of 121.907 miles per hour in the U.S. Auto Club event. (AP Wirephoto)

Honest Pleasure Romps

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — "He was just a runnin' fool."

That was jockey Craig Perret's assessment of Honest Pleasure Saturday in the Travers Stakes — and that assessment was right on target.

Honest Pleasure, who had not won since before the Kentucky Derby in May and who was not the favorite for the first time all year, smashed a four-race losing streak, as well as the Saratoga track record.

Taking the lead just a few jumps out of the gate, Honest Pleasure toyed with seven other 3-year-olds, charging home four lengths in front of longshot Romeo in the time of 2:00 1-5 for the 1¼ miles. This was four-fifths of a second better than the old mark set in 1971 by Loud under 114 pounds, 12 less than Honest Pleasure and his rivals carried Saturday.

With Honest Pleasure shaking his beaten favorite's role, that distinction in the Travers went to Ogden Mills Phipps' Majestic Light, who was never in contention and finished seventh in the eight-horse field.

"A hell of a horse did his job," said Perret after riding Honest Pleasure to his fifth victory in nine starts this year and his 11th win in 17 career races.

The winner's share of $60,040 from a purse of $108,400 boosted Honest Pleasure's career earnings to $734,439. And if Saturday's form is any indication, the What A Pleasure colt should become a millionaire in the fall.

LeRoy Jolley, who trains Honest Pleasure for Bert Firestone, said he has nominated Honest Pleasure for the $100,000-added Jerome Sept. 6 at Belmont Park. The Jerome is a handicap for 3-year-olds and could attract several of Honest Pleasure's beaten foes in the Travers.

However, Honest Pleasure will have to wait until probably October to face Bold Forbes, the 3-year-old division leader who has been out of action since winning the Belmont Stakes in June, mainly because of a heel problem which is coming around.

Mary Lou Cashman's Romeo finished 1½ lengths ahead of Dance Spell, who was another length in front of Quiet Little Table. Romeo, off at 45-1, was ridden by Braulio Baeza, who had been Honest Pleasure's jockey before he had a falling out with Jolley. Mrs. Cashman is the wife of Eugene Cashman, owner of Preakness winner Elocutionist, who also had been sidelined by injury.

Completing the order of finish in the Travers were El Portugues, McKenzie Bridge, Majestic Light and Legion-daire.

Honest Pleasure paid a winning mutuel of $6.20 to his backers in a crowd of 31,255.

Cadet Scandal Goes To Panel

By MALCOLM N. CARTER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Loudspeakers have been set up in barracks, classrooms and auditoriums at the U.S. Military Academy so cadets can hear the secretary of the Army testify at a Capitol Hill hearing on West Point's cheating scandal.

Army Secretary Martin R. Hoffmann is to testify today before the manpower and personnel subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Lt. Gen. Sidney B. Berry, West Point superintendant, is to accompany him.

Hoffmann's remarks could affect not only the careers of the cadets accused of cheating but also the morale of the entire cadet corps, which is divided over allegations that cheating has been widespread and the honor code sets an unattainable ideal.

The code states that "a cadet will not lie, cheat, or steal, nor tolerate those who do." Some cadets have complained that expulsion as the sole penalty for violation of the code is unfair in failing to distinguish between, say, thieves and casual cheaters who turn themselves in.

The number of cadets so far convicted of cheating on a graded homework assignment in an electrical engineering course has now neared an infamous record set in 1951.

That was the year 37 football players and 53 other cadets — 90 in all — left forever for taking part in in an organized cheating ring.

About a quarter of the Class of 1977 has been accused of violating the honor code by collaborating on the homework assignment. Given before spring leave in March, the 10-part computer problem counted as 5 per cent of the course grade.

To date, boards of officers have upheld allegations against 81 cadets, with cases pending against 78 others. The rest quit the academy rather than appeal or had charges against them dismissed.

At the initiative of Rep. Thomas J. Downey, D-N.Y., ad hoc congressional hearings were held in which Army defense lawyers spoke of subtle sanctions being taken against them for efforts on behalf of their cadet clients.

Further, cadets testified about intimidation in proceedings against them, and cadets and lawyers alike alleged that the true scope of cheating at the academy was being covered up to save face.

Out of these hearings came a letter signed by House Speaker Carl Albert, Senate Majority Leader Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, Chairman Melvin Price of the House Armed Services Committee and 170 other congressmen urging Hoffmann to intervene at West Point immediately.

Anti-Smog Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fuel evaporation from automobiles and light trucks is to be reduced by 70 per cent below current levels beginning with 1978 models, the Environmental Protection Agency says.

The EPA issued on Sunday a new standard to reduce hydrocarbon evaporation from gasoline in a vehicle's fuel system.

The EPA said hydrocarbon molecules escape in vapors from gas tanks and carburetors even when engines are not running.

These escaping hydrocarbons, which amount to three million tons a year nationwide, combine with other pollutants and sunlight to form unhealthy smog, the EPA said.

EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said the relative importance of evaporative emission control increases as other anti-pollution measures become more effective in eliminating larger sources of air pollution.

"This new rule will help alleviate smog in seriously afflicted cities such as Phoenix, Tucson, Los Angeles, Denver, Houston, Galveston and Newark," Train said.

The EPA said modifications needed to bring cars and trucks up to standard will be simple and inexpensive. Tighter sealing gas caps, improved carburetors and other minor parts modification probably will suffice to meet the standard, the agency added.

Tall Ship Erawan Draws Throngs To South Haven

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Western Michigan found itself caught up in the awe of the bygone sailing ship era this past weekend as thousands of people streamed to this community to view and tour the Panamanian tall ship Erawan.

An estimated 7,500 to 10,000 people viewed the ship as it arrived in South Haven Saturday afternoon while another 5,000 to 6,000 toured the vessel yesterday. The ship left South Haven for Grand Haven this morning.

The visit of the Erawan is part of South Haven's first maritime festival and brought back memories of the days when ships carrying tourists plied Lake Michigan between South Haven and other ports. Longtime residents said crowds in South Haven this past weekend were the largest in several decades.

Erawan captain Philippe Esnus looked to his South Haven reception with amazement: "People hardly paid attention to us when we were in Chicago last week," said the French-born captain. "If I had known the reception that was awaiting us here I would have come sooner."

Except for Mackinac Island, South Haven is the smallest community on the Erawan's itinerary this summer. The privately-owned ship participated in Operation Sail in July and is planning visits to Grand Haven, Muskegon and Green Bay before returning to the French West Indies. The 150-foot ship followed the shoreline from Chicago to South Haven during its nine hour journey Saturday. It was visible from shore despite a haze.

Approximately 30 South Haven-based boats greeted the Erawan as it approached from the south. Today's atomic age contrasted with yesterday's non-motorized age as the ship sailed past Consumer Power company's Palisades nuclear plant five miles south of South Haven.

The flotilla of boats ballooned to an estimated 200 by the time the ship approached the entrance to the Black river channel.

Despite an absence of wind, the ship displayed all of its sails except for the square riggers. The sails remained unfurled until the ship entered the channel which was lined four-to-five deep on both sides with people.

Sunbathers and swimmers literally abandoned the city's two beaches to gain a glimpse of the 30-year-old vessel that had been built as a cargo hauler, but transformed into a charter vessel in 1972.

Local organizers had planned public tours for two three-hour periods Sunday, but a continued long line caused them to remain open uninterrupted from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Most people waited a minimum of one hour to get on board.

The crew was officially welcomed by South Haven Mayor Richard Lewis, local Bicentennial coordinator Viktor Anderson and local Operation Sail committee members Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Carnahan. The captain was presented gifts of Michigan-grown peaches and blueberries, a key to the city and several bottles of Michigan wines.

Sixteen people attended a $50 a plate gourmet dinner prepared by the captain on board Saturday night. There was a $30 a person buffet dinner Sunday night.

Police reported that despite the influx of visitors there were no serious problems with the exception of a continual traffic jam. All passes were cancelled for South Haven police officers who were assisted by the Van Buren sheriff's department and state police from several area posts. Water traffic was controlled by the Coast Guard and Van Buren sheriff's marine patrol.

The Erawan left South Haven for Grand Haven at 8:30 a.m. today. Several local residents were invited by the captain to take the six-hour cruise.

There are other activities still on tap for the maritime festival. An exhibit of boat models constructed by Dave Davis of South Haven and photos depicting local maritime history are on display through Sept. 7 at the city's recreation building.

A tug of war between two South Haven-based tugboats is planned for 2 p.m. this Saturday on the Black river. The tugs, the Evelyn S and the Elsie J., are powered by the same size Kalemberg engine.

A dedication service of a new maritime park is planned for 1 p.m. Sunday. The park, to be known as Nikonong Point, will be dedicated to the memory of sailors who have died on the Great Lakes. The name Nikonong is derived from two Indian words meaning beautiful sunset and is based on Indian legends of South Haven and the Black river. The park was constructed by members of the South Haven Lions club. An open house of the nearby maritime museum and several boats will follow until 6 p.m.

The maritime festival committee reported that an estimated 1,600 people took advantage of free boat rides on the Black river the past two weekends.

SISTER LAKES — A 38-year-old Florida farm laborer drowned Sunday while swimming near the public access site on Round lake here, according to the Van Buren sheriff's department.

Deputies said the said the body of Charles Ray Pedigo, Avon Park, Fla., was recovered in about eight feet of water some 75 feet from shore by two other swimmers.

Mrs. Pedigo told deputies her husband had been swimming for about eight minutes around 5:30 p.m. when he dived and failed to surface.

Two other people at the drowning site Oose Touse, Hartford, and Johnny McMunn, 6289 Hill road, Coloma, assisted Sister Lakes firemen with recovery of the body.

Tall Ship Erawan Draws Throngs To South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — Western Michigan found itself caught up in the awe of the bygone sailing ship era this past weekend as thousands of people streamed to this community to view and tour the Panamanian tall ship Erawan.

School Integration

School officials in Dallas were looking for a peaceful opening of public schools after an advertising campaign to win acceptance of a new desegregation plan calling for the busing of about 18,000 pupils. Meanwhile, in the small Arkansas town of Eudora, school officials were promising discipline to prevent a repeat of the racial violence that closed their classrooms last spring. Both school systems opened the school year today.

They'll Do It Every Time

Thousands Stay Home

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police opened fire on blacks trying to enforce a work boycott in the huge Soweto township today and killed one of them.

Thousands of Soweto blacks stayed home in response to a call for a three-day protest strike, and employers in Johannesburg said up to 80 per cent of their black workers were absent at the start of the work day. But later they reported a steady trickle of latecomers arriving for work.

FRASER JOSTLED

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Jeering demonstrators jostled Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser today to protest his Conservative government's cuts in welfare programs. Fraser was opening a center for children with hearing difficulties at Monash University. More than 1,000 people turned out to protest cuts in the budget for education and government health insurance.

School Integration

School officials in Dallas were looking for a peaceful opening of public schools after an advertising campaign to win acceptance of a new desegregation plan calling for the busing of about 18,000 pupils. Meanwhile, in the small Arkansas town of Eudora, school officials were promising discipline to prevent a repeat of the racial violence that closed their classrooms last spring. Both school systems opened the school year today.

Thousands Stay Home

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police opened fire on blacks trying to enforce a work boycott in the huge Soweto township today and killed one of them.

Thousands of Soweto blacks stayed home in response to a call for a three-day protest strike, and employers in Johannesburg said up to 80 per cent of their black workers were absent at the start of the work day. But later they reported a steady trickle of latecomers arriving for work.

FRASER JOSTLED

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Jeering demonstrators jostled Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser today to protest his Conservative government's cuts in welfare programs. Fraser was opening a center for children with hearing difficulties at Monash University. More than 1,000 people turned out to protest cuts in the budget for education and government health insurance.

Detroit Band Ignored In Home Town

By PAT KIGHT
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Concert Band and its fans are beginning to wonder if somebody's out to get them. One one hand, the band has won acclaim for its recordings of John Philip Sousa's brassy, jubilant music; it has appeared on Britain's BBC-TV. it has followers as far away as Australia, where, a band official says, there's an admirer running around in a "Detroit Concert Band" T-shirt.

On the other hand, the 31-year-old band didn't even rate a mention in Detroit's official Bicentennial book, "1701 to 1976."

"The culture snobs seem to think of concert bands as being part of the perspiring arts rather than the performing arts," said Helen Rowe, a band officer and its most vocal advocate.

DR. LEEONARD B. SMITH
Band Director

Band director Leonard B. Smith's career dates back before he trumpeted the well-known bars from the "William Tell Overture" to open "The Lone Ranger" radio show. He played for several years in New York, notably with the Edwin Goldman Band, and with the U.S. Navy Band before turning his talents to Detroit.

Calling Smith a director doesn't begin to tell the story. He is also the band's music arranger, publicist, father-figure and fund-raiser.

Since the band is not city-or foundation-subsidized, Smith spends a lot of time stumping around Detroit-area businesses, selling advertising space on concert programs, and pleading the cause of good music.

"It's my baby," Smith says. "And it's a fact of life. We simply don't get the kind of financial support that, say, a symphony orchestra does."

And he insists that concert band music, with its brasses and flourishes, is still quite popular around the country.

Evidence of that popularity is the success of the band's most ambitious project to date: getting down on record—for the first time anywhere—all of Sousa's music. Five albums have been completed so far, out of the projected 11-volume set.

"It takes time. Each album has to pay for the one that follows it. But it's working," Smith said. "We haven't had to borrow money since the initial album."

The astonishing aspect of the album's soaring sales is that the records are not sold in stores.

"They don't want to handle a one-item line," Smith explained.

The records are sold through private outlets—a band newsletter, announcements at concerts, but mostly word of mouth.

"It's funny, we'll get an order from someone, then within weeks we'll get orders from several other people with the same last name, or from the same city," Smith said. "People tell their families, their friends."

The Concert Band this summer completes its 31st season of free outdoor concerts for Detroit residents—a total of 1,446 such programs ranging from marches to ethnic music. The city "buys" the summer concert series. But again, Smith does all the advertising.

The question is: why, with the band's years of musical service, is it consistently ignored when it comes to city recognition — and money?

Mrs. Rowe puts it bluntly. She called the band's exclusion from Detroit's Bicentennial souvenir publication "deliberately selective discrimination." But she said that doesn't surprise her.

"If I had a dime for every irate fan who quoted the Biblical verse, 'A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country, and his own house,' we wouldn't have to do any other fundraising," she fumes.

A spokeswoman for the Detroit Bicentennial Commission, which published the souvenir book, said she "had no idea" why the DCB was not mentioned.

Mrs. Rowe claims two things—besides culture "snobbism"—militate against professional concert bands.

There is the "unfair" competition from the U.S. military service bands which, because they are federally funded, can book into communities at much lower rates than can private bands.

Second is a lack of financial support for concert bands from foundations like the National Endowment for the Arts.

"The Endowment will support symphonies, operas, you name it, but not concert bands. They almost act as if we didn't exist," she said.

Meantime, without outside financial help, the DCB continues to carry on its tradition of bringing music to the people of Detroit. In the summer, the free outdoor concerts attract avid music-lovers and curious passersby alike.

As Smith said, "People come to hear a concert band, not for status or because it's the 'right' place to be seen, but because they want to hear the music."

Can't Stand John-Boy

PEOPLE
By Robin Adams Sloan

Q: Somebody told me the Waltons is going off the air. Is this true? It's my favorite show. — R.P., Camden, Ohio.

A: We hear that the series will end this season. Rumor has it the main reason is that the network, the producers, and the actors on the show cannot stand working with Richard Thomas, who plays John-Boy.

Q: Ex-Beatle John Lennon and his wife, Yoko Ono, seem happy now that he can stay in the U.S., but what about John's former wife, Cynthia? — A.L., Princeton, N.J.

A: Cynthia, who is the mother of John's 14-year-old son Julian, has just remarried. After she and Lennon split in 1969, she married and divorced an Italian. Husband number three is John Twist, a 30-year-old British engineer. John, Cynthia, and her son are now living in the wilds of Wales.

Q: Do you think Jack Nicholson will marry his girl friend, Anjelica Huston? — A.L., New Haven, Conn.

A: It doesn't look that way right now. Anjelica has taken up with Ryan O'Neal again — something she did once before to spite Nicholson. Jack has been seen all over St. Tropez with a little sweetie named Winny-Lou Hardley. Doesn't bode well.

Q: Has actor James Stacy ever collected any money for that horrible accident a few years ago in which he lost an arm and leg? — S.B., Akron, Ohio.

A: Stacy won a judgment of $1.9 million from the bar which served drinks to the driver who hit him, but he hasn't collected yet. Meantime Stacy's ex-wife, Kim Darby, sued for overdue child support payments of $275 a week. Stacy got a 115-day suspended sentence on the promise that he will start making support payments for his daughter.

Q: Has that Italian film maiden, Lina Wertmuller, who did "Swept Away" and "Seven Beauties," made a fortune from her movies? — T.S., Bronx, N.Y.

A: Hardly, in fact she is quoted in an upcoming article in Town & Country magazine as saying she does "secret things to earn extra money, like Westerns and TV commercials — naturally signed with another name, generally something like Hank Walter or Jimmy Steel, because Italians believe an English name makes the product better."

Q: Have you heard that there is trouble in actress Charlotte Rampling's household? — T.T., Milwaukee, Wis.

A: Trouble is putting it mildly. When Charlotte was in Cannes for the film festival she took up with Jean Michel Jarre, the son of the composer. The two have been inseparable ever since, with Jean Michel keeping Charlotte company while she was on a film location in Nova Scotia. Meanwhile her husband, Brian Southgate, who is also her business manager was baby sitting their 3-year-old son in St. Tropez. Jarre will probably go with Charlotte to Ireland too, where she'll join Fred Astaire and Peter Ustinov for her next movie, "Taxie Maure."

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: Why did award-winning actress Valerie Perrine contemplate giving up movies after only doing four pictures? Valerie hated working on "W.C. Fields and Me" so much that she thought she'd quit the business. Valerie won't exactly blame it on the notoriously tough Rod Steiger. What she says is, "Let me put it this way: throughout the making of the movie he (Steiger) was W.C. Fields. . .and I never liked W.C. Fields."

Michigan Sites Best N-Dumps

By Associated Press

Michigan is the best place in the northeastern U.S. for burial of radioactive wastes from nuclear power plants, according to scientific reports prepared for the federal government.

One of the two reports commissioned by the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) names seven possible nuclear dump sites, all in Alpena and Presque Isle Counties — including six locations that had never before been mentioned to the public.

And, the report says, one of those previously undisclosed sites — Adams Point, on Lake Huron near Rogers City — is "much the best ... site in the northeastern U.S."

ERDA is conducting a nationwide search for places in which to bury the potentially dangerous, highly radioactive waste material. The Salina Salt Basin, a large underground salt deposit beneath Michigan, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, have been named a "prime candidate" for such a dump.

ERDA repeatedly has stressed that all five states would be studied as potential nuclear waste burial grounds.

But one of the newly disclosed reports, prepared for the government in 1972 by an expert geologist, says geological problems would rule out most of the potential sites in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and New York. That report pinpoints nine Michigan locations.

The more recent report, completed earlier this year, concentrates on Michigan. It calls seven northeastern Michigan sites "definite possibilities" for nuclear waste disposal.

The seven sites named in the newer report are Adams Point; an area just north of Alpena on Whitefish Bay; a spot in Presque Isle County's Pulawski Township; a location some four miles west of Rogers City north of Michigan highway 68; a spot near the Presque Isle Corporation's limestone operation on the Lake Huron shore; a site near Rockport; and the original dumping site named by ERDA west of Alpena.

Both reports were made by Kenneth K. Landes, professor emeritus of geology at the University of Michigan. Landes said in an interview that Michigan is absolutely the best place in the vast salt basin for the location of deep salt mine for burial of the wastes.

ERDA official Clayton D. Zerby said Landes' conclusions are not necessarily those of ERDA. He said his office does not yet have enough information to rule out any area or to designate a prime target.

Final selection of a site will come only after all the factors have been considered by a number of groups and agencies, including state governments, Zerby said.

ERDA has said it plans to locate five or six facilities for deep burial of radioactive wastes at different regions of the nation. One of these regions is the Saline salt formation. ERDA has said it would like to make its first site selection by 1978.

The wastes ERDA wants to bury are useless but highly radioactive byproducts of commerical nuclear power plants. Some can remain toxic for as long as 250,000 years.

ERDA's announcement this May that Michigan is being considered touched off a storm of protest by state residents. Gov. Milliken cut off negotiations with ERDA concerning test site drillings in the state until he is assured the state would be able to veto the location of a dump site.

But ERDA has not yet replied to Milliken's demands.

Question Price Boosts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices of two key chemicals increased early last year despite economic factors that should have caused them to level off or drop, according to the government's inflation-monitoring agency. The Council on Wage and Price Stability said Sunday there were sizable increases in the prices of chlorine and caustic soda, both used in the manufacture of thousands of consumer products. The council, noting that the chlorine and caustic soda industry has become less and less competitive in recent years, reached no firm conclusion on why prices rose. Chlorine, a basic ingredient in the manufacture of plastics, and caustic soda, which is used in making paper, textiles and soap, are joint products of the same manufacturing process

ANSWERING THE CALL: More than 60 oldtime fire engines will muster at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Sept. 25-26 for fire fighting demonstrations, contests and games of skill from days gone by. It's just one of a host of September activities in Michigan; including collegiate football, professional baseball and football, harness and thoroughbred racing, county fairs and community festivals.

September Travel Is Delightful

Footballs and the staccato beat of flashing hooves fill the air as September arrives in Michigan. With its cool nights and balmy days and less crowded highways and byways, September in Michigan is a traveler's delight. And there is so much to see and do that no other state comes close, according to the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce.

Collegiate football, professional baseball and football, harness and thoroughbred racing, county fairs and a myriad of community festivals combine to make September an "event full" month.

Traditionally, several thousand visitors and residents join forces in making the five-mile trek across the Mackinac Bridge from St. Ignace to Mackinaw City during the annual Labor Day bridge walk. Labor Day is the only day of the year when it is possible to walk between Michigan's two peninsulas.

Rapidly gaining in popularity among weekend travelers is the Detroit Ethnic Festival program. The 1976 season closes this month offering the cultures and costumes of the Latin American Festival, Sept. 3-6; the Mexican Festival, Sept. 10-12; and the International Festival, Sept. 17-19.

If you follow the fairs, Michigan has several to offer beginning with the Oceana County Fair, Hart, Sept. 2-6; followed closely by the Upper Peninsula's Chippewa County 4-H/FFA Fair, Kinross, and Dickinson County Fair, Norway, both Sept. 3-6. And after that the Vassar Fair, Vassar, Sept. 6-11; Saline Community Fair, Saline, Sept. 7-11; and Allegan County Fair, Allegan, Sept. 13-18; with still more to come — the Old Town Fair, Mackinac Island, Sept. 11-12; Saginaw Fair, Saginaw, Sept. 11-18; St. Joseph County Grange Fair, Centreville, Sept. 19-25; and Hillsdale County Agricultural Fair, Hillsdale, Sept. 26-Oct. 2.

A newcomer to the September scene is the antique Fire Apparatus Muster at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Sept. 25-26. Once a part of the village harvest celebration, the fire engine muster is now an event of its own. More than 60 old-time fire engines will converge for two days of firefighting contests, games of skill, races, parades and water pumping demonstrations.

On the Bicentennial front there is a Dedication of Memorials in Trout Lake, Sept. 5-6; the 13th annual Historic Home Tour, Marshall, Sept. 11-12; an Historic Home Tour in Owosso, Sept. 18-19; and a Home Tour and Festival in St. Johns, Sept. 25.

September also ushers in harvest time with its many food-oriented festivals among which are the Michigan Honey Festival, Chesaning, Sept. 9-12; Michigan State Potato Festival, Edmore, Sept. 10-12; Grape and Wine Festival, Paw Paw, Sept. 16-19; Four Flags Area Apple Festival, Niles, Sept. 23-26; and the Apple Festival in Freeland, Sept. 24-26.

For a complete list of all the events highlighting the September calendar, write for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events to the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce Lansing 48913, or call TOLL FREE in Michigan 800-292-2520; from out-of-state 800-248-5456.

ANSWERING THE CALL: More than 60 oldtime fire engines will muster at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Sept. 25-26 for fire fighting demonstrations, contests and games of skill from days gone by. It's just one of a host of September activities in Michigan; including collegiate football, professional baseball and football, harness and thoroughbred racing, county fairs and community festivals.

September Travel Is Delightful

Footballs and the staccato beat of flashing hooves fill the air as September arrives in Michigan. With its cool nights and balmy days and less crowded highways and byways, September in Michigan is a traveler's delight. And there is so much to see and do that no other state comes close, according to the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce.

Collegiate football, professional baseball and football, harness and thoroughbred racing, county fairs and a myriad of community festivals combine to make September an "event full" month.

Traditionally, several thousand visitors and residents join forces in making the five-mile trek across the Mackinac Bridge from St. Ignace to Mackinaw City during the annual Labor Day bridge walk. Labor Day is the only day of the year when it is possible to walk between Michigan's two peninsulas.

Rapidly gaining in popularity among weekend travelers is the Detroit Ethnic Festival program. The 1976 season closes this month offering the cultures and costumes of the Latin American Festival, Sept. 3-6; the Mexican Festival, Sept. 10-12; and the International Festival, Sept. 17-19.

If you follow the fairs, Michigan has several to offer beginning with the Oceana County Fair, Hart, Sept. 2-6; followed closely by the Upper Peninsula's Chippewa County 4-H/FFA Fair, Kinross, and Dickinson County Fair, Norway, both Sept. 3-6. And after that the Vassar Fair, Vassar, Sept. 6-11; Saline Community Fair, Saline, Sept. 7-11; and Allegan County Fair, Allegan, Sept. 10-18; with still more to come — the Old Town Fair, Mackinac Island, Sept. 11-12; Saginaw Fair, Saginaw, Sept. 11-18; St. Joseph County Grange Fair, Centreville, Sept. 19-25; and Hillsdale County Agricultural Fair, Hillsdale, Sept. 26-Oct. 2.

A newcomer to the September scene is the antique Fire Apparatus Muster at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Sept. 25-26. Once a part of the village harvest celebration, the fire engine muster is now an event of its own. More than 60 old-time fire engines will converge for two days of firefighting contests, games of skill, races, parades and water pumping demonstrations.

On the Bicentennial front there is a Dedication of Memorials in Trout Lake, Sept. 5-6; the 13th annual Historic Home Tour, Marshall, Sept. 11-12; an Historic Home Tour in Owosso, Sept. 18-19; and a Home Tour and Festival in St. Johns, Sept. 25.

September also ushers in harvest time with its many food-oriented festivals among which are the Michigan Honey Festival, Chesaning, Sept. 9-12; Michigan State Potato Festival, Edmore, Sept. 10-12; Grape and Wine Festival, Paw Paw, Sept. 16-19; Four Flags Area Apple Festival, Niles, Sept. 23-26; and the Apple Festival in Freeland, Sept. 24-26.

For a complete list of all the events highlighting the September calendar, write for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events to the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce Lansing 48913, or call TOLL FREE in Michigan 800-292-2520; from out-of-state 800-248-5456.

YOUR CLINICAL LAB TESTS — HOW ACCURATE?

Are you, a U.S. consumer, getting your dollar's worth for the $12 billion you spend each year for clinical laboratory services?

Do you know whether the lab which performs critical tests on your specimens is licensed, and if so, by whom?

Do you have any idea whether these tests are performed by qualified personnel and under conditions to assure accurate results?

Have you any notion of what these procedures cost in comparison to what you are billed?

No is probably your answer to all the questions. But the cost to you of this ignorance and apathy in terms of quality health care and health care dollars is tremendous.

To illustrate the devastating impact of substandard lab tests, in Illinois, a physician relied on a faulty blood sugar test result and prescribed the wrong medication for a diabetic patient who died. In Iowa, an improperly diagnosed RH negative baby was not given a blood transfusion and has become a severely mentally retarded child.

On top of the human suffering caused by faulty lab tests is the cost to the patient of all tests. Ten per cent of the total the U.S. spends annually on health care goes for about four billion clinical lab tests. While general health expenditures have been climbing 11 per cent a year, lab fees have been rising 15 per cent.

Yet, the error rate for all types of labs — hospital, doctor-directed independents and independents operated by non-medical directors — is distressingly high.

In testimony before a Senate committee, Dr. Martin Goldfield of New Jersey's Department of Health reported that, between 1967 and 1973, 257 participating labs in New Jersey performed simple tests for hemoglobin levels in the blood — a basis clinical procedure done in every lab. Result: 28 per cent of the labs gave acceptable results 90 per cent of the time or more; 37 per cent were within acceptable limits 80-90 per cent of the time; 17 per cent performed adequately 70-80 per cent of the time. But a full 18 per cent were adequate no more than 70 per cent of time.

Some labs in the state, accused Dr. Goldfield, "are run by individuals who aren't equipped by education or motivation."

Dr. Morris Schaeffer, former general director of labs for New York City's Health Department, assessed the clinical lab field "in simple qualitative terms. We say, yes, the quality of lab work has improved (since 1967). It has changed from horrible to bad."

It was back in 1967 that Congress enacted the Clinical Laboratories Improvement Act to upgrade lab services. The law applies, though, only to labs in interstate commerce — just 6 per cent of the nation's 14,000-15,000 clinical labs.

The states have not followed the federal government's lead. More than half have no laws governing labs; fewer than 12 states license clinical lab personnel; only five require labs to have a quality control program, employ qualified personnel, etc.

Intrastate labs are regulated if they participate in Medicare, but the standards are weak, enforcement is disgraceful. And of the 50,000-60,000 labs operated by doctors in their own offices, not one is now covered by prescribed standards.

Because of all the dangers, the Senate has passed (64 to 11) and a House Committee is about to mark up the Clinical Laboratories Improvement Act of 1976.

The legislation basically would require clinical labs (with some exceptions) to meet uniform national standards and licensing rules. The Secretary of HEW would administer the program, except in states with stringent standards. To aid states in setting up a program, the bill includes an authorization for $15 million of grants a year — from fiscal '78 to '81. A lab could receive a license only if it made available to the licensing authority a schedule of its fees — thus making it possible for the first time for you to judge costs.

The House version is more liberal in timing standards and in exempting certain types of labs.

The Ford administration opposes the bill on the grounds that (1) it duplicates present HEW efforts to regulate labs under its jurisdiction; (2) it spurs federal intervention in an area traditionally the responsibility of state and local governments.

A Ford veto is at least a strong possibility. To test this, the bill's supporters hope to submit it before October ends.

Stocks Decline Broadly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly again today after sharp losses in the two previous sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks lost about 3 points in the early going, and losers took a 2-1 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers blamed the selling partly on uneasiness over last week's incident in Korea in which two American military officers were killed.

Over the weekend the U.S. State Department rejected as unacceptable a message from North Korea calling the incident "regretful." Five ships of the U.S. Navy were reported approaching Korean waters to emphasize the American warning against attacks on its forces.

Analysts also said investors were put in a wary mood by the selling that dominated market activity late last week.

Today's early prices included Occidental Petroleum, unchanged at 18⅜; Deere, down ⅜ at 65¼; Exxon, off ½ at 51, and Gulf & Western, off ⅜ at 17⅝.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 9.81 to 974.07, its lowest close since early June. For the week the average showed a 16.12-point loss.

Declines outnumbered advances by about a 3-1 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index dropped .51 to 54.71.

Big Board volume was a sluggish 14.92 million shares.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .60 at 101.79.

South Haven Hospital

SOUTH HAVEN — Patients admitted to South Haven Community hospital over the weekend included David Brodsky, Homewood, Ill.; James Burger, Lima, Ohio; Mrs. Ruth Okerlund, Glenn; Miss Lynne Maxwell, Mrs. John Plochocki, David Pentecost, Sr., South Haven; Mrs. Natalie Perrino, Hartford.

U.P. Marsh Fire Continues

SENEY, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. Department of Interior says a three-week-old fire that has burned 1,500 acres of marshy land in the Seney National Wildlife Refuge is still not completely under control, despite the efforts of some 50 firefighters. Firefighter Jay Thietten of Des Moines, Iowa, said the fire in the eastern Upper Peninsula is moving in a southeasterly direction. Officials said the fire apparently started July 30 during a thunderstorm. Thietten said the fire was moving both underground and through marsh grass. There are no large stands of timber in the area. Firefighters were using eight high pressure pumps to push water underground to douse the blaze.

Wounded Priest Dies

DETROIT (AP) — A 69-year-old prisxied early today from wounds suffered in what police called an apparent robbery of his church's rectory last week. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas Jobs was pastor at Resurrection Church on Detroit's east side. He was found Thursday on the living room floor of the rectory. Police said he had been shot once in the face, apparently by a bandit, and the priest's wallet was missing. Police said no arrests had been made in Msgr. Jobs' death. He had been in critical condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital since he was hospitalized Thursday, officials said.

Price Index Value Limited

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The national consumer price index is to your wallet what the Dow Jones industrial average is to your stock portfolio. It may have much meaning, or it might have none at all.

Investors know that it is very unlikely that anyone would buy all 30 stocks in the industrial average and no others, and so the daily fortunes of investors usually vary widely. Some will win, others lose, regardless of the average.

And economists know that the national consumer price index, while valuable as an indicator of the economy's direction, might apply precisely to none of the geographic areas of the country.

Neither the industrial average nor the consumer price index can be used as a measure of one's own finances.

In July, for example, the price index for the nation as a whole rose 0.5 per cent, but in New York the rise was only 0.4 per cent, in Detroit 0.7 and in Los Angeles, a very inflationary 1.1 per cent.

If you examine the past 12 months you find a similarly diverse story.

Whereas the price index for the entire nation rose 5.4 per cent from July of 1975 to July of 1976, the increase was 6.7 per cent in both Chicago and Philadelphia.

The breakdown of the components also reveals vast differences.

New Yorkers during July experienced an increase in housing costs of only 0.1 per cent, or 1.2 per cent on an annual basis. But in Los Angeles, housing cost rose 1.1 per cent, or 13.2 per cent annually.

Is the consumer price index therefore meaningless? Not at all.

The CPI does have an application that is more limited than many people realize, but it is nonetheless an essential measurement of over-all direction, one that policy makers could scarcely do without.

It does, however, have rather limited application to individual decision-making because of the wide geographical range of habitation and the diverse living habits of individuals.

If the statistics are used as individual guides, then the geographical breakdowns for particular areas are much more valuable than the national averages, although still not nearly so valuable as one's own personal records.

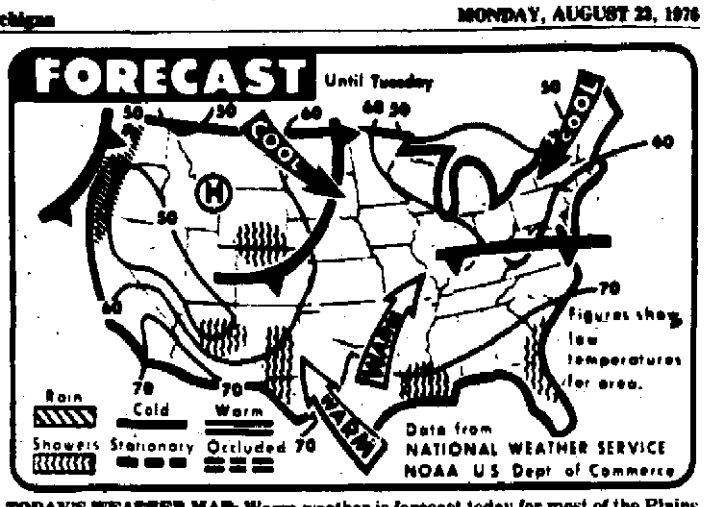

It isn't only the CPI that is often misconstrued as a guide to personal affairs rather than as a general indicator of the economy. The popularly used jobless rate is often so misused, to the chagrin of the Labor Department.

Invariably, some individuals apply the rises and falls of jobless rate as a measure of their own job security, if they have one, or a measure of their chances of finding a job, if they are unemployed.

Quite often, also, commentators automatically assume the jobless rate to be a measure of hardship, when it really isn't devised for that purpose.

The long-term jobless rate, or the rate for heads of households, of the rate for those receiving no benefits, would more accurately measure pain and suffering, because a certain percentage of the over-all jobless rate includes a great many people who are merely between jobs.

Used properly, the numbers are invaluable. Used for the wrong purpose, however, the numbers can often distort and deceive.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Warm weather is forecast today for most of the Plains and the East. Cooler weather is expected in northern New England and the Northwest. Rain is forecast for the northern half of the Pacific coast and scattered areas of showers are expected from the Southwest to the Southeast coast. (AP Wirephoto)

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Mortgage Payoff Choice May Vary

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. We are in our early 30s, both employed and owners of a new home on wh ich we made a 20 per cent down payment and gave back a $30,000, 30-year mortgage at 8½ per cent. Payments present no difficulty and we plan to stay here until retirement. We will soon receive an inheritance of $30,000. My inclination is to use about half to reduce the mortgage, but friends say not to do so.

A. I vote with your friends.

With both of you employed, I must assume you are paying a substantial amount in income taxes. The interest payment on the mortgage most likely breaks down to 5 or 6 per cent after tax deductions. The amortization payments represent a form of forced savings, which you can afford.

For those in their early 30s, I would prefer common shate investments in the hope that the next 25 or 30 years will bring higher prices for equities as the dollar loses strength.

Q. My savings certificate for $9,500 will come due soon. I'd like to use part of it to pay off my $6,200 mortgage because the amount of interest I've paid in the last five years makes me sick. I'm 57, living on Social Security and a small pension.

A. I think an argument can be made for paying off that mortgage in your case. I figure you are paying interest at the rate of 7½ per cent — which isn't much these days. But it just about matches what you are earning on your savings. So there is no gain.

Even more important, the mortgage requires monthly amortization in addition to the interest. Amortization is generally considered a "forced saving," a plus — but it is a savings program you evidently cannot afford. A mortgage-free home 15 years from now, for example, is not much cause for excitement.

I would say that giving up the interest earned by the savings in order to wipe out a debt requiring the same amount of interest PLUS amortization payments would result in your having more money to live on now — which is what counts most.

+ + +

Q. Why should I take a chance on a long-term bond yielding, say, 8¾ per cent when I can get 7½ per cent from an insured savings certificate?

A. If the additional 1¼ per cent income doesn't mean much you shouldn't.

+ + +

Q. I am a widow of 74 with some dividend-paying stocks and some U.S. gold coins. Should I retain them?

A. Undoubtedly these coins have appreciated in value (I'm assuming you've owned them for year). But, of course, they represent money invested which brings in no current income. Can you afford that luxury? Or should the coins be sold to a dealer for cash you can reinvest in preferreds or bonds bringing in 8½ or 9 per cent?

+ + +

Q. You recently discussed the pros and cons of buying 10 discount 4¼ per cent bonds at 79 vs. five 8.5 per cent bonds at a slight premium (total cost $5,212). Since the income is the same, why wouldn't the discount bonds, which promise a capital gain of $2,100, be a better buy?

A. Because you're paying $7,900 for the discounts vs. only $5,200 for the 8.8s. So that $2,100 capital gain doesn't come for nothing.

YOUR CLINICAL LAB TESTS — HOW ACCURATE?

Are you, a U.S. consumer, getting your dollar's worth for the $12 billion you spend each year for clinical laboratory services?

Do you know whether the lab which performs critical tests on your specimens is licensed, and if so, by whom?

Do you have any idea whether these tests are performed by qualified personnel and under conditions to assure accurate results?

Have you any notion of what these procedures cost in comparison to what you are billed?

No is probably your answer to all the questions. But the cost to you of this ignorance and apathy in terms of quality health care and health care dollars is tremendous.

To illustrate the devastating impact of substandard lab tests, in Illinois, a physician relied on a faulty blood sugar test result and prescribed the wrong medication for a diabetic patient who died. In Iowa, an improperly diagnosed RH negative baby was not given a blood transfusion and has become a severely mentally retarded child.

On top of the human suffering caused by faulty lab tests is the cost to the patient of all tests. Ten per cent of the total the U.S. spends annually on health care goes for about four billion clinical lab tests. While general health expenditures have been climbing 11 per cent a year, lab fees have been rising 15 per cent.

Yet, the error rate for all types of labs — hospital, doctor-directed independents and independents operated by nonmedical directors — is distressingly high.

In testimony before a Senate committee, Dr. Martin Goldfield of New Jersey's Department of Health reported that, between 1967 and 1973, 257 participating labs in New Jersey performed simple tests for hemoglobin levels in the blood — a basis clinical procedure done in every lab. Result: 28 per cent of the labs gave acceptable results 90 per cent of the time or more; 37 per cent were within acceptable limits 80-90 per cent of the time; 17 per cent performed adequately 70-80 per cent of the time. But a full 18 per cent were adequate no more than 70 per cent of time.

Some labs in the state, accused Dr. Goldfield, "are run by individuals who aren't equipped by education or motivation."

Dr. Morris Schaeffer, former general director of labs for New York City's Health Department, assessed the clinical lab field "in simple qualitative terms. We say, yes, the quality of lab work has improved (since 1967). It has changed from horrible to bad."

It was back in 1967 that Congress enacted the Clinical Laboratories Improvement Act to upgrade lab services. The law applies, though, only to labs in interstate commerce — just 6 per cent of the nations's 14,000-15,000 clinical labs.

The states have not followed the federal government's lead. More than half have no laws governing labs; fewer than 12 states license clinical lab personnel; only five require labs to have a quality control program, employ qualified personnel, etc.

Intrastate labs are regulated if they participate in Medicare, but the standards are weak, enforcement is disgraceful. And of the 50,000-80,000 labs operated by doctors in their own offices, not one is now covered by prescribed standards.

Because of all the dangers, the Senate has passed (64 to 11) and a House Committee is about to mark up the Clinical Laboratories Improvement Act of 1976.

The legislation basically would require clinical labs (with some exceptions) to meet uniform national standards and licensing rules. The Secretary of HEW would administer the program, except in states with stringent standards. To aid states in setting up a program, the bill includes an authorization for $15 million of grants a year — from fiscal '79 to '81. A lab could receive a license only if it made available to the licensing authority a schedule of its fees — thus making it possible for the first time for you to judge costs.

The House version is more liberal in timing standards and in exempting certain types of labs.

The Ford administration opposes the bill on the grounds that (1) it duplicates present HEW efforts to regulate labs under its jurisdiction; (2) it spurs federal intervention in an area traditionally the responsibility of state and local governments.

A Ford veto is at least a strong possibility. To test this, the bill's supporters hope to submit it before October ends.

Stocks Decline Broadly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly again today after sharp losses in the two previous sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks lost about 3 points in the early going, and losers took a 2-1 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers blamed the selling partly on uneasiness over last week's incident in Korea in which two American military officers were killed.

Over the weekend the U.S. State Department rejected as unacceptable a message from North Korea calling the incident "regretful." Five ships of the U.S. Navy were reported approaching Korean waters to emphasize the American warning against attacks on its forces.

Analysts also said investors were put in a ary mood by the selling that dominated market activity late last week.

Today's early prices included Occidental Petroleum, unchanged at 18⅜; Deere, down ⅜ at 65¼; Exxon, off ½ at 51, and Gulf & Western, off ⅝ at 17⅝.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 9.81 to 974.07, its lowest close since early June. For the week the average showed a 16.12-point loss.

Declines outnumbered advances by about a 3-1 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index dropped .51 to 54.71.

Big Board volume was a sluggish 14.92 million shares.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .60 at 101.79.

U.P. Marsh Fire Continues

SENEY, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. Department of Interior says a three-week-old fire that has burned 1,500 acres of marshy land in the Seney National Wildlife Refuge is still not completely under control, despite the efforts of some 50 firefighters. Firefighter Jay Thietten of Des Moines, Iowa, said the fire in the eastern Upper Peninsula is moving in a southeasterly direction. Officials said the fire apparently started July 30 during a thunderstorm. Thietten said the fire was moving both underground and through marsh grass. There are no large stands of timber in the area. Firefighters were using eight high pressure pumps to push water underground to douse the blaze.

Wounded Priest Dies

DETROIT (AP) — A 69-year-old prisxied early today from wounds suffered in what police called an apparent robbery of his church's rectory last week. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas Jobs was pastor at Resurrection Church on Detroit's east side. He was found Thursday on the living room floor of the rectory. Police said he had been shot once in the face, apparently by a bandit, and the priest's wallet was missing. Police said no arrests had been made in Msgr. Jobs' death. He had been in critical condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital since he was hospitalized Thursday, officials said.

Price Index Value Limited

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The national consumer price index is to your wallet what the Dow Jones industrial average is to your stock portfolio. It may have much meaning, or it might have none at all.

Investors know that it is very unlikely that anyone would buy all 30 stocks in the industrial average and no others, and so the daily fortunes of investors usually vary widely. Some will win, others lose, regardless of the average.

And economists know that the national consumer price index, while valuable as an indicator of the economy's direction, might apply precisely to none of the geographic areas of the country.

Neither the industrial average nor the consumer price index can be used as a measure of one's own finances.

In July, for example, the price index for the nation as a whole rose 0.5 per cent, but in New York the rise was only 0.4 per cent, in Detroit 0.7 and in Los Angeles, a very inflationary 1.1 per cent.

If you examine the past 12 months you find a similarly diverse story.

Whereas the price index for the entire nation rose 5.4 per cent from July of 1975 to July of 1976, the increase was 6.7 per cent in both Chicago and Philadelphia.

The breakdown of the components also reveals vast differences.

New Yorkers during July experienced an increase in housing costs of only 0.1 per cent, or 1.2 per cent on an annual basis. But in Los Angeles, housing cost rose 1.1 per cent, or 13.2 per cent annually.

Is the consumer price index therefore meaningless? Not at all.

The CPI does have an application that is more limited than many people realize, but it is nonetheless an essential measurement of over-all direction, one that policy makers could scarcely do without.

It does, however, have rather limited application to individual decision-making because of the wide geographical range of habitation and the diverse living habits of individuals.

If the statistics are used as individual guides, then the geographical breakdowns for particular areas are much more valuable than the national averages, although still not nearly so valuable as one's own personal records.

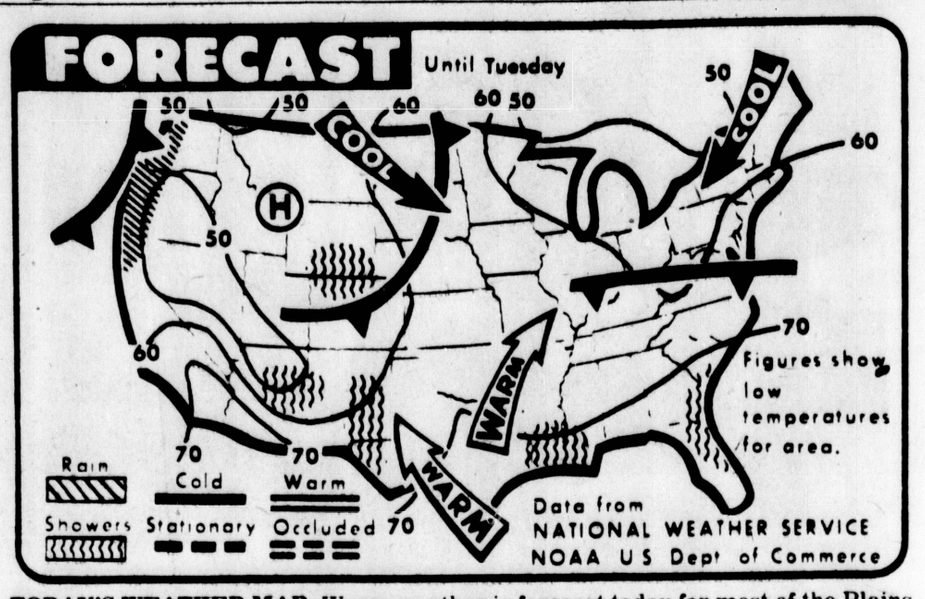

It isn't only the CPI that is often misconstrued as a guide to personal affairs rather than as a general indicator of the economy. The popularly used jobless rate is often so misused, to the chagrin of the Labor Department.

Invariably, some individuals apply the rises and falls of jobless rate as a measure of their own job security, if they have one, or a measure of their chances of finding a job, if they are unemployed.

Quite often, also, commentators automatically assume the jobless rate to be a measure of hardship, when it really isn't devised for that purpose.

The long-term jobless rate, or the rate for heads of households, or the rate for those receiving no benefits, would more accurately measure pain and suffering, because a certain percentage of the over-all jobless rate includes a great many people who are merely between jobs.

Used properly, the numbers are invaluable. Used for the wrong purpose, however, the numbers can often distort and deceive.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Warm weather is forecast today for most of the Plains and the East. Cooler weather is expected in northern New England and the Northwest. Rain is forecast for the northern half of the Pacific coast and scattered areas of showers are expected from the Southwest to the Southeast coast. (AP Wirephoto)

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Mortgage Payoff Choice May Vary

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. We are in our early 30s, both employed and owners of a new home on wh bh we made a 30 per cent down payment and gave back a $30,000, 30-year mortgage at 8½ per cent. Payments present no difficulty and we plan to stay here until retirement. We will soon receive an inheritance of $30,000. My inclination is to use about half to reduce the mortgage, but friends say not to do so.

A. I vote with your friends.

With both of you employed, I must assume you are paying a substantial amount in income taxes. The interest payment on the mortgage most likely breaks down to 5 or 6 per cent after tax deductions. The amortization payments represent a form of forced savings, which you can afford.

For those in their early 30s, I would prefer common share investments in the hope that the next 25 or 30 years will bring higher prices for equities as the dollar loses strength.

Your money should be in equities, not in mortgages — even your own.

+ + +

Q. My savings certificate for $9,500 will come due soon. I'd like to use part of it to pay off my $6,290 mortgage because the amount of interest I've paid in the last five years makes me sick. I'm 67, living on Social Security and a small pension.

A. I think an argument can be made for paying off that mortgage in your case. I figure you are paying interest at the rate of 7½ per cent — which isn't much these days. But it just about matches what you are earning on your savings. So there is no gain.

Even more important, the mortgage requires monthly amortization in addition to the interest. Amortization is generally considered a "forced saving," a plus — but it is a savings program you evidently cannot afford. A mortgage-free home 15 years from now, for example, is not much cause for excitement.

I would say that giving up the interest earned by the savings in order to wipe out a debt requiring the same amount of interest PLUS amortization payments would result in your having more money to live on now — which is what counts most.

+ + +

Q. Why should I take a chance on a long-term bond yielding, say, 8¾ per cent when I can get 7½ per cent from an insured savings certificate?

A. If the additional 1¼ per cent income doesn't mean much you shouldn't.

+ + +

Q. I am a widow of 74 with some dividend-paying stocks and some U.S. gold coins. Should I retain them?

A. Undoubtedly these coins have appeciated in value (I'm assuming you've owned them for year). But, of course, they represent money invested which brings in no current income. Can you afford that luxury? Or should the coins be sold to a dealer for cash you can reinvest in preferreds or bonds bringing in 8½ or 9 per cent?

+ + +

Q. You recently discussed the pros and cons of buying 10 discount 4⅜ per cent bonds at 79 vs. five 8.8 per cent bonds at a slight premium (total cost $5,212). Since the income is the same, why wouldn't the discount bonds, which promise a capital gain of $2,100, be a better buy?

A. Because you're paying $7,900 for the discounts vs. only $5,200 for the 8.8s. So that $2,100 capital gain doesn't come for nothing.

FIRES DESTROY RESTAURANT: New Buffalo township firemen combat fire at Depot Restaurant and Lounge, south of New Buffalo on US-12 near Indiana state line, yesterday afternoon in second of two fires in same day that struck building. Berrien Restaurant Ripped By 2 Fires

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

NEW BUFFALO — Two fires destroyed the Depot Restaurant and Lounge south of here yesterday, causing an estimated loss of $100,000 to the structure and its contents.

State police detectives from Benton Harbor said this morning that the restaurant, located on US-12 near the Michigan-Indiana state line, was gutted by the two fires.

The first blaze, apparently caused by spontaneous combustion, was discovered shortly before 6 a.m. by troopers from New Buffalo on patrol, detectives said. The second fire, of undetermined origin, flared up about noon, police added.

Troopers Dewayne Hellenga and Don Beck reported they were driving by the restaurant when they noticed smoke coming from vent fans on the roof of the one-story building at 5:55 a.m.

New Buffalo township firemen were called and had doused the fire in less than two hours, police said. The first fire broke out in the basement of the building, which had been painted last week, and was apparently caused by spontaneous combustion of the paint fumes, firemen said.

About noon, firemen were called back to the restaurant and battled the fire until about 4 p.m., police said. Cause of the second fire remains under investigation, police said.

Police identified the owner of the restaurant as Mike Budak of Michigan City, Ind. Budak, who has owned the business for about one year, told police the building and its contents were insured for $100,000.

The restaurant featured a railroad theme, and many railroading items were destroyed in the fire, police said.

RESTAURANT OWNER: Mike Budak, Michigan City, Ind., owner of Depot Restaurant and Lounge, south of New Buffalo, removes two lanterns from building yesterday afternoon after second of two fires in same day.

Vandals Harm Fish In Youth Fair Tent

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Two valuable tropical fish were injured and seven fish tanks were broken in a display tent at the Berrien county youth fairgrounds early Sunday morning, according to police here.

Berrien Springs village-Oronoko township police said the tanks, owned by Charles McLeod and James Vail, both of Berrien Springs, were either pushed or kicked over from the outside of the tent.

McLeod estimated damaged to the broken tanks and equipment, including heaters and pumps, at $800. Two tropical fish, a piranha and a "hybrid Tiger Oscar," valued at $150 each, were cut by broken glass and may die, he said.

The piranha (McLeod said it is illegal to keep the fish in 44 states, excluding Michigan) was on loan from Tropacquarium of Berrien Springs and was being treated by its owners, McLeod said. The hybrid Tiger Oscar is owned by McLeod and Vail and was being treated by an area veterinarian, he said.

McLeod said he was called to the fairgrounds after water was spotted coming from under the tent about 12:45 a.m. Sunday. Police said it was unkown how long the tanks had been knocked over before McLeod was called.

Breakin Tried At New Buffalo Post

NEW BUFFALO — State police here had investigated an attempted breaking and entering of their own office Sunday morning.

Police reported the attempted break-in was discovered shortly after 6 a.m. when a window to the front office of the post was found open. A screen had been removed and a window pushed partially open, but the building was not entered, police said. The office here is not staffed on a 24-hour basis since police services were consolidated with the state police post at Benton Harbor.

Avert Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's 1,800 transit workers voted Sunday night to accept a wage and fringe benefit offer, thereby averting a threatened strike that could have shut down other city services as well.

The new contract raises the hourly wage for bus, trolley and cable car drivers to $7.46 an hour — 57 cents above the old wage level.

PSC Won't Rehear Rate Hike For Bell

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Public Service Commission today refused to reconsider an earlier decision granting Michigan Bell a $52.2 million rate increase, despite claims that mathematical errors by the PSC inflated the rate hike by several million dollars.

The commission said any mathematical errors made by its staff in computing the rate increase could be corrected by simply amending its decision. It said there was no need to review the evidence in the case.

Commissioner Lenton Sculthorp asked the PSC's staff to review its computations on the case. He said if any errors the staff found had a "substantial effect" on the rates customers pay, the rate should be corrected by the commission.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley had asked for the PSC to rehear evidence in the case which the PSC decided May 4. Kelley claimed the commission's rate decision should have been several million dollars less than it was.

The Michigan Independent Communications Association and the Michigan Telephone Answering Service Association also had asked the PSC to reopen the case, but those requests were denied.

In another decision today, the PSC ruled that one of its own administrative law judges had erred by sharply limiting the amount of time that opponents of a Detroit Edison rate request could cross-examine company witnesses. The commission said law Judge Arnold Tannen made an arbitrary and improper decision July 21 when he limited cross-examination time to half of that interveners had estimated they would need.

The decision means cross-examination of Edison officials in their request for $130 million in higher rates will probably last another few weeks. Under Tannen's order, questioning would have ended this week.

Kelley's office had challenged Tannen's decision and got a court order two weeks ago preventing him from enforcing it until today, when a second court hearing was to be held.

PSC Chairman Daniel Demlow said the conflict in this situation arose because parties in any rate case have rights to have their say and question witnesses, but that the legislature had made it clear it wanted the PSC to decide rate cases within nine months.

But Commissioner Sculthorp said, "I don't think the legislature intended that the rights of the parties should be sacrificed for the nine-month deadline."

American Legion Club Damaged By Fire At Berrien Springs

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Fire early this morning badly damaged the basement lounge area of the American Legion hall here. No one was injured in the blaze as no one was in the building at the time, firemen said. The fire was spotted by Berrien Springs-Oronoko township police, while on patrol around 6:30 a.m. Firemen from the Berrien Springs-Oronoko township fire department, said cause of the blaze has not been determined, but it started in the basement lounge area. The top (main) floor of the building received smoke and water damage. No estimate of damage was available this morning. Quick action by firemen saved the structure from total destruction, according to area residents. The Legion hall is located at 112 North Bluff street, overlooking the St. Joseph river.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Eau Claire Trio Dodge Rifle Fire

Berrien sheriff's deputies said an Eau Claire man was arrested early Sunday after three men told deputies a man had pointed a rifle at them and allegedly fired three shots. No one was injured, deputies reported.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was Jim D. Logue, 47, Main street, Eau Claire. The three men were identified as Charles Ferney, 21; Marc LaVanway, 21, and Robert Bell, 21, all of Eau Claire.

They said the incident occurred about 5:25 a.m. after they asked a man for cigerettes. They reported the man went to a second floor apartment and came out with a gun as they were climbing the stairs. They said they ran and heard three shots fired a short time later.

Benton Harbor police said two young Benton township men were arrested as they allegedly were climbing through a hole in the rear of a building early today when police responded to a silent burglar alarm.

Police said they were called to Mike Young Enterprises, 1101 Pipestone street, by the alarm about 12:05 a.m. Police said they observed a young man climbing through a small hole at the rear of the building. Another was just inside, police reported. Nothing was reported missing from the building.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on charges of breaking and entering were Donald Lee Aldrich, 17, of 827 North Euclid avenue, and Norman Lee Doyle, 17, of 580 Catherman street.

Berrien Sheriff's Deputy Irvin Palmer, a guard at the county jail, reported he was assaulted Saturday about 8 p.m. by a man he was booking into the jail.

Palmer reported he was struck in the face by Robin W. Hardy, 19, of 4272 Arrowwood, Benton township. Hardy was being booked into the jail on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants after being brought in by Benton township police.

A copy of Palmer's report of the incident was to be sent to the prosecutor's office for determination if further charges would be filed against Hardy.

A Benton Harbor woman told Benton township police Sunday her purse containing about $90 in cash was snatched by a man as she was walking to her car at Fairplain Plaza.

Rose Smith, 770 Colfax avenue, was unhurt in the 11:25 a.m. incident, police said. She told police the man got into a nearby car and drove away. Police reported a similar car was stopped a short time later, but no purse was found and the driver released.

Benton Harbor police reported they arrested Arthur Mosley, 24, of 733 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor, Saturday on a warrant charging armed robbery.

Mosley, who was lodged in the county jail, was charged with robbing Dennis Peek and John Connell of money while armed with a shotgun. The alleged theft occurred July 28 in the 400 block of Frank street in Benton Harbor.

Seven thefts were reported to Twin Cities area police over the weekend in which cash and goods valued at nearly $3,000 were reported stolen.

A portable car starter unit, valued at $1,759, was reported stolen from a van owned by Hasses' Standard service station, 1151 Pipestone road. Benton township police said the unit is used to start cars and trucks with dead batteries. Also taken from the van was a 12-volt battery.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said a $150 CB radio was reported stolen from the vehicle of Elmer L. Curry, Watervliet, while it was parked at the Berrien County Youth fair.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were:

—A portable television, tape player and several packages of meat, all valued at $133, from the apartment of Sandra Williams, 418 Lincoln street.

—Eleven recorded tapes and tape box, valued at $76, from the car of Larry Regan, 1004 Willow drive.

Tony Albert, 19, of 655 Broadway, Benton Harbor, was treated and released from Mercy hospital Saturday after he was punched in the mouth and cut on the arm with a knife, Benton Harbor police reported. Albert told police he was walking in the 700 block of Broadway when a man came up for no reason and hit him and cut him about 11:30 a.m.

Charles Siczek, 33, of 5525 Golden Crest, Stevensville, reported to Berrien sheriff's deputies that several bicycle tires and two rear tires on his 1973 Corvette car were slashed between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. Friday. The tires were inside his garage. The garage was not locked at the time..

Six Are Hurt In Crashes

Four people were injured Saturday about 2 p.m. in a two-car collision in Bainbridge township, according to Berrien sheriff's deputies. Another two persons were hurt in a smashup Sunday in Berrien township.

The Saturday accident occurred on M-140 near Dannefiel road when an auto driven by Charles H. Winschel, 22, Kalamazoo, collided with the rear of a car driven by Ruth M. Arnett, 24, Niles. The Arnett auto was waiting for another vehicle in front of it to turn, police reported.

Treated and released from Watervliet Community hospital along with Winschel were Diana McKay, 24, Debbie Renard, 20, both of Kalamazoo and passengers in the Winschel auto; and James Arnett, 34, Niles, a passenger in the Arnett auto.

Deputies reported a ticket for failure to stop in an assured, clear distance ahead was issued to Winschel.

In another two-car collision, Berrien deputies said two people were injured Sunday and a Florida man was booked at the Berrien County jail on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Deputies said the collision occurred on Dean's Hill road west of Huckleberry road, Berrien township, about 4:10 p.m.

Released after treatment at Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, was a passenger in one car, Phyllis Gandy, 17, route 1, Tower Hill road, Sawyer. The car she was in was driven by Gaye Diane Gandy, 41, of the same address. She was unhurt.

Booked at the Berrien jail after treatment at Berrien General was Louis C. Lopez, 18, Apopka, Fla., identified as the driver of the other car. Deputies said he was also ticketed for failure to stop in an assured, clear distance and for having no operator's license.

Tractor Turns Over; Pins Driver

WATERVLIET — An Illinois man apparently escaped serious injury Saturday night when the tractor he was driving flipped over and pinned him under the steering wheel for about 20 minutes.

The driver, Rudolph Urbani, 43, Dolton, Ill., was treated for bruises and released at Watervliet Community hospital following the 7:20 p.m. accident, according to Watervliet police.

Officers said one of the rear wheels on Urbani's tractor caught in a hole on a hillside, causing the vehicle to flip over on Urbani, pinning him at the waist. Rescuers had to wait about 20 minutes for a tow truck before the tractor could be lifted from the man.

Officers said Urbani had been clearing brush on property owned by Robert Ashton, route 3, Forest Beach road, Watervliet, when the accident occurred.

FIRES DESTROY RESTAURANT: New Buffalo township firemen combat fire at Depot Restaurant and Lounge, south of New Buffalo on US-12 near Indiana state line, yesterday afternoon in second of two fires in same day that struck building. Berrien Restaurant Ripped By 2 Fires

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

NEW BUFFALO — Two fires destroyed the Depot Restaurant and Lounge south of here yesterday, causing an estimated loss of $100,000 to the structure and its contents.

State police detectives from Benton Harbor said this morning that the restaurant, located on US-12 near the Michigan-Indiana state line, was gutted by the two fires.

The first blaze, apparently caused by spontaneous combustion, was discovered shortly before 6 a.m. by troopers from New Buffalo on patrol, detectives said. The second fire, of undetermined origin, flared up about noon, police added.

Troopers Dewayne Hellenga and Don Beck reported they were driving by the reataurant when they noticed smoke coming from vent fans on the roof of the one-story building at 5:55 a.m.

New Buffalo township firemen were called and had doused the fire in less than two hours, police said. The first fire broke out in the basement of the building, which had been painted last week, and was apparently caused by spontaneous combustion of the paint fumes, firemen said.

About noon, firemen were called back to the restaurant and battled the fire until about 4 p.m., police said. Cause of the second fire remains under investigation, police said.

Police identified the owner of the restaurant as Mike Budak of Michigan City, Ind. Budak, who has owned the business for about one year, told police the building and its contents were insured for $100,000.

The restaurant featured a railroad theme, and many railroading items were destroyed in the fire, police said.

RESTAURANT OWNER: Mike Budak, Michigan City, Ind., owner of Depot Restaurant and Lounge, south of New Buffalo, removes two lanterns from building yesterday afternoon after second of two fires in same day.

Vandals Harm Fish In Youth Fair Tent

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Two valuable tropical fish were injured and seven fish tanks were broken in a display tent at the Berrien county youth fairgrounds early Sunday morning, according to police here.

Berrien Springs village-Oronoko township police said the tanks, owned by Charles McLeod and James Vail, both of Berrien Springs, were either pushed or kicked over from the outside of the tent.

McLeod estimated damaged to the broken tanks and equipment, including heaters and pumps, at $600. Two tropical fish, a piranha and a "hybrid Tiger Oscar," valued at $150 each, were cut by broken glass and may die, he said.

The piranha (McLeod said it is illegal to keep the fish in 44 states, excluding Michigan) was on loan from Tropacquarium of Berrien Springs and was being treated by its owners, McLeod said. The hybrid Tiger Oscar is owned by McLeod and Vail and was being treated by an area veterinarian, he said.

McLeod said he was called to the fairgrounds after water was spotted coming from under the tent about 12:45 a.m. Sunday. Police said it was unkown how long the tanks had been knocked over before McLeod was called.

Breakin Tried At New Buffalo Post

NEW BUFFALO — State police here had investigated an attempted breaking and entering of their own office Sunday morning.

Police reported the attempted break-in was discovered shortly after 6 a.m. when a window to the front office of the post was found open. A screen had been removed and a window pushed partially open, but the building was not entered, police said. The office here is not staffed on a 24-hour basis since police services were consolidated with the state police post at Benton Harbor.

Avert Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's 1,800 transit workers voted Sunday night to accept a wage and fringe benefit offer, thereby averting a threatened strike that could have shut down other city services as well.

The new contract raises the hourly wage for bus, trolley and cable car drivers to $7.46 an hour — 57 cents above the old wage level.

PSC Won't Rehear Rate Hike For Bell

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Public Service Commission today refused to reconsider an earlier decision granting Michigan Bell a $52.2 million rate increase, despite claims that mathematical errors by the PSC inflated the rate hike by several million dollars.

The commission said any mathematical errors made by its staff in computing the rate increase could be corrected by simply amending its decision. It said there was no need to review the evidence in the case.

Commissioner Lenton Sculthorp asked the PSC's staff to review its computations on the case. He said if any errors the staff found had a "substantial effect" on the rates customers pay, the rate should be corrected by the commission.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley had asked for the PSC to rehear evidence in the case which the PSC decided May 4. Kelley claimed the commission's rate decision should have been several million dollars less than it was.

The Michigan Independent Communications Association and the Michigan Telephone Answering Service Association also had asked the PSC to reopen the case, but those requests were denied.

In another decision today, the PSC ruled that one of its own administrative law judges had erred by sharply limiting the amount of time that opponents of a Detroit Edison rate request could cross-examine company witnesses. The commission said law Judge Arnold Tannen made an arbitrary and improper decision July 21 when he limited cross-examination time to half of that interveners had estimated they would need.

The decision means cross-examination of Edison officials in their request for $130 million in higher rates will probably last another few weeks. Under Tannen's order, questioning would have ended this week.

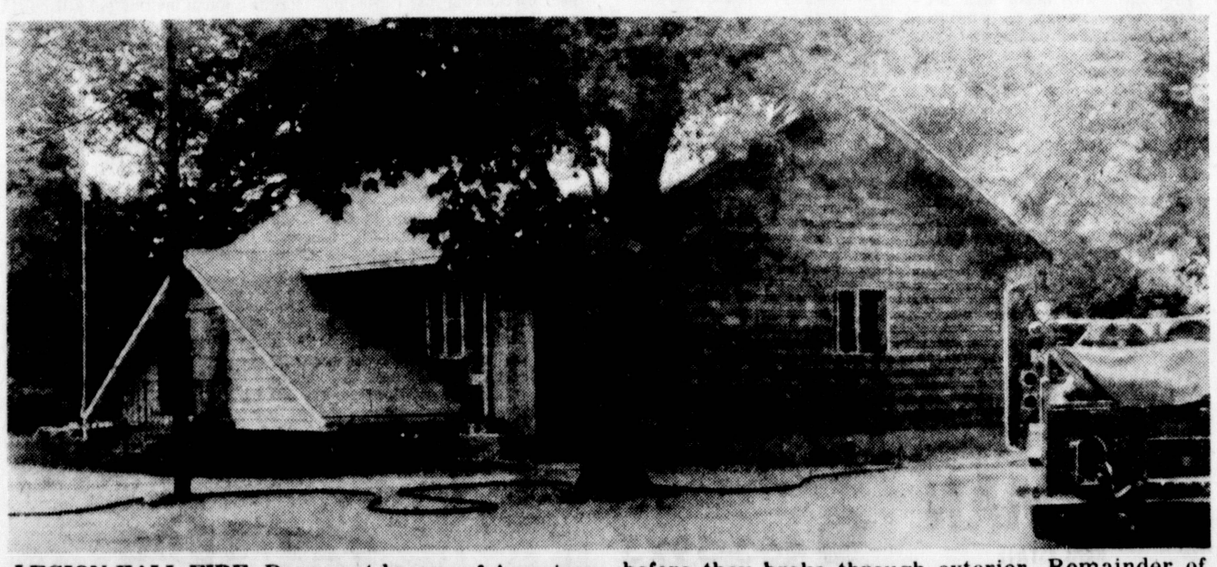

Kelley's office had challenged Tannen's decision and got a court order two weeks ago preventing him from enforcing it until today, when a second court hearing was to be held.

PSC Chairman Daniel Demlow said the conflict in this situation arose because parties in any rate case have rights to have their say and question witnesses, but that the legislature had made it clear it wanted the PSC to decide rate cases within nine months.

But Commissioner Sculthorp said, "I don't think the legislature intended that the rights of the parties should be sacrificed for the nine-month deadline."

American Legion Club Damaged By Fire At Berrien Springs

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Fire early this morning badly damaged the basement lounge area of the American Legion hall here. No one was injured in the blaze as no one was in the building at the time, firemen said. The fire was spotted by Berrien Springs-Oronoko township police, while on patrol around 6:30 a.m. Firemen from the Berrien Springs-Oronoko township fire department, said cause of the blaze has not been determined, but it started in the basement lounge area. The top (main) floor of the building received smoke and water damage. No estimate of damage was available this morning. Quick action by firemen saved the structure from total destruction, according to area residents. The Legion hall is located at 112 North Bluff street, overlooking the St. Joseph river.

LEGION HALL FIRE: Basement lounge of American Legion hall, 112 North Bluff street, Berrien Springs, was damaged by fire early this morning. Berrien Springs-Oronoko township firemen doused flames before they broke through exterior. Remainder of interior, however, was damaged by smoke and water. (Staff photo)

POLICE ROUNDUP

Eau Claire Trio Dodge Rifle Fire

Berrien sheriff's deputies said an Eau Claire man was arrested early Sunday after three men told deputies a man had pointed a rifle at them and allegedly fired three shots. No one was injured, deputies reported.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was Jim D. Logue, 47, Main street, Eau Claire. The three men were identified as Charles Ferney, 21; Marc LaVanway, 21, and Robert Bell, 21, all of Eau Claire.

They said the incident occurred about 5:25 a.m. after they asked a man for cigerettes. They reported the man went to a second floor apartment and came out with a gun as they were climbing the stairs. They said they ran and heard three shots fired a short time later.

Benton Harbor police said two young Benton township men were arrested as they allegedly were climbing through a hole in the rear of a building early today when police responded to a silent burglar alarm.

Police said they were called to Mike Young Enterprises, 1101 Pipestone street, by the alarm about 12:05 a.m. Police said they observed a young man climbing through a small hole at the rear of the building. Another was just inside, police reported. Nothing was reported missing from the building.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on charges of breaking and entering were Donald Lee Aldrich, 17, of 827 North Euclid avenue, and Norman Lee Doyle, 17, of 580 Catherman street.

Berrien Sheriff's Deputy Irvin Palmer, a guard at the county jail, reported he was assaulted Saturday about 8 p.m. by a man he was booking into the jail.

Palmer reported he was struck in the face by Robin W. Hardy, 19, of 4272 Arrowwood, Benton township. Hardy was being booked into the jail on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants after being brought in by Benton township police.

A copy of Palmer's report of the incident was to be sent to the prosecutor's office for determination if further charges would be filed against Hardy.

A Benton Harbor woman told Benton township police Sunday her purse containing about $90 in cash was snatched by a man as she was walking to her car at Fairplain Plaza.

Rose Smith, 770 Colfax avenue, was unhurt in the 11:25 a.m. incident, police said. She told police the man got into a nearby car and drove away. Police reported a similar car was stopped a short time later, but no purse was found and the driver released.

Benton Harbor police reported they arrested Arthur Mosley, 24, of 733 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor, Saturday on a warrant charging armed robbery.

Mosley, who was lodged in the county jail, was charged with roboing Dennis Peek and John Connell of money while armed with a shotgun. The alleged theft occurred July 28 in the 400 block of Frank street in Benton Harbor.

Seven thefts were reported to Twin Cities area police over the weekend in which cash and goods valued at nearly $3,000 were reported stolen.

A portable car starter unit, valued at $1,759, was reported stolen from a van owned by Hasses' Standard service station, 1151 Pipestone road. Benton township police said the unit is used to start cars and trucks with dead batteries. Also taken from the van was a 12-volt battery.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said a $150 CB radio was reported stolen from the vehicle of Elmer L. Curry, Watervliet, while it was parked at the Berrien County Youth fair.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were:

—A portable television, tape player and several packages of meat, all valued at $133, from the apartment of Sandra Williams, 418 Lincoln street.

—A $150 CB radio from the car of Eddie Brumfield, 679 Lavette street.

Thefts reported to St. Joseph township police were:

—A 10-speed boy's bicycle, $75 in cash, several fishing lures and a portable radio, all valued at about $255, from Sportsman's Repair shop, 306 West Empire avenue.

—A CB radio, basketball and 10 recorded tapes, all valued at $209, from the car of Bill Nemitz, 994 Willow drive.

—Eleven recorded tapes and tape box, valued at $76, from the car of Larry Regan, 1004 Willow drive.

Tony Albert, 19, of 655 Broadway, Benton Harbor, was treated and released from Mercy hospital Saturday after he was punched in the mouth and cut on the arm with a knife, Benton Harbor police reported. Albert told police he was walking in the 700 block of Broadway when a man came up for no reason and hit him and cut him about 11:30 a.m.

Charles Siczek, 33, of 5525 Golden Crest, Stevensville, reported to Berrien sheriff's deputies that several bicycle tires and two rear tires on his 1973 Corvette car were slashed between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. Friday. The tires were inside his garage. The garage was not locked at the time.

Six Are Hurt In Crashes

Four people were injured Saturday about 2 p.m. in a two-car collision in Bainbridge township, according to Berrien sheriff's deputies. Another two persons were hurt in a smashup Sunday in Berrien township.

The Saturday accident occurred on M-140 near Danneffel road when an auto driven by Charles H. Winschel, 22, Kalamazoo, collided with the rear of a car driven by Ruth M. Arnett, 24, Niles. The Arnett auto was waiting for another vehicle in front of it to turn, police reported.

Treated and released from Watervliet Community hospital along with Winschel were Diana McKay, 24, Debbie Renard, 20, both of Kalamazoo and passengers in the Winschel auto; and James Arnett, 34, Niles, a passenger in the Arnett auto.

Deputies reported a ticket for failure to stop in an assured, clear distance ahead was issued to Winschel.

In another two-car collision, Berrien deputies said two people were injured Sunday and a Florida man was booked at the Berrien County jail on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Deputies said the collision occurred on Dean's Hill road west of Huckleberry road, Berrien township, about 4:10 p.m.

Released after treatment at Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, was a passenger in one car, Phyllis Gandy, 77, route 1, Tower Hill road, Sawyer. The car she was in was driven by Gaye Diane Gandy, 41, of the same address. She was unhurt.

Booked at the Berrien jail after treatment at Berrien General was Louis C. Lopez, 18, Apopka, Fla., identified as the driver of the other car. Deputies said he was also ticketed for failure to stop in an assured, clear distance and for having no operator's license.

Tractor Turns Over; Pins Driver

WATERVLIET — An Illinois man apparently escaped serious injury Saturday night when the tractor he was driving flipped over and pinned him under the steering wheel for about 20 minutes.

The driver, Rudolph Urbani, 43, Dolton, Ill., was treated for bruises and released at Watervliet Community hospital following the 7:20 p.m. accident, according to Watervliet police.

Officers said one of the rear wheels on Urbani's tractor caught in a hole on a hillside, causing the vehicle to flip over on Urbani, pinning him at the waist. Rescuers had to wait about 20 minutes for a tow truck before the tractor could be lifted from the man.

Officers said Urbani had been clearing brush on property owned by Robert Ashton, route 3, Forest Beach road, Watervliet, when the accident occurred.

England Exports Commercial Television To U.S.

By M.MALCOLM N. CARTER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Long used for advertising soaps and sedans, television now begins advertisements for itself and on itself.

The advertisements come from the Britons who brought us "The World at War," "Jenny" and "Destination America." On Sept. 6-10, they will take over all the nighttime programing of the independent New York station, WOR, furnishing roughly 47 hours of shows, to prove that Americans will like them and stations should air them.

Already, independent stations in the 10 next biggest markets — including Chicago, Los Angeles, Washington and Boston — have made inquiries. A success here would mean similar broadcasts elsewhere.

"It's difficult to say what we'll do in the ratings because it is a totally unique situation," says Nigel Harrop, marketing supervisor of Thames Television, the "advertiser."

One of England's leading commercial television stations, Thames TV syndicates in 87 countries some of the 2,000 hours of programs it produces. It's noncommercial counterpart is the BBC, of "Upstairs, Downstairs" and other fame.

Not only does Thames TV want to bring the screening room into the living room of station owners and potential advertisers, it also hopes to demonstrate that there is a demand for its programs. And a glimpse of the week's shows yields the promise of huge demand.

A standout is the award-winning, eye-opening autobiography of a homosexual who has braved life "out of the closet" for decades. In a startlingly frank show for U.S. television, John Hurt gives a touching, nonpareil performance remarkable for its balance and tone as Quentin Crisp in "The Naked Civil Servant."

Among the spy programs, police yarns, situation comedies, variety shows and low-camp horror stories, likely rating winners include "The Benny Hill Show," "Rock Follies" and "New York-London."

Benny Hill is a comic who appears on but six TV specials a year, usually drawing 75 per cent of the audience. He declines nightclub or other personal appearances for fear of over-exposure, writes his own material and rarely plays fewer than a dozen roles during a show.

"New York-London" features Dick Cavett and British news personality Eamonn Andrews providing news and interviews in a magazine format "to introduce New Yorkers to London."

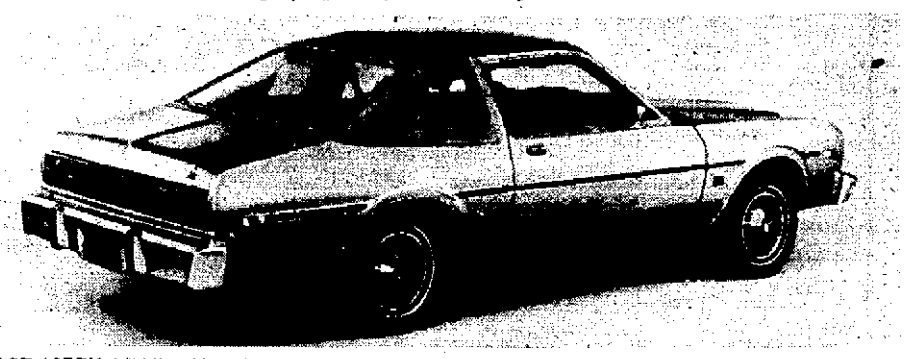

A sitcom being adapted as a network pilot here, "Rock Follies" chronicles the success of three failing actresses who become rock stars. Ironically, life imitated art — their songs have become hits.

Neither Thames TV nor WOR will disclose terms of the purchase of an entire week's nighttime programing. But Robert Williamson, WOR's vice president and general manager, says it was "a good deal."

Saying that the total costs amount to something less than $1 million, Harrop adds that Thames has sold about 70 per cent of the commercial time and that he expects a sellout to American and British advertisers alike. Of course, London is a long way to go to shop, but Britain's soft-sell ads are themselves entertainment on these shores.

"Everybody was familiar with the BBC," says Williamson, noting that WOR cleared the scheme with the Federal Communications Commission beforehand. "But nobody knows anything about Thames."

Now they will, and they can be glad.

DODGE ASPEN: Middle-of-line Dodge Aspen Custom two-door is typical of new family of small cars that set smashing sales trends with its 1976 introduction and offers full model lineup again for 1977. Aspen helped Dodge capture 15.1 per cent of compact car market sales.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Aug. 23, the 236th day of 1976. There are 130 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1775, King George III of England proclaimed that there was open rebellion in the American Colonies.

On this date:

In 1500, Christopher Columbus was accused of mistreating natives in Haiti. He was arrested and ordered sent back to Spain in chains.

In 1869, followers of Mary Baker Eddy obtained a charter in Lynn, Mass., to organize the Church of Christ, Scientist.

In 1914, Japan declared War on Germany in World War I.

In 1937, Japanese military forces landed at the Chinese city of Shanghai.

In 1944, Allied troops fighting in France in World War II captured the port of Marseilles.

Ten years ago: A Red Guard corps of young people was established in Peking to help enforce the Communist government's cultural revolution.

Five years ago: The United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France reached an accord on a draft of an agreement on the future of West Berlin.

Today's birthdays: Dancer Gene Kelly is 64 years old. Singer Tex Williams is 59.

Thought for today: A statesman is a politician who's been dead 10 or 15 years — President Harry Truman, 1884-1972.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, British Gen. William Howe, who had landed troops on New York's Long Island, called for American volunteers to join the Redcoats.

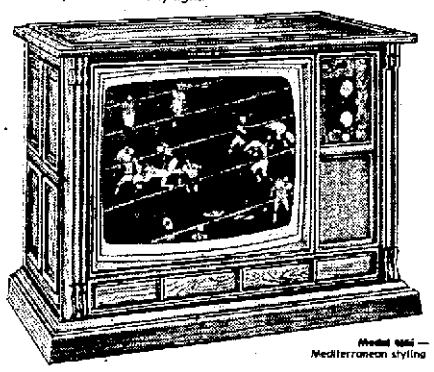

TRUSTEES Garden, near the Savannah river in Georgia, was part of the original plan for the colony as a source for vegetables, vines, fruit trees, and mulberry trees — the trees to be used in the silk industry founder James Oglethorpe wanted to establish — for the colonists.
